Insull Explains His Refusal to Yield Passport

Tells Consul Demand
Actually Threatens

PROTESTS U. S. MOVE

Bankers Called Before
Federal Judge in Loans Quiz

Athens, Greece—(AP)—Samuel Insull, wanted in Chicago to answer an indictment in connection with the collapse of his vast public utilities, wrote a letter to the American consul today explaining his reasons for refusing to surrender his passport and thus to facilitate extradition proceedings.

"Sir," he wrote, "I was very much surprised at your letter of yesterday informing me that the state department had instructed you to take up my passport.

"It seems that they don't know in Washington that my passport is valid until February, 1934, and that by its authority I can stay out of America in any country I choose.

"Since the passport was issued by the country of which I am a citizen, its withdrawal is impossible especially while I am traveling through foreign countries.

"Because a genuine citizen is transformed by his own country, against every sense of its obligation, into a scamp who can neither stay anywhere nor go anywhere, withdrawal of a passport is equivalent to withdrawal of citizenship. Therefore it is unnecessary for me to add that I cannot recognize your right to cancel my citizenship by surrendering to you my passport before its expiration.

"Further than that, I protest vigorously because, contrary to the first duty to an American citizen, who has lived honorably and whose life is a history of his own country, you try to deprive him indirectly of his citizenship, since withdrawal of a passport without any right has no other significance.

"I hope you will understand my grievance against proceedings which cannot be allowed by law, proceedings which have been repeated several times during my trip with a view to taking away my liberty against any law.

"I regret, while reserving all rights, not to be able to satisfy you."

BANKERS QUIZZED
Chicago—(AP)—Bankers who loaned money for the utility ventures of Samuel Insull before his power empire crumbled today had subpoenas to appear before Federal Judge Walter Lindley to explain the transactions.

The bankers were called as bondholders for the bankrupt Insull Utility Investments, Inc. The court is seeking assets of the firm. The bondholders contend the banks illegally hold collateral for loans. They insisted that the collateral constitutes assets wrongfully pledged and wrongfully accepted by the banks.

While Judge Lindley continued the investigation of assets, State Attorney John A. Swanson gave depositions of testimony that resulted in charges of larceny and embezzlement against Samuel Insull and his brother, Martin, to two assistants to take to Washington in attempts to obtain presidential warrants.

Swanson's aides, Assistant State Attorney Andrews Vlachos and Charles A. Bellows expected to leave this afternoon and plan to sail for Athens next week to expedite extradition of Samuel Insull, Sr. He is in Athens.

HEARING IN CANADA
Barrie, Ont.—(AP)—Martin J. Insull, indicted in Chicago in connection with the collapse of the utilities interests which he and his brother controlled, appeared again today and was remanded until Nov. 4, the date on which his bail of $50,000 expires.

Relief Views Are Outlined By Roosevelt

Duty of U. S. to Help
Where States Cannot Meet Needs, He Says

FOR JOB INSURANCE

Federal Government Can
Works, Nominee Avers

Albany, N. Y.—(AP)—Governor Roosevelt had added today to his views on the obligations of federal government, the declaration that when communities and states are unable to meet the unemployment relief needs "it becomes the positive duty of the federal government to step in to help."

Answering in a radio address last night a question propounded by welfare workers, "do you favor a substantial increase in federal relief outlays during the economic emergency," the Democratic candidate for the presidency said:

"I am very certain that the obligation extends beyond the states and to the federal government itself, if and when it becomes apparent that the states and communities are unable to take care of the necessary relief work."

Comparing the action he sponsored to provide unemployment relief in New York with the record of President Hoover's administration, Mr. Roosevelt reiterated a passage in his message to the state legislature in 1931, which read:

"Most Present Starvation
In broad terms, I assert that modern society acting through its government owes the definite obligation to prevent the starvation of the dire want of any of its fellow-men and women who try to maintain themselves but cannot. To these unfortunate citizens aid must be extended by the government; not as a matter of charity but as a matter of social duty."

Continuing, Mr. Roosevelt said: "That principle, which I laid down in 1931, I reaffirm. I not only reaffirm it; I go a step further and say that where the state itself is

Tells of Beating In Florida Camp

Cousin Seemed "Trying to Kill" Prisoner

Jackson, Fla.—(AP)—A rebuttal witness to the state testified today that George W. Courson, one of two former prison guards on trial for the sweat box death of Arthur Mallefert, beat a prisoner last May 25, "like he was trying to kill him."

The witness, R. J. Foy, said he was engaged in helping clear the right way for a highway on which convicts were working when he saw Courson flogging the man.

He testified after Courson denied he whipped a prisoner May 25, but he admitted he beat Mallefert "some time around April 18."

State Attorney Charles M. Durrance drew from Foy the story of the whipping of the prisoner in front of the stockade.

"How long did he whip him?" Durrance asked.

"Long enough."

"About how long?"

"I wouldn't call it whipping exactly. It looked to me like he was trying to kill him."

Judge George C. Gibbs later ruled that Foy's testimony was immaterial and irrelevant and ordered it stricken.

Barge Safe at Chicago

After Battling Storm

Chicago—(AP)—The motor-driven barge I. L. 1-103, object of an extensive search by coastguardsmen after being unreported for two days, was safe in port here today.

The barge, loaded with sugar, put into harbor late yesterday. Adverse winds and stormy weather, the crew reported, necessitated hugging the coast line and delayed progress.

The I. L. 1-103, which has a crew of 12 men, belongs to the Erie and St. Lawrence corporation of New York and plys regularly between eastern and lake ports and Michigan.

Board Gives Ultimatum To Chicago Teachers

Chicago—(AP)—A virtual ultimatum has been given by the board of education to school teachers who petitioned for closing of the schools "until such time as the people of Chicago realize that the schools are their concern and their responsibility."

Cyrille J. Taylor, a trustee, said he would favor "replacing any unpaid school teachers who walk out" adding that "there are thousands waiting for their jobs."

The petition was referred to the board's general committee.

HEADS TEACHERS' GROUP

Eau Claire—(AP)—Supt. H. C. Mason of River Falls, was elected president of the Northwestern Wisconsin Teacher's association at the closing session of its annual convention here today. He succeeds C. L. Dodge of Monvodi.

AUTHORIZES LOANS

Washington—(AP)—The Reconstruction corporation today authorized a loan of $81,166 to care for the needs of St. Louis, Mo., and the cities of St. Joseph, Nev., and Henrietta.

Outagamie, Brown Counties Named in $1,000,000 Tax Suit

Milwaukee—(AP)—Brown and Outagamie counties were named in a suit to recover back taxes of $1,000,000 collected over 20 years on the Oneida Indian reservation, filed in federal court here today on behalf of the Oneida Indian tribe and individual Indians.

Federal Judge F. A. Geiger signed a temporary restraining order preventing the counties from collecting further taxes and ordered the county clerks to appear Oct. 22 to show cause why the order should not be permanent. An injunction restraining collection of taxes was asked by counsel for the tribe.

The Oneidas contend that the treaty of 1838, ceding the reservation tract of 65,000 acres to the tribe, exempted them from county tax levies because of a provision that the land was not to come under the state's jurisdiction. The Oneidas, their counsel contend, were awarded the reservation as colonists during the Revolutionary war.

The Wisconsin tribe contains about 600 members, the attorney said.

Senator Johnson Rejects Plea to Support Hoover

Replies to Request of 70
Southern California
Newspapers

San Francisco—(AP)—Replying to a telegram from representatives of 70 southern California newspapers asking him to make a declaration of support of the Republican national and state tickets, Senator Hiram W. Johnson, California Progressive Republican, said today "I cannot and will not support Mr. Hoover."

Johnson repeatedly has criticized the Hoover administration. In a speech recently before the California Federation of Labor, he attacked the administration's relief and foreign debt policies.

Shortly thereafter Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential candidate, coming to California on his campaign tour, quoted an extract from the Johnson speech and praised the California senator as "long a warrior in the ranks of true American progress."

Roosevelt's remark brought a statement from Johnson in which he said the attitude of the Democratic candidate was "in sharp contrast with that Mr. Hoover has maintained toward progressivism and Progressives in California. . . . I personally immensely appreciate what he said and I am sure it is equally appreciated by the Progressive Republicans of this state."

"I have publicly expressed my views upon national policies and concerning the present administration upon the floor of the senate and otherwise. I had assumed those were known, particularly to Californians, and that there was no necessity again to express them in this campaign," Johnson's statement said.

Banker Offers A-1 Alibi for Absence
From Traffic Court

Evansville, Ill.—(AP)—When it comes to alibis, Norman B. Collins, Winnetka banker had one that defied Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter, but Mr. Porter got his $3 anyway.

"Where were you Monday?" asked the judge, curious to know why Collins failed to answer a traffic charge.

"Monday?" asked Collins. "Oh yes, I was kidnapped. The kidnapers wanted $5,000, but didn't get it."

"Three dollars," said the judge. "Is all I want."

Collins paid.

Can Europe Come Back?

This is the last of twenty-four articles on the possibilities of economic recovery in Europe written by H. R. Knickerbocker, noted Newspaper writer and investigator, who visited all the countries of Europe in the preparation of the series.

(Copyright 1932 by New York Evening Post)

London—Europe is coming back, and today the record of 4,000 miles of travel from the mud hovels of Budapest to the luxury of Mayfair justifies the judgment that this old continent is about to look over its shoulder, backward, at the perils that a few months ago were looming ahead.

The chief peril is past. The credit crisis is conquered. A tremor may yet come here or there, but the panic is allayed.

On the sickbed chart of this ailing world there shows today a row of symptoms pointing to recovery: Commodity prices have started upward.

Stock prices have leaped. The capital market is reviving. National bankruptcies have ceased.

Governments continue stable. Revolution does not come into serious consideration. Civil war is nowhere credible. War is more remote than ever. Many Nations Balance Budgets.

Most of the great countries have balanced their budgets. Currencies no longer collapse. Every government makes return to gold its aim.

Trade barriers have ceased to grow like mushrooms.

World commerce has flattened out its downward trend. International payments are balancing.

The trend to national self-sufficiency is checked. Reparations are settled. Germany, France and Italy have the largest crops in decades. Most of Europe's 400,000,000 are living better than ever before.

Europe has lost its fear of death, and "collapse" of the capitalist system is out of the question.

Many of the recovery symptoms here listed were not in sight when this investigation began. The upward turn to prices sent a breeze of optimism through the sickroom.

Today the big, long-term indexes of world economic life are recognized, even by the Germans, blackest of all European pessimists, as pointing aloft. Some of them are positively favorable, some are records of cessation in the downward trend. None is unqualifiedly bad, and for the first time since 1929 Europe has ceased to think the crisis had no bottom.

Still Possesses Remarkable Reserves
The impression after months of observation in Vienna, Prague, Budapest, Milan, Rome, Basle, Paris, Brussels, Berlin and London is the

Hurls Children Out of Window, Leaps to Death

Woman Writes Note Saying
Revenge Motive for Milwaukee Tragedy

Milwaukee—(AP)—Motives for the urge of self-destruction and revenge which prompted Mrs. Aurea Lorenz, 31, a divorcee, to hurl her brother's two small children to their deaths and then kill herself in a leap from the sixteenth floor of a downtown hotel, were being investigated by authorities here today.

The investigation centered on accusations made by Mrs. Lorenz in a hastily scrawled note in which she described herself as the victim of an incurable disease, and as one who had been "treated like a dog" by her family.

One of the principal figures in the inquiry was Rudolph Libo, a contractor, whose children, Vivian, 5, and Milton, 4, were killed by Mrs. Lorenz in revenge for real or fancied wrongs. She was detained at police headquarters on orders of Harry Ridenour, captain of detectives.

The children's mother, who collapsed when she learned of the tragedy late yesterday, and other members of the Libo family, including the mother and four other brothers, were ordered to appear at the police headquarters today for further questioning.

Authorities learned that Mrs. Lorenz returned to live with her family about three years ago after she was divorced from Joseph Lorenz, a wealthy Milwaukee masonry contractor and sportsman. She complained of ill health, relatives said, and traveled extensively, staying away from home for days at a time.

Goes to Hotel

Yesterday, while Mrs. Lorenz was alone with her sister-in-law and the children, she was given permission by Mrs. Libo to take the children for a walk. They had walked several blocks when Mrs. Lorenz called

Gelosi Returned to Madison in Slaying

Madison—(AP)—The object of extradition proceedings for several weeks, Joe Gelosi, 34, Elmira, N. Y., was in the Dane-co jail today awaiting arraignment on a charge of being an accessory to the slaying of Andrew Presti, Madison.

Presti was slain here July 5 and his body was found near Belvidere, Ill. Police believe he was slain in revenge for the killing of Gelosi's infant child three years ago.

Gelosi, a former Madison resident, was seized in an Elmira courtroom Wednesday by Madison detectives after the judge had denied him a writ of habeas corpus. The detective denied reports that they had taken Gelosi by force.

The officers said they took extreme caution to veil their departure because they saw four friends of the arrested man rush out of the courthouse to get the license number of the police car.

Erin's Oldest Woman Is Dead; Nearly 112 Years

Dundalk, Northern Ireland—(AP)—The Honorable Catherine Plunket, said to be Ireland's oldest inhabitant, died at her home here today, on Nov. 9 she would have been 112 years old.

This remarkable old lady was widely known throughout the United Kingdom and usually on her birthday, she received a telegram from the king and queen. She was the daughter of the second Baron Plunket, lord bishop of Tuam.

LOSES SIGHT OF ONE EYE

Lancaster, Wis.—(AP)—Neil Clements, prominent farmer and chairman of the town of Platteville, lost the sight of one eye last night when a small boy threw a piece of concrete through the windshield of Clements' car.

Bank Robber Suspects Facing Further Probe

Portage—(AP)—District Attorney Ross Bennett said today he planned to hold for further action two suspects in the Doylestown bank robberies who were identified yesterday by a number of witnesses.

Ten of the 14 persons who came over from Doylestown yesterday are said to have been positive in their identification of one or both of the suspects who were lined up in a "show off" with other prisoners.

The Doylestown bank was held up twice, the first time on Sept. 11, 1931, when four persons were shot, none fatally, and again several months later when an employee was killed. Police believe the same two men took part in both robberies.

Minnesota High Court Gets Extradition Case

St. Paul, Minn.—(AP)—The Minnesota Supreme court today had taken under advisement an appeal of Harold Ross, Duluth, in his fight against extradition to Wisconsin to face a charge of robbing the Cameron bank on June 15.

Ross is appealing a decision of the St. Louis-co district court at Duluth dismissing a habeas corpus proceeding he instituted after Gov. Olson had granted the extradition request.

J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general of Wisconsin, and A. J. Connors, Barron-co district attorney, represented Wisconsin in arguments yesterday.

Five Confess Guilt in Planting Bombs in 15 Milwaukee Theatres

Wisconsin university football followers will center their attention tomorrow afternoon on LaFayette, Ind., where the Badgers stake their title chances against Purdue's fighting Boilermakers. Both teams showed surprising strength last Saturday and their meeting Saturday is probably the most important in the Big Ten.

Lawrence is sending her Vikings to Northfield, Minn., to battle Carleton which is just recovering from its meeting with the Army, and Appleton high school hopes to continue its winning streak by taking Manitowoc into camp at Whiting field.

Complete running accounts of these games, and highly descriptive reports of the Michigan-Ohio game, the Illinois-Northwestern battle, the meeting between Indiana and Iowa and all the other important games in the country, will be printed in the Appleton Post-Crescent's Football Extra on the streets tomorrow afternoon at 6 o'clock. Not even the Sunday morning papers will have more complete accounts of Saturday's games, and you can read about them Saturday night while interest still is at fever heat.

Post-Crescent Football Extras will be sold in Appleton, Menasha, Neenah and Kaukauna. They'll be ready at 6 o'clock.

Candidate Asks Ouster Of Mayor of Chicago

Chicago—(AP)—State's Attorney John A. Swanson was requested today to institute quo warranto proceedings to remove Mayor A. J. Cermak from office by Attorney W. O'Brien, an independent candidate for governor, on the grounds that the mayor owns public utility stocks.

In answer to Swanson's instructions that he file a petition in proper legal form O'Brien said his petition was already in the mail. He said he would institute mandamus proceedings in the supreme court if Swanson does not act on the petition.

O'Brien said that an Illinois commerce commissioner's office became vacant if it is shown that the holder owns public utility stock. The mayor, as president of the city council, is subject to the same regulations, he said.

Nearly $100,000 Taken by Robbers

Grand Island, Neb.—(AP)—Six robbers who held up the Nebraska National bank here yesterday obtained $38,039 in currency and cash, bonds with a market value of $10,000 and collateral securities worth $48,000, of which $26,000 was in traveling checks.

The exact loss was announced this morning by A. J. Guendel, president of the bank. The bandits who carried two machine guns and automatic pistols also took $23,000 worth of bonds which are not negotiable. Guendel said the entire loss is covered by insurance.

Officers of Kansas and Nebraska today were searching for the bandits whose car was reported seen near Hebron, Neb., this morning.

The banker said only $26,000 worth of the collateral securities were negotiable.

Schmedeman in Attack Upon Madison Paper

Madison—(AP)—A. G. Schmedeman, Democratic candidate for governor, charged in a speech before a gathering of party workers here last night that Walter J. Kohler, his Republican rival, is associated with "scandalous and disreputable" activities.

"I recognized this foul-mouthed scoundrel," Kohler public utility attorney, simply because its news stories and editorials have been effectively used to point out the political hypocrisy of the whole situation with regard to the candidacies of Hoover-Kohler seekers after political office," Schmedeman said.

"Democrats, Progressives and liberal-minded voters and taxpayers in Wisconsin are much encouraged by the attention which is being given them by this propaganda sheet. It indicates more clearly than any other thing the desperate mood with which the Hoover-Kohler big business crowd of candidates view their small chances for success in fooling the people on Nov. 8."

Member of Manchukuo Council Dies of Wounds

Changchun, Manchuria—(AP)—Li Yi-Hsun, staff officer of the Manchukuo privy council who was hacked with an axe yesterday by General Chen Shieh-Yuan, former governor of Heilungkiang province, died today. General Chen had not been arrested up to this evening but Manchukuo authorities were discussing a suitable punishment.

"Stench Bombings" Reported Solved by Admissions

REPORT LABOR WAR
More Startling Revelations Promised by Police Chief

Milwaukee—(AP)—Four men and a high school youth today confessed planting bombs in 15 Milwaukee theaters in the last ten months, it was announced by Chief of Police Jacob G. Laubenehr.

Two other men are held and the chief promised additional and more startling revelations.

The confessions clear up the succession on "stench bombings" which have routed numerous theater audiences. Police did not indicate whether the arrests throw any light on the gun powder blast which damaged the Parkway theater and injured five persons in an audience of 800 last Saturday.

We expect to clean up the whole sordid case in 24 hours," Chief Laubenehr said. "It is just what we expected from the first—a war between rival labor organizations."

Members of Union
All of the men arrested, police said, are members of the Independent Motion Picture Operators' Union No. 110. It is an organization not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The men and the youth being held are Wayne Brant, 23, business agent and vice president of the Independent Union; Floyd Barfknecht, 26, assistant business agent and vice president; Leslie W. Moore, 23, an operator; Walter Siemieniwicki, 25, an operator; and Walter Misiwiec, 19, the high school student.

Misiwiec has studied chemistry for half a semester, and police believe he learned to make stench bombs of ammonium valerate which, on contact with air, produces an order of over-ripe cheese. The chemicals, police added, were sent here by express from New York, by a national officer of an organization of motion picture operators.

Dog's Barking Blamed
As Cause of Slaying

Fairbury, Neb.—(AP)—The barking of a dog was believed by officers today to have caused a quarrel at Daykin, Neb., which resulted in the slaying of Clarence Stainbrook, 40, a retired farmer, and serious injuries to his mother.

Dr. William Frantz, 52, an Ohioan, Neb., veterinarian who was found hiding in a garage at Daykin, is in jail in connection with the slaying late last night and Mrs. Marcus Stainbrook, 80, mother of the retired farmer, is in a hospital here, wounded critically. She suffered 11 knife gashes about her head, neck, chest and arms. Her son died of a knife wound which severed his jugular vein. The dog was wounded.

Frantz denied knowledge of the crime, but Deputy Sheriff C. B. Clarke who with Sheriff Foster Holvey arrested Frantz this morning, said the veterinarian admitted he was at the Stainbrook home last night, but denied there had been a quarrel.

Roosevelt to Discuss Bonus Issue in Speech

Albany, N. Y.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, said today he would define his stand on the soldiers' bonus in a forthcoming campaign speech. It was believed that the speech might be made during his next campaign trip which begins on Oct. 18.

News that Roosevelt would include discussion of the bonus in his campaign came in answer to questions by newspaper men regarding a letter said to have been written by the candidate to a newspaper editor at Hammond, N. J. The reported letter quoted Roosevelt as saying he would talk on the bonus.

Newspapermen asked the nominee about the letter, and the governor answered that it had "been known all along that I was going to say something about the bonus."

Thinks Hoover Mised During Bonus Crisis

B. E. F. Leader Certain President Misinformed In Ordering Out Troops

Washington—(P)—Belief that President Hoover "did not understand the true situation or was misinformed" in directing the eviction of bonus marchers from camps here last summer today was expressed by Hoke Smith, field commander of the bonus expeditionary force.

He made this statement last night after a B. E. F. delegation he headed had been received by the president. The statement continued in part:

"I am glad that the president saw fit to receive the committee of delegates elected by its national convention."

"We feel that this proves that the bonus expeditionary force was not the 'criminal group' that was so viciously attacked by the attorney general during the middle of September. Retrospection often brings understanding even among high government officials."

"Our severe censure was directed at Mr. Hoover, the individual, for the drastic means used in the forcible eviction of the bonus expeditionary force from the District of Columbia and not at the chief executive of the country that we love so well and we feel that this drastic action on his part was because he did not understand the true situation or was misinformed by those on whom he relied for a true picture of the situation."

"Censure" to Hines referred to by Smith was contained in a resolution he gave to newspapers and said was a copy of the one presented to Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans affairs, in the presence of the president.

Before seeing Mr. Hoover, Smith conferred for over an hour with Walter Newton, one of the presidents' secretaries. Afterward he conferred with General Hines. Newton in a statement quoted Mr. Hoover as saying he was pleased the bonus seekers had decided not to repeat the scenes that occurred in Washington during the last spring and summer. His statement added:

"The president said that he was pleased that they had not presented with a petition which had been reported in the press, as it contained statements offensive to the dignity of the office of the presidency and that he was glad they had decided not to present it at the White House."

Smith said the delegation had been "shown every courtesy" at the White House. He urged immediate payments of the bonus and assistance for destitute veterans.

Name Nadel Head Of Fall Festival

Appointed Chairman of General Committee for November Event

Edward Nadel was named chairman of the committee in charge of the annual Fall Festival of Appleton merchants at a meeting of the retail division of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce in the chamber offices Friday morning. He will be assisted by Ray Eichleberger and William Perron, sub-chairmen. The festival will be held early next month.

Plans for decorations, posters, and other detailed plans are to be made by members of five special committees. Committee chairmen and workers are to be selected by Chairman Nadel within the next few days.

The division voted to assist Lawrence college students in their annual Homecoming program here next Friday and Saturday.

A report on the drive for a $1,000 fund to be used in defraying expenses of various cooperative fall trade events showed that thus far $500 in cash has been subscribed by merchants. It has been decided to continue the drive for a few more days until the quota is reached.

Entertainment Given By Sophomore Class

A miscellaneous program of entertainment was given Wednesday and Thursday afternoons at Appleton high school by 32 members of the sophomore class. Dan Murphy acted as master of ceremonies, and Charles Pierce was in charge of properties.

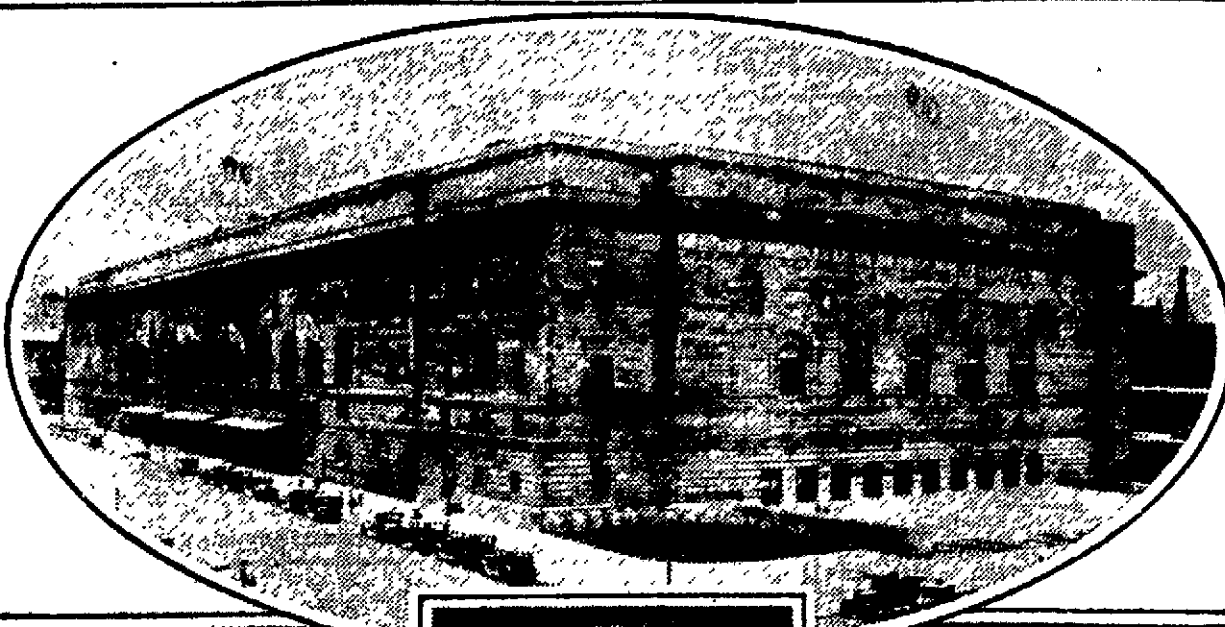

A sketch, "Bashful Lovers," was presented by Dorothy Belling, Thomas Catlin, Lenora Temmer, Leila Pfund, Dolores Bleier, and Florence Seeger. Anthony Mignon played an accordion number, Jane Bernhardt and Lester Schmidt sang a duet, and Mary Bartie, June Fowler, Mary Voeks and Geraldine Schmidt danced. Those who took part in the musical novelty were Emily Indermuehle, cellist, Ella Haertel, violinist, and Marion Rolle, pianist. Leone Werner, Charlotte Rietler, Helen Rhoder, and Marion Rule made up a harmony quartet.

A school room scene was enacted by John Paul Frank, schoolmaster, Roland, Choudoir, Douglas Heckle, Bernadette Verrier, Jean Noldig, Grace Murphy, Bernice Middlesteadt, Robert McNeish, Thomas Schneider, Margaret Williams and Norman Williams.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Application for marriage licenses was made today at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk, by three couples. They are: Alvin Wisniewski, Seymour, and Erna Mueller, route 2, Seymour; Earl Miller, Black Creek, and Ethel, Greenfield; and William Wozel, Kaukauna, and Ruby Van Siphout, Little Chute.

HOOVER TAKES THE STUMP IN OHIO FOR FINAL DRIVE

President Hoover is going back on the stump in his final drive for re-election. He will make his first speech of the 1932 campaign in a large eastern industrial city on Saturday, Oct. 15, when he makes a week-end trip to Cleveland. The president will speak in Cleveland's vast Public Hall, shown above. It has a seating capacity of 12,000. Hoover will be making his bid there to hold Ohio in Republican ranks. Polls have indicated Ohio will be a pivotal state in the election.

Roosevelt Maps Out His Position On Relief Action

Federal Government Must Help Where States Fail, He Declares

unable successfully to fulfill this obligation which lies upon it, it then becomes the positive duty of the federal government to step in to help."

Mr. Roosevelt asserted he thought it "fair to point out that a complete program of unemployment relief was on my recommendation actually under way in New York over a year ago, and that in Washington relief funds in a large volume were pushed through at the demand of congress rather than through the leadership of the president."

"Public Works Issue Taking up another question which asked if he favored 'substantially increased public works appropriations to aid unemployment,' Mr. Roosevelt said:

"There are two ways of paying for public works. One is by the sale of bonds. In principle such bonds should be issued only to pay for self-sustaining projects or for structures which will without question have a useful life over a period of years. The other method of payment is from current revenues, which in most cases means added taxes. And we all know that there is a very definite limit to the increase of taxes above the present limit."

"I am confident that the federal government working in cooperation with states and cities can do much to carry on increased public works and along lines which are sound from the economic and financial point of view."

A question regarding compulsory unemployment insurance brought from him.

"This is no new policy for me. I have advocated unemployment insurance in my own state for some time, and indeed last year six eastern governors were my guests at a conference which resulted in the drawing up of what might be called an ideal plan of unemployment insurance."

Mr. Roosevelt said he favored continuing the "fine work" of the children's bureau of the labor department.

"Attempts have been made to cut the appropriations for child welfare work," he continued. "It seems to me this is the last place in which we should seek to economize."

He declared he favored keeping children in school until they were 16.

Beg Pardon

Anton M. Miller, Little Chute, did not take out independent nomination papers in his own behalf at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk, last Monday, as the Post-Crescent stated Tuesday. Erroneous information resulted in the story. Mr. Miller took out the nomination papers to be circulated for Samuel Sigman, candidate for district attorney.

Erect Scaffolding to Letter P. O. Building

Workmen of the Tapager Construction Co. have erected scaffolding in front of the new postoffice building preparatory to lettering the building. The U. S. Postoffice inspection will be lettered across the upper part of the structure. Due to a delay in receiving the bronze letters from the treasury department, the work was not done prior to this time.

Change of Address

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of a series of articles by Carl Reicher, city clerk, on hints to voters.

In one month in the city of Appleton there are over 100 registered electors who change their address within the city. A very small per cent notify the city clerk when they move. As a result, when election day comes many are not registered in the proper precinct and must "sweat it" their votes. They are not allowed to vote in the precinct where they formerly lived. Much trouble and confusion will be avoided if registered electors will notify the city clerk upon change of residence. This can be done by sending a signed request or by applying in person for a transfer. When writing to the city clerk be sure to give the new address and the former address; also the names of all the registered electors in the family who have changed their address. The city clerk cannot take it for granted that the husband and wife moved with the rest of the family. There are many cases when only one or the other move.

Plan Favored for Medical Relief

Proposal of Medical Society Approved by City Committee

Recommendation that the system of caring for indigent patients suggested by the Outagamie County Medical society be accepted was made by the committee on public relief at a meeting at city hall Thursday afternoon. The plan provides for a committee of doctors which will make free diagnoses in indigent cases, and which will fix the charges on synopses of cases presented by the family physician of the indigent.

It was suggested that the city name a city surgeon to do all indigent surgical work, but this plan did not meet with the approval of the committee of doctors which conferred with the relief committee. An attempt will be made to bring about a reduction in hospital rates for indigent cases.

Representatives of the medical society who appeared at the meeting were Dr. Carl Neidhold, Dr. J. L. Benton, and Dr. A. E. Rector.

Southern Breezes to Bring Warner Weather

Skies will be cloudy and the mercury will rise tonight and Saturday, the weatherman says. Unsettled weather is slated for Saturday.

Cloudy skies with warmer weather is the general forecast for the entire midwest for the next 24 hours. Winds are blowing from the south, a good indication that balmy breezes will prevail. At 6 o'clock Friday morning the mercury registered 42 degrees above zero and at noon it registered 56 degrees above.

Shiocton Woman Hurt In Automobile Crash

Miss Grace Bodoh, route 2, Shiocton, was slightly injured and her automobile badly damaged in a collision with another machine driven by Victor Beckman, Greenfield, on Highway 41 near the E. Wisconsin-ave. Wrecking Co. garage, registered at 42 degrees above zero and at noon it registered 56 degrees above.

Cleveland has not given a Republican presidential candidate a majority since the 1920 election. Clevelanders are wondering if President Hoover may appear at the speaking platform wearing horn-rimmed glasses, since it has been learned that he uses them for reading in his study. The president never has appeared in public wearing spectacles. His prepared speeches are typed in larger letters than those of ordinary typewriters.

Fruit, Vegetable Prices Quoted at New Low Levels

Large Variety of Fresh Produce on Appleton Stands This Weekend

Quoted at some of the lowest marks in the past half century, prices on fresh fruits and vegetables in Appleton stands are now 15 to 20 per cent lower than in the same period a year ago. Vegetables especially are selling at record low prices.

Silver skin onions are quoted as low as 3 cents a pound; spinach, 10 cents a pound; beans, 10 and 15 cents a pound; lima beans, 12 cents a pound; cucumbers, 10 cents each; mushrooms, 45 to 49 cents a pound; alligator pears, 25 cents each, and celery cabbage, 10 to 15 cents.

Brussels sprouts are quoted this week at 20 to 25 cents a quart; tomatoes, 5 cents a pound; endives, two for 25 cents; egg plant, 15 cents each; Spanish onions, 10 cents a pound; vegetable oysters, 10 cents a bunch; parsnip, 8 cents a pound; summer squash, 10 cents each; garlic, 35 cents a pound; parsley, 10 cents a bunch, and red cabbage, 4 cents a pound.

The fruit market is quoted as follows: Lemons, 60 cents a dozen; oranges, 29 to 49 cents a dozen; apples 3 to 7 cents a pound depending on grade and variety; red grapes, three pounds for 25 cents; white grapes, 15 cents per basket; pears, 29 cents a dozen; plums, 5 cents a dozen; bananas, three pounds for 19 cents; ground cherries, 15 cents a dozen; peaches, 19 cents a dozen; watermelon, 15 to 20 cents, and seckel pears, 5 cents a pound.

Verdict to Influence Cooperatives' Future

Outagamie-co farmers are interested in a case in which arguments were made this week before the state supreme court. State officials believe the outcome of the case will greatly influence the future of the cooperative movement in Wisconsin.

The case, Spencer Shipping association against Schultz and others, will test the right of a private buyer to purchase livestock already under contract to a cooperative.

Counsel for the defendant and appellant, William E. Schultz, contended that no title passed by the signing of a contract between a shipping association and its members. Such an association is a bargaining group and not a purchasing agency, it was argued.

Association counsel replied that Schultz had no right to buy livestock under contract to a cooperative whose contracts were filled with the register of deeds.

Keller to Talk at Dem Meeting Tonight

Gustave Keller, Sr., will speak at a Democratic rally at 7:30 tonight at the village hall at Kimberly. Mr. Keller will discuss the issues in the present campaign and will urge support for the complete Democratic slate of candidates for county, state and national offices. The meeting is being sponsored by the newly organized Roosevelt-Garner club at Kimberly. George Sauter is president and Paul Lockschmidt is secretary.

Start Construction Of New Skating Rink

Work on a new skating rink for the Fourth ward was started Friday morning by street department employees. The rink will be about 100 feet square, will be located in a vacant lot at the corner of Weimar and Newberry-sts., loaned to the city by W. A. Fannon. In return for the use of the lot for a rink the city will keep the weeds on the lot cut during the summer months.

Japanese Airmen Warn Foreigners To Avoid Danger

Drop Leaflets From Planes On Region Facing Possible Bombardment

Mukden, Manchuria—(P)—Japanese headquarters here announced today that airplane had dropped leaflets printed in English over a number of points in the area west of Mukden, where an offensive against Chinese insurgents is under way, warning all foreigners to withdraw or concentrate in one city.

It was estimated the area contains 20 foreigners, including 8 American Catholic missionaries from the Maryknoll Mission headquarters at Ossining, N. Y.

Most of these were believed to be at Fushun, inside the Japanese lines, and out of danger.

The Japanese said the drive against the insurgents was proceeding "according to plan."

"You must do everything you can to prevent exposing yourselves to danger," the leaflets dropped from the Japanese planes read.

Advancing with unexpected speed in a sweeping enveloping movement from every direction, the Japanese announced they already have captured half of the Tungpung bandit zone which covers 20,000 square miles.

They took Hsingtun without a struggle. In that town are two American Catholic missionaries, the Rev. Gerard Donovan, of Pittsfield, Mass., and the Rev. Alonzo Escalante of New York. The Presbyterian missionary, the Rev. Lloyd Henderson of Philadelphia, also is there.

There were heavy engagements at various points in other areas. The Japanese said the Chinese dead were so numerous that they could not count the bodies. Prisoners are executed where they are taken.

Political agents of the Manchukuo government are following the Japanese troops, explaining to the natives the meaning of the new regime and establishing local government.

Today Japanese army pigeons, flying 250 miles across the snow-capped mountains, brought the first news of a fierce battle at Santal, near Tahodzu, in which 2,000 Chinese insurgents were said to have been killed.

In a telephone message from Fushun, Monsignor Lane, who is in charge of 20 American Catholic missionaries in southeastern Manchuria, reported that all his men were safe and well.

Seek Applicants For Police Jobs

Commission to Conduct Examinations for Sergeant and Patrolman

Applications for positions of sergeant and patrolman on the Appleton police department will be received by the police and fire commission until Oct. 31, after which the date for examinations will be announced.

The position of sergeant was left vacant through the promotion of Herbert Kapp to lieutenant. Recent discharge of a patrolman left a vacancy for that position. Applicants for the position of sergeant must have served three years as patrolman in this city, and those seeking the office of patrolman must be between 23 and 33 years of age, a maximum of five feet, eight inches in height and must have been residents of the city for three years as American citizens.

Wisconsin Weather
Partly cloudy and slightly warmer tonight; Saturday unsettled; warmer in east portion.

General Weather
Continued fair weather prevails over almost the entire country this morning except that it is cloudy and unsettled over the upper lakes and northern Rocky Mountains.

Light scattered showers have occurred over Wisconsin, upper Michigan and eastern Minnesota and Iowa during the past 24 hours. It is slightly cooler this morning over most of the eastern states, with heavy frosts reported from the New England states, but temperatures are rising over the lake region and upper Mississippi Valley. Fair and slightly warmer is expected in this section tonight, followed by unsettled and warmer Saturday.

The rink will be about 100 feet square, will be located in a vacant lot at the corner of Weimar and Newberry-sts., loaned to the city by W. A. Fannon. In return for the use of the lot for a rink the city will keep the weeds on the lot cut during the summer months.

All other rinks in the city have been graded and are ready for use as soon as weather permits. The city rinks are located at the Fourth ward school, the corner of Spencer and Outagamie-sts. First Ward school and Erb park. There are two rinks under the jurisdiction of the park board, one in the Fifth ward park and one in Jones park.

Record Crowd Attends White House Reception

Washington—(P)—Through the historic White House last night went the largest aggregation ever to attend an evening reception there—so large that President Hoover retired before he had finished shaking hands with the oncoming guests.

President and Mrs. Hoover had clasped the hands of three thousand persons, and it was estimated that there were more than one thousand more to come, when he was prevailed upon to retire.

As the bronze gates of the grand stairway, closed behind the presidential party, ascending to second floor private quarters, Captain Walter Vernon, White House naval aide, announced to the chatting crowd in the east room that Mr. and Mrs. Hoover were tired after a strenuous day. He added that they wished to be excused but to have their guests continue to enjoy the hospitality of the White House.

Later, it was learned that the president had suffered a small cut on his right hand during the reception, and that when it began to bleed he felt it would be wise to discontinue handshaking.

A few minutes after Mr. and Mrs. Hoover had retired from the gala scene downstairs, Dr. Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, reported the president "feeling fine," but slightly tired from his active day, which had included having a cornerstone for the new supreme court building during a drizzling rain.

As in the winter social season, many of the guests remained after the president had gone upstairs, to dance in the east room.

Though many failed to meet the president and Mrs. Hoover in the blue room, they had remained there longer, and had shaken hands with more people, than is customary at such functions. The usual winter reception crowd seldom exceeds two thousand.

Last night's occasion was the judicial reception, usually included in the December and January calendar, but this year made the social climax to the annual meeting of the American Bar association, with its 1,500 delegates; and to the cornerstone ceremonies which brought as guests famous jurists from other countries.

Great bouquets of roses and chrysanthemums decorated the first floor reception rooms. It was the season's first formal fashion parade but among the elaborately gowned women and men in full dress suits were some in street clothes—something that seldom happens at White House receptions.

Mrs. Hoover was gowned in a soft, dull silk of gunmetal shade with a slight train. For her, too, it had been a strenuous day, with a radio broadcast shortly before the reception.

Interest in the east room centered long about Lord and Lady Reading of England, who held an informal soiree by the gold piano. Lady Reading was gowned in white, filled in white ostrich-feathers at the back of the neck.

Egg Prices Rise Due to Shortage; Farmers Eat Hens

Following a season featured by lowest prices in many years, egg values are suddenly turning upward due to a shortage, according to grocers. Last summer, in the flush of the season, farmers were paid as low as 10 cents and merchants sold eggs to their customers at the same figure.

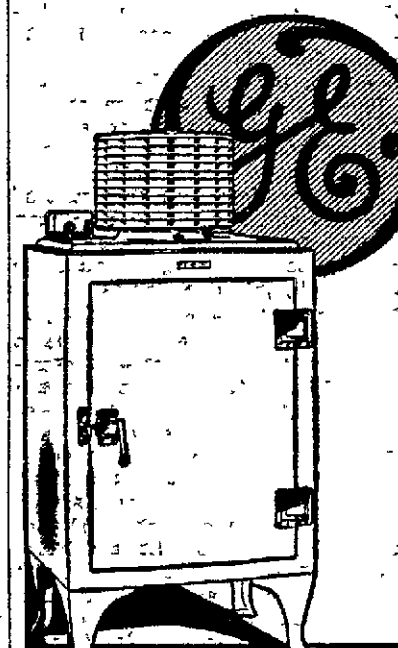

Because of the low prices, it is said, poultry owners started selling their chickens, believing it was more profitable to save feed costs than to sell eggs at such a low figure. As a result dealers are noticing the shortage and cannot buy eggs. One dealer said that because of the shortage, farmers would rather eat their hens than raise them for the low priced eggs.

At the present time farmers are being paid from 24 to 26 cents a dozen and grocers are selling them at 28 and 30 cents a dozen. A year ago farmers received from 18 to 22 cents and grocers sold them for 22 cents a dozen.

Valley League Swaps Ideas on Relief Steps

Officials Outline Programs Followed in Their Own Cities

The public relief centipede, whose hundred legs stretch out in all directions, and who each month develops new legs which wiggle wildly until they touch ground, was discussed from all angles at the meeting of the Fox River Valley League of Municipalities at city hall last night. Attempts were made to sever some of the old legs, and to find a stamping ground for some of the new ones, and the league members were warned that the centipede is growing more obese every day.

Solutions to the problems of the homeowner who is in danger of losing his home because of back payments, the indigents who need costly medical and surgical attention, the children who cannot afford school gymnasium, locker and book fees, the farmers who cannot pay back their seed loans, the transient, and the morale of indigents, were discussed, and representatives of the valley cities swapped ideas for handling all kinds of cases and for purchasing commodities at reasonable prices.

Must Aid Deserving
Judge F. V. Heinemann, county judge and chairman of the Appleton Welfare and Relief council, discussed the relief question in the valley, and explained to the members of the league the decision of the supreme court in the matter of the county's claim to the estate of a man who had been receiving an old age pension for years prior to his death. The judge's decision in the case of a deceased pensioner in the town of Grand Chute was upheld this week by the state tribunal, thus setting a precedent for cases of this kind.

Assuring the group that the public would not look askance at any expenditures for public relief, the judge pointed out that it is the duty of the county to aid anyone within its borders, and that just as no man would turn away a hungry man who came to his back door, no one who is deserving should be neglected by relief agencies.

Speaking of the cost of medical aid, he said that he looked upon every doctor and dentist as a semi-public official, and that it was expected that every man in these professions would use the same ethics as a lawyer who takes the case of a person in trouble and bides his time in the matter of reimbursement. He contended that 50 per cent of the persons who are helped in time of trouble will make payment as soon as they are able. He also expressed the opinion that no man at all idle all professional men should extend themselves to help needy human beings during a time of distress such as this.

No R. F. C. Funds
A number of cities, it was revealed, buy groceries and food for persons who are attempting to buy their own homes, and permit them to apply the little money they earn on the payments on their homes. It was suggested, however, by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., that in cases where this is done it should be understood that these people are obligated to eventually return this money to the municipalities.

No money for this purpose will be available from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, Anton Jansen of Little Chute pointed out, unless a municipality is bonded to its limit, and is unable to meet payment of its bonds or interest on its bonds. A committee of three, Mr. Jansen, county probate officer, A. C. Bosser, city attorney of Appleton, and M. F. Crowley, city attorney at Menasha, was named to investigate the possibility of aid under the new home loan bill.

Mr. Jansen explained the medical aid plan with which Outagamie-co is now experimenting. One of a committee of five doctors named by the Outagamie County Medical society, can be called upon to confirm the diagnosis of a family physician in indigent cases, and when medical aid is given a synopsis of the case, without fixed charge, will be presented to a committee of medical men which will determine the value of the services given. The county also is attempting to secure reduced hospital fees. Neenah and Menasha, it was explained, pay only 50 per cent of the

Poor Drainage Results in Injury to Lawn Grasses

Lawn grasses are so hardy that no damage is done to them by low temperatures alone. But extensive winter damage may result from poor drainage, and from the heavy action of alternate freezing and thawing.

Water expands when frozen and contracts when it thaws, as is well known to most gardeners. Since soil is usually moist in the winter, expansion and shrinkage occur whenever freezing and thawing take place. Freezing lifts the soil and thawing lets it drop, at the same time making it soft and wet. The action is most violent near the surface, since winter thawing is seldom deep, so that shallow rooted plants are often heaved entirely out of the ground by repeated thaws.

Grass which has developed a deep, sturdy root system, will resist heaving successfully. Poorly nourished grass will have shallow roots and may suffer serious injury. A relatively poor lawn may be put into condition by proper attention this fall, though it would be much better if it were cared for throughout the season, and fed to produce a heavy growth which will kill out weeds, and resist the heat of midsummer.

The most important factor in producing a sturdy, deep rooted turf, is adequate plant food. Grass makes heavy demands upon the soil and will quickly exhaust its foods supplied by regular hospital fees at Theda Clark hospital.

It was suggested that boards of education be consulted in the matter of alleviating the burden of books, gymnasium and locker fees for those students who can pay them only at great sacrifice.

Cuts Meat Bill
Little Chute has cut down its meat bills by the distribution of liver instead of some of the higher priced meats, has instructed its doctors to make indigent calls only when the poor committee authorizes them, and will ask its indigents to saw their own wood and make their own sauerkraut this winter. Mr. Jansen also suggested that some of the expensive hospital cases now on the county's hands could be placed in homes where other indigents could earn part of their aid by caring for the ailing indigents.

Mayor N. G. Remmel from Menasha described the efforts of his city to turn over vocational school facilities to teach cooking and sewing to indigent mothers, and Joseph E. Schweitzer, Appleton public relief commissioner, explained the cooking school that is being organized at the Appleton Vocational school.

Joseph Doerflinger of Kimberly, president of the Fox River valley league asked the league members to start worrying about the problem of rehabilitating the indigent after the depression is over, pointing out that the problem of re-establishing morale was going to be a tremendous one.

Mr. Jansen reported that as soon as arrangements could be made mayors from Fond du Lac to Green Bay would be asked to go to Madison to confer with the governor on the matter of rerouting Highway 41.

Keep in Step With Times, Ford Advises

Character Needed in Business Management, Merchants Told

The necessity of keeping in step with changing times and the movement of the country's economic pulsations was stressed by William S. Ford, Milwaukee management engineer, in the first of a series of three talks on "Business Management in a Recovery Period" at a meeting of Appleton Chamber of Commerce at Hotel Northern yesterday afternoon.

A ray of hope was drawn from economic depressions of other centuries and an optimistic note was sounded by him. He traced the history of other depressions and he illustrated his points with motion pictures and stereopticon charts and graphs.

Character in management is as necessary as keeping pace with changing times if a business is to endure long, the speaker said. Pointing out that the period from 1896 to 1920 was the age of rising prices, he said the rise in values. He said he had faith in present day "common sense" management, but said firms must exercise new strategy in character of management.

Seek Scape Goat

"We are in the midst of a political campaign and, stung by the suffering of a three year depression, the great mass of us have forgotten our own indiscretions of four years ago and are looking about for a scape goat," the utilities, the government and the president to be offered as a sacrifice so we can go merrily on our reckless way," Mr. Ford declared.

"But it must be evident that back of the noise of the campaign, back of the publicity given to economics, profound changes in the buying habits of our people and in the conduct of business affairs are slightly making themselves felt."

"These changes baffle us. They have us jittery and nervous and worried. We have lost confidence in our own judgment and in the predictions of our learned economists."

He said the Washington bicentennial of this year has called forcibly to our attention the changes which have taken place. Mount Vernon in the 1790's looked out over a crude and desolate country. There were no roads worthy of the name—five days from Philadelphia to Baltimore. The weather was not unknown. Five miles per hour 40 miles per day was good time on the highways and salt pork was common diet, he stated.

"The thirteen states were sore in a thin line along the Atlantic coast. The War of the Revolution was scarcely over when hostilities broke out between England and France and for 20 years their energies were devoted to war and destruction."

Demand For Products

"The result was a demand for American agricultural products and prices rose, carrying profit to the farmer, and the eighteenth century closed with moderate prosperity."

"The period of the World War is too recent to dwell upon. But headlines from the New York Tribune of August, 1914, vividly recall to our minds the dull apprehension with which the world received news of what was to change the face of the earth."

"Business had already been on its way down when the war broke out. The first reaction was to send it into a state of stagnation. The demands for material mounted until November, 1918, the facilities of the whole nation were concentrated on destruction."

Mr. Ford said the collapse of the market in November, 1929, gave the country a shock comparable only to that of 1914. The reaction again was one of dull comprehension, he stated.

"Search the papers of December of that year and you will find them full of statements that there was nothing to worry about—from whom? From the men in positions of greatest knowledge of conditions, many of whom now would make a scape goat of the president for not being able then to forecast the Daw-Jones averages as of July, 1932."

"The headlines of Nov. 19, 1929, tell the story of the early attempt to stem the tide of suffering, and those of December, 1930. Since that time millions have become billions in the most gigantic entry of government into business ever known, with the possible exception of Russia."

"During the week in which the president made his appeal for a continuation of these policies which have cushioned the effects of the depression, 'Business Week' reported an upturn in general business which has later turned downward."

"On Oct. 8 when the Daw-Jones average for industrial broke through the supposed resistance point of 60.39 one well informed man predicted Steel common would go to $5. Another said the trend is upward. It is anybody's guess. Before we get jumpy and run to cover let us look about us a bit with heads up and see if it isn't worthy of a fight."

Trend Toward Speed

Discussing changes in the last decade, the speaker said the trend has been in speed rather than the character of living. Good roads, educational advantages, fast transportation, radio are enjoyed by almost the entire population of even the smallest villages, he said.

"But agriculture, which means so much to cities as Kansas City, has suffered tremendously and American prosperity in non-agricultural lines would have been greater if the 6,000,000 American farmers were flourishing."

"In Chicago they are preparing to celebrate in a more quiet and less spectacular manner the accomplishments of science and industry. And incidentally the unique construction of this and other buildings suggests that the next decade may see a revolution in residential, industrial and office construction.

"Air conditioning, new materials and perhaps, greatest of all, a conception of architecture which is not completely dominated by our business civilization, as James Trueslow Adams characterizes our modern age, may provide that stimulation which is so urgently needed in the new construction field."

"Today all eyes are on Washington. In that city there are rising tremendous buildings where part of the huge payroll of our mounting government service will perform its work in air conditioned space while the farmer sweats out his mortgage."

"Contrasting the present depression with those of former years, the speaker said that looking back we recall how George Washington himself remarked, 'assailed in such indecent terms as could be applied to Nero, a notorious defaulter or a common pick-pocket.'

"We recall how Lincoln, tormented by job hunters and self-seekers, accused of collusion with contractors, high hatted by his cabinet, was called 'an ignorant country-bor' by a New York editor. All men in high places in critical times have had to stand the fire of unjust criticism."

"But whatever be our political

"There are some folks in business—there are many folks in politics—who resent the notion that conditions will ever get better and wish to enjoy our temporary misery."

"But no one can occupy the high office of president and be other than confident of the future of this great country."

Dress Up Your Garden For Months of Winter

Many people plan gardens and shrubbery borders so that something will be in bloom from early spring to late fall, and having achieved a satisfying succession of bloom with an interesting foliage background, rest contented with the result. And they have reason to feel that they have done well, for it is no small achievement to keep the garden tastefully dressed according to the ever-changing modes of foliage and flower.

But how about those months that come between fall and spring—must the garden wear "just anything" during that trying season? This is a good time of the year to give a little thought to providing an interesting, colorful winter costume for your garden. Of all seasons when the garden needs gay-colored attire, winter certainly heads the list.

Get some of the shrubs that have colorful bark in winter. By contrast they make even the browns and blacks look gay. Plant plenty of bright-berried shrubs near the house. Not only do they contribute their full share of beauty to the garden's winter wardrobe, but they draw the cheerful, hardly little winter birds to your grounds.

Evergreens are indispensable for the note of warmth they lend the garden's winter ensemble. They give an excellent background for the bright hued berries and twigs, and when massed at strategic points bring about a feeling of snugness in the home place where otherwise a shivery exposure of sweeping winter winds might be felt.

In the Dogwood or Cornus group we find the best example of shrubs with colored bark for winter. There are several of these which vary in color from the crimson through the deep red and into the purple. One variety has yellow bark, and when grouped with the red-twigged sorts, will give a touch of lively contrast.

Trade In Your Worn Tires for Safe Gripping Non-Skid Firestone Tires

LIBERAL trade-in allowance—now—on all Firestone High Speed and Heavy Duty Tires!

Why take a chance on worn, smooth, uncertain tires when you can buy Firestone non-skid safe, proven tires at lowest prices.

Firestone Tires are designed to grip the road. The non-skid tread is thick, tough and gives 25% longer non-skid safety.

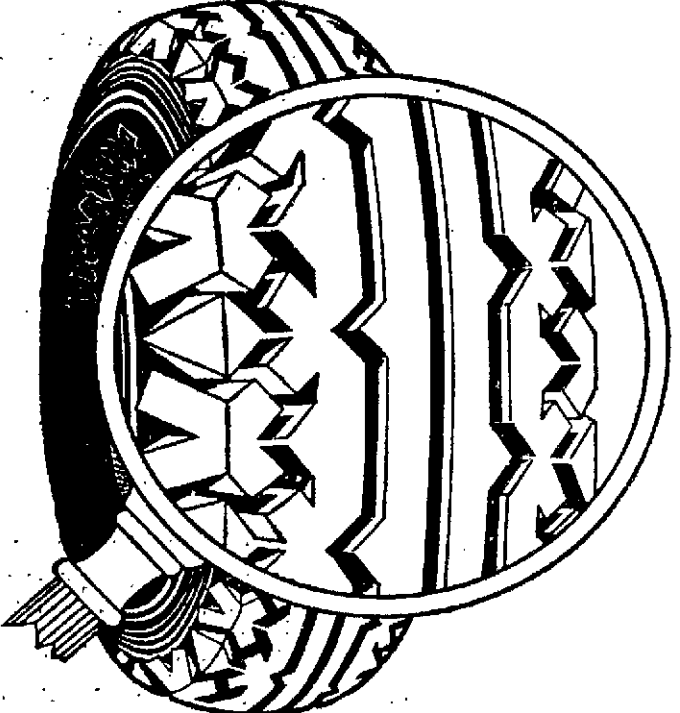

Glen Schultz only last month set a new world's record in climbing Pike's Peak, in 16 min. 47 sec. His top speed, was 78 miles per hour—negotiating many hair-raising turns where a skid or a tire failure meant death.

It's that kind of stamina that makes Firestone Tires safe and economical for you.

That's why race drivers use Firestone Tires. They won't risk their lives on any other make.

No tire in the world has the Firestone endurance. That is because Gum-Dipping, the patented Firestone process, transforms the cotton cords into tough, sinewy units. It means that the liquid rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber, assuring protection against internal heat. Two extra Gum-Dipped Cord Plies under the Tread, give 56% stronger bond between tread and cord body.

Don't buy cheap tires that are only made to sell. Don't risk your life on wet, slippery pavements these October days—Use the same precaution race drivers use. Trade in your old tires—We will give you a liberal allowance on Firestone Tires—the safest tires in the world.

The Firestone tread is designed with angles and projections to give the maximum traction and non-skid. Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires hold all world records on road and track for Safety—Speed—Mileage and Endurance.

Hits "False Slogans" Of Hoover Opponents

New Holstein, Wis.—(P)—John B. Chapple, Republican nominee for United States senator, charged in an address here Thursday that "false slogans and misleading promises are being employed in an effort to defeat Hoover."

One such slogan, urged as a reason to vote against the president, is, "things cannot be any worse than they are," Chapple said.

"Anyone who knows conditions in other countries knows they are worse than conditions in the United States, and that they can be much worse in our country if we do not stick to the sound principles imbedded in the Republican party platform," Chapple said.

THE RECOUNT AS A LESSON

Mr. Wheeler has won the Republican nomination for district attorney in a recount which has been amazing in its revelations of irregularities and mistakes on the part of election officials and sublime ignorance on the part of a large group of voters. Never before in the history of this county has an election been subjected to such careful scrutiny, and certainly no one has ever dreamed of such a deplorable situation in the receiving and counting of ballots as this recount revealed. There hardly can be a doubt that many a man has been sent into political oblivion in the past by the reckless carelessness of election boards.

Granted that the election law in many instances should be clarified, that ballots are counted late at night under distressing conditions and that election officials often are only slightly instructed in their duties, yet the fact remains that the mistakes found in several of the precincts could be due to negligence and carelessness and nothing else. Mistakes of thirty and more ballots in a single precinct cannot possibly be lack of instruction or poor working conditions.

Election boards, despite the evidences of inefficiency revealed by the recount, are entitled, however, to some relief from the onerous duties imposed upon them by ambiguities in the law and the ignorance or carelessness of voters. The proceedings served the very valuable purpose of calling attention to the need for careful study of the entire election law, with the view of more definitely defining the powers and duties of election boards and more particularly canvassing boards. But for the fortuitous circumstance that the county judge happened to be a member of the board of canvassers in Outagamie county, there is no telling what might have occurred in the recount just completed, in view of the marked difference of opinion of the opposing candidates and the delicate legal questions developed during the hearings. A board consisting entirely of laymen would have been utterly lost without competent and constant legal assistance. Outagamie county's experience indicates that the law should definitely require the board of canvassers to include a judicial officer in its membership.

There is no doubt that ignorance and carelessness of the voting public contributes no little to the possibility of error in tabulating ballots. In practically every precinct in the county election boards were called upon not once but many times during the night as they counted the votes to guess at the intent of voters, because the voters were either too ignorant or too careless to make the intent clear themselves. Every ambiguously or carelessly marked ballot adds to the labor of the election board, consumes its time and adds to the possibility of error. If election boards are in need of additional instruction in their work, certainly the voting public will be well advised if it acquaints itself more thoroughly with the mechanics of voting.

The recount, among other things, revealed that, generally speaking, election boards in the rural districts were more accurate and much more thorough in their work, and also that rural voters were less prone to negligence or error in marking their ballots. The record of the rural precincts was materially better than those from Appleton, Kaukauna and Seymour.

While the recount was instigated solely for the purpose of satisfying a personal curiosity regarding the actual number of ballots cast for various candidates, it nevertheless has been of inestimable service to the people of the county and of the state, particularly if the lessons learned from it are applied to correcting or eliminating abuses in the future. Both Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Sigman showed a commendable public spirit in the manner in which they conducted themselves during the hearings and for the assistance they ungrudgingly gave the canvassing board in arriving at the facts and in interpreting the law. Certainly from their experience and from the experience of the canvassing board there must come observations that should go a long way toward preventing a repetition of Outagamie county's 1932 primary election.

PRASE FOR THE PRESS

Though self-praise be unseemly, an apologetic divergence may be permitted in calling attention to the first annual report of Dean Ackerman of the Columbia School of Journalism.

Dean Ackerman lauds the public service of American newspapers and designates them as "the chief agency of our present civilization for the advancement of human relationships."

In particular, he points out that year by year the press is developing greater independence and accuracy in reporting and commenting on the news of the world, and that despite diminished resources during trying times, has continued to discharge its functions and to recognize more fully the duties which go with its responsibilities.

Among the praiseworthy features which Mr. Ackerman notes as outstanding in a year that has "tested the character and resources of every human activity" may be mentioned—the maintenance of circulations, the excellence of newspaper direction, maintenance of high reportorial standards, the preservation of the "soundness, purity, cleanness and power" of language in America, the promotion of public welfare and the undiminished daily service of news-gathering associations, both national and international.

As a business and industry, says Mr. Ackerman, the newspapers have been better managed than banks, industries, or government, with few failures and no scandals involving financial loss to large bodies of investors.

All of which is received with feelings of gratitude by newspapermen who are accustomed to being cited as ranking high in human ignorance, error and general worthlessness.

BETTER CURB MR. REED

There are times when men like Senator Reed of Missouri play an almost indispensable part in order that a government such as ours may function at its best.

Mr. Reed performed memorable services for America on senate committees investigating and exposing corrupt practices, but unless he is after a rascal he seems to fail of his purpose, and then in order to prevent open failure he creates a villain when there is none in fact.

His indecent attack upon President Hoover's motives spoiled an otherwise able answer to the President's Des Moines address. His assault against the honesty of Mr. Hoover's services in Belgium and his onslaught against the President's career in business were both unfair and unscrupulous.

No one is going to be helped to understand, appreciate the great importance of, and decide the issues in this campaign by tomat wrangling over a back fence. To sic Mr. Reed onto men of the Fall or Daugherty stripe where the use of venom, if not absolutely necessary, is at least understandable is quite a different thing than using the same tactics against one of Mr. Hoover's character.

Today it seems almost certain that Mr. Hoover will be defeated, and for errors of judgment and dispositional traits which he probably was unable to alter, but for those who oppose him to fling the poisoned darts of reprehensible misconduct at him will not, except among morons, make a vote for the Democratic ticket. More likely it will lose votes.

ENGLISH

There are many self-appointed guardians of the English language. The pure-blood Briton sometimes acts as though we had borrowed the language without the right to use it and should compensate for it by at least speaking it correctly. The correct way to speak it, of course, is the way he speaks it.

Since the advent of the radio our Canadian friends who listen in on our political parties have become critical, sometimes hyper-critical, about our pronunciation. Some of them decline to admit that we speak English and call our language Americanese.

They are now raining mighty blows upon the head of the president claiming that he pronounced constitution, "Consti-toot-ion" and revenue, "revenoo."

This will be a material setback to Mr. Hoover's supporters, particularly those who four years ago lifted supercilious eyebrows because Mr. Smith called radio, "radio." In fact they said Mr. Smith's pronunciation was plebeian, very common don't you know.

Mr. Hoover's offense is even greater than that of Mr. Smith, for Mr. Smith started work in a fish market and never had the opportunity of living so many years right in the shadow of Buckingham Palace as did Mr. Hoover. In other words Mr. Smith's errors, if any, are excusable, whereas Mr. Hoover's are an offense.

What matter it how the president pronounces "revenue" so long as he so conducts himself that the people have as much of it as possible? And three out of four of our people will exhibit little interest in the precise pronunciation of constitution although great admiration for the document if they could lop a certain amendment off it.

And all the Sunday worshippers being won to truth by him.

But though he longed to please, her preacher man he couldn't be.

For there was that within him which kept whispering of the sea.

His father thought a lawyer in good time he ought to make.

In dreams he saw him pleading for some human life at stake.

But court rooms never called him. Still in different was he.

To all save ships and sailor men and stories of the sea.

He never graced the pulpit; never rose to be a judge.

He lived and slaved for 60 years an ordinary drudge.

And all his years were dreary, since they never set him free.

Opinions Of Others

TIME FOR AN UNDERSTANDING

"The time has arrived," says the poet, Dr. Rabinovitch, Tagore, in a statement on the present situation, "for the establishment of a harmonious understanding upon the ground of justice and forbearance." We should have thought that the time for a harmonious understanding arrived pretty long ago. The poet also appeals to all the parties concerned to "evolve a suitable constitution through which the country can proceed towards peaceful social and economic development," and adds that a sufficient number of thoughtful individuals are ready for such a final effort.

His detachment is extraordinary and gives one the impression that he shies at the task of fixing the responsibility for the present chaos where it belongs. His statement would have served some useful purpose if it had at least unequivocally condemned the present repression and the violation of pledges with regard to constitution procedure. As it is, it is neither poetry nor good strong prose.—Bombay Chronicle.

TALKING THROUGH THEIR HATS

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

THE ODOR OF LOVE AND THE ODOR OF ANGER

A publisher tells me that for several years he has held the theory that body odor is really what is commonly called "love." He thinks the odor, the individual odor that emanates from every human body, in some cases happens to attract and in other cases rather to repel. He says cleanliness has nothing to do with it. The individual body odor is present following a bath just as it is before, either to attract or repel. If it happens to attract the opposite sex, that's love.

While you are "tick-tick-tick" at that, the publisher goes on to remark on the peculiar body odor he has noticed following anger, which, he says, is altogether different from the body odor when one feels "right with the world."

The publisher is moved to tell me about his theory because an article of mine tends to support it. At least I contend every individual has his own body odor.

The olfactory sense of civilized man is poorly developed, but that of the savage is more cultivated. I fancy few readers will be able to corroborate or refute the assertion that anger changes one's odor. If the emotion of anger can influence body odor, then it is not inconceivable that the emotion of love may influence it, too. The odor of those we love seems better than it is, perhaps. Didn't Solomon comment about that?

Turning from pleasant to awful odor, take a case of bromidrosis of the feet. If you encounter it in the warm darkness of the movie theater it is dreadful but if a member of your family has bromidrosis it is not nearly so dreadful. Isn't that so?

Association has a good deal to do with one's judgment of odors. Mark Twain utilized that fact to great advantage in his "Traveler's Tale."

Believers have found the odor emitted by the corpses of saints aromatic and sweet, before burial and after exhumation. They describe it as the odor of sanctity.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Electric Welding.

Husband electric welder. Wears leather hood and gloves, but intense light penetrates his shirt and underwear and some days his neck and chest is all sunburned. He says this is healthy. Would it be better for him to wear some kind of protector when he is welding? (Mrs. M. T.)

Answer—An electric welder should wear goggles equipped with six alternate layers of blue and red glass, to exclude the ultraviolet rays from the eyes. The light causes sunburn of the skin. If not too severe or too often repeated such sunburn is as harmless as natural sunburn.

Insanity
College student, 19, healthy, normal intelligence. My mother and father were separated when sister and I were 4 and 2 respectively. Mother at present in hospital for insane. Her mother is alive and mentally sound. I know nothing of her other forebears. When I graduate and earn enough I intend to cross the ocean and see my mother and learn what I can. But the present question is: Have I a right to contemplate marriage? My father is above the average in intelligence and has sturdy farmer blood behind him. (H. A. E.)

Answer—Certainly.

Knock-knee
You often tell about bowlegs but never about knock-knees. What can be done for knock-knees in a boy 7 years old? (Mrs. M. J. F.)

Answer—Marked knock-knee deformity is a manifestation of rickets, as is bow-leg. But mild grades of knock-knee are often due to general weakness or to pronated or weak feet and bad posture habit. Every baby or young child should stand on a firm surface. Never allow a child under 10 to wear heels on shoes. The more a baby or child goes barefoot the better for general health and the strength of the feet and legs. Have shoes raised 1 inch on the inner borders of soles and heels, which favors walking on the outer borders of the feet. Velocipedes, bicycle, pushmobile and pony riding are all good exercises. For more marked deformity subcutaneous osteotomy (cutting the bone without making any noticeable external incision) is advisable. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE tin man grew and grew and grew and Scouty said, "I hope he'll do the kindly act we think he will, when he is finally done."

"Our friend, the tinsmith, says his man will carry us. Gee, if he can, he all can cross that yonder stream and set out for new fun."

"Don't worry," said the tinsmith. "You will all be tickled when we're through. I have a can of magic oil that does some wondrous things."

"His magic never disappoints, and when we oil the tin man's joints, he'll speak to us and shake his head and move his arms like wings."

"Oh, my, let's hurry," Dunce cried. "I've often had a funny ride, but being carried by a tin man surely will be new."

"His funny legs are finished now, so he can walk along, somehow. It won't take long to finish him, 'cause there's not much to do."

A smile spread on the tinsmith's face. Said he, "We'll put the arms in place and then you lads can trim bright."

"I'll run and get my oil and then I'll join you at your work again. Just looking at our tin man makes me laugh. He is a sight."

Soon Windy said, "Gee, look at that! A funnel is the tin man's hat. We've put the thing on crooked, but it makes him look quite smart."

"A gallon can's his body. Gee, he's just as fat as he can be. I guess we made him strong enough so he won't fall apart."

The tinsmith came back with the oil and said, "Now, Dunce, do not spoil the looks of our tin man when you spread the oil about."

"Just oil each leg and then each arm. Use plenty! It will do no harm." Then Dunce oiled as if he knew just how without a doubt. (Copyright, 1932 NEA Service, Inc.)

GERMANS PRESSED BACK
On Oct. 14, 1918, British, Belgian and French forces advanced on a 12-mile front between the Lys river at Comines and Dixmude, taking many villages in Belgium and 7000 prisoners. The French captured Roulers.

American troops advanced beyond Cuneil and Romagne, west of the Meuse, and farther west reached St. Georges and Landre-et-St. Georges.

British and French menaced Courtrai, and the French captured and passed beyond Sissonne.

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—When Comptroller General J. R. McCarl told Secretary Stimson recently that American delegates to the Geneva Disarmament conference must travel on an American ship, there was nothing to do but obey.

No matter whether it's a cabinet officer or government clerk, when McCarl makes a decision involving expenditures that's all there is to it. For he carries the most absolute authority in his field of anyone in Washington, except the President.

Congress made his authority as absolute as possible, and he is responsible to no one but that body. Appointed in 1921 by President Harding, he is to stay in office until 1936. After that he is out, for he can't be reappointed.

Uncle Sam's Auditor

It's McCarl's job as Uncle Sam's auditor to see that the government pays just what it owes and not a cent more; to see that any overpayments are refunded, and to make sure that appropriations are properly and legally spent.

It is the latter that gives him much of his authority in dictating to cabinet officers and the like.

"McCarl, however, is little of the dictator personally. Clean shaven, under the average height, even tempered and mild of manner, he is the type that can fight and smile at the same time. He is a thorough student of his job, arrives at his office early in the morning and is one of the last to leave at night."

He is never too busy, however, to sit down and talk things over with a visitor.

Since congress passed the economy bill, his job has been one of the most trying and difficult ones in the capital. It fell to him to interpret and rule on the numberless controversial sections of the bill and how they were to be applied. He handled the supreme court in decisions when the bill finally became law.

From Nebraska

Senator Norris of Nebraska brought McCarl to Washington as his secretary years ago. He and the senator live in the same town of McCook.

Not barely out of his twenties, he took an immediate interest in the doings of congress. He was so well posted that the republicans chose him as secretary of the national congressional committee. He was one of the directing heads in the victorious republican congressional fight of 1920.

The next year congress passed the budget law and Harding named him the first comptroller general.

The Kansas boy who recently finished a five-year university course in three years is just the kind of fellow who would be able to find a job these days.

Barbs

Governor Roosevelt's trip into the west "to inquire about economic conditions" certainly should be a journey that is fruitful of results.

A New York bank has acquired an ice-skating palace in a $600,000 foreclosure. How's that for a frozen asset?

Sing Sing is about the only football institution in the country where the coach doesn't have to worry about scholastic difficulties.

The Legionnaires have demanded beer and the bonus. Wonder what would happen if both were granted at the same time?

Defense Rests In Maillefert Prison Death

Day Devoted to Rebuttal Testimony—Jury May Get Case Tomorrow

Jacksonville, Fla. — (P)—Denials that prison torture had anything to do with the death of Arthur Maillefert, convict who was found strangled in a sweat box, have been entered formally by the two former guards on trial for his murder.

Capt. George W. Courson and Solomon Higginbotham testified, as the defense rested its case yesterday, that Maillefert brought his troubles on himself in the face of fatherly counsel and that the only hardships he was accorded were normal punishments for misbehavior.

Rebuttal testimony was ordered today and court attaches said the lengthy case probably would reach the jury sometime tomorrow.

Courson, acting captain at the Sunbeam prison camp when Maillefert, a New Jersey youth, was found dead in a sweat box with his feet in stocks and a chain about his neck, testified Maillefert was unruly, pretended sickness to escape prison routine, disregarded kindly admonitions and light punishment, refused to work and urged the official to kill him.

Once or twice during his testimony, the guard wiped tears from his eyes. Once, he said, Maillefert told him he was "going home."

Courson disagreed and Maillefert replied, "well I'm going to hell then." The defense contends the prisoner deliberately hanged himself by the chain rather than serve out his nine-year sentence for robbery.

"As Last Resort"

Courson testified he had placed Maillefert in the sweat box only as a last resort because he thought "a sweat box was a disgrace to any road camp" and that he had intended to take him out of the cell after supper.

During the supper hour, Courson said, a trusty reported Maillefert was acting "queerly" in the sweat box, and when the door was opened he was found to be dead.

Courson admitted punishing Maillefert "to break his spirit," but, he declared, this was only after every other effort to keep him orderly and make him a good prisoner had failed. He declared he would have given his own food to Maillefert had the prisoner asked for something to eat. Maillefert had been on a bread and water diet for three days.

Higginbotham testified he had told Maillefert he would intercede for him if he would promise to go to work, but the prisoner refused. "I didn't do anything to him. I wouldn't have anyone do to me," Higginbotham said. He testified he provided a shirt and tie of his own to clothe the prisoner after his death. He emphatically denied mistreating Maillefert or ever threatening to kill him.

Recent Rains Slow Up Fires in Marshes

By W. F. Winsey

The fire north of Shiocton was slowed up by the recent rains, but it is still burning on a three-mile front, moving westward, and destroying peat over its old and new paths. It is also cleaning up marsh pastures and small trees, and damaging a large proportion of the large trees. Most of the owners of the marsh land, saved their firewood and piles of saw logs and fence posts.

Considerable cabbage was being cut and hauled to Shiocton Thursday, but a number of truck loads moving off to the northwest. The kraut factory in Shiocton resumed operations Thursday morning. Grovers are getting $3 per ton for the best late cabbage. Not satisfied with that price, some of the growers are storing some of their late cabbage in their farm buildings in an attempt to get the cost of production in a later more favorable market.

A few farmers, trying to forget their cabbage, are husking corn or doing their fall plowing.

Discovery that oil penetrates metals, instead of merely forming a protective film on the surface, may lead to development of improved lubricating materials.

Jupiter, Venus Stand Out In October Morning Skies

BY ROBERT H. BAKER
(Professor of Astronomy, University of Illinois)

Urbana, Ill.—(P)—Many persons who observed the total solar eclipse of August 31 noticed the bright star not far to the right of the eclipsed sun. This star-like object now is visible in the eastern sky at dawn. It is not a star in fact but the great planet Jupiter.

Jupiter has moved only a little way from its place among the stars at the time of the eclipse. It is the brilliant object not far below the Sickle of Leo. This planet requires 12 years to complete its circuit eastward among the constellations. The sun circles eastward around the heavens once a year. It now has progressed beyond Leo far enough so that the sickle and triangle of stars which mark this constellation come into view in the east before the sky grows bright in the morning.

Venus Stands Out

But Jupiter is not the brightest object in the morning sky. Above it and also a little above the handle of the sickle there is a star-like object nearly ten times as bright. This is Venus, the morning star.

Venus is moving eastward across Leo faster than Jupiter. It will be interesting to those who watch the morning sky to see it gradually overtake Jupiter until on the 20th of the month these two planets, the most brilliant in the heavens, will be remarkably close together.

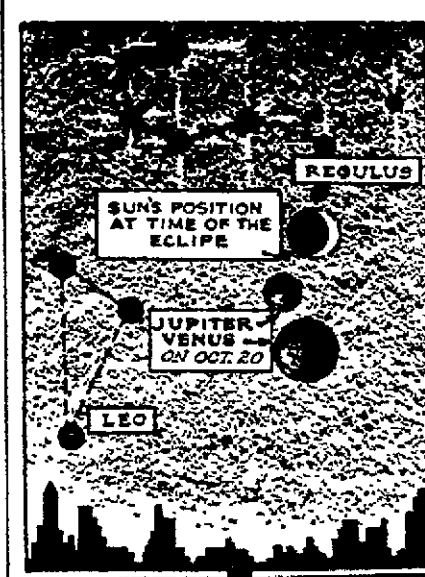

Earth Near Path of Meteors

As the early riser surveys this conjunction of the planets he may well wonder whether next month will bring a third fine exhibit in this region of celestial spectacles—a display of Leonid meteors.

The earth will pass near the path of these meteors about the middle of November. It is impossible to say in advance whether there will be at that time simply an unusual number of "shooting stars" or whether the sky will blaze with these celestial fireworks as it did in 1833 and 1887, when superstitious persons feared that the world was coming to an end.

October is a favorable month to see the zodiacal light in the morning sky. It is a ghostly glow which appears above the eastern horizon for an hour or two, before dawn; broad at the base it tapers upward leaning toward the south.

A clear moonless sky and the absence of artificial lights are required to make the zodiacal light plainly visible. Astronomers believe that this glow is sunlight reflected from many small bodies revolving around the sun within the earth's orbit.

Building Permits

Four building permits were issued Thursday by John N. Welland building inspector. They were granted to John Jenkel, 1128 N. Spring-st., one car garage, cost $50; Dan de Nobel, 525 E. Roosevelt-st., residence and two car garage, cost $4,500; Russell Walsh, 822 W. Harris-st., basement, cost $450; and J. Perkins, 320 W. College-ave, office building, cost $25.

ENTER PAPER INSTITUTE

Three Lawrence college graduates have begun study at the Institute of Paper Chemistry this year. They are Harold Sperka, Oshkosh, Robert Rusch, Neenah, and Reinhold Vogt, Appleton. The three youths were graduated from the college last summer. Due to a change, it now is necessary for the students to take two years' work at the Institute for a Master's degree and four years' work for a Doctor's degree.

Administer Diphtheria Preventative Friday

Tovin antitoxin, diphtheria preventative, will be administered to pupils of Franklin school and children of pre-school age in that vicinity Friday. Members of the Outagamie County Medical society will do the vaccinating.

No child will be treated unless he has filed with the school nurses a permit from his parents. Parents of children of pre-school age who are to be treated must notify the nurses before 9:30 tomorrow morning so a sufficient quantity of toxin antitoxin can be secured.

Pupils of Jefferson school were treated Thursday.

Russian Power Dam Now Ready For Dedication

World's Largest Hydro- Electric Plant Erected By Soviet Union

(By The Associated Press)

Power!

To get the power necessary for her gigantic schemes of industrialization, soviet Russia has built Dnieprostroy, the greatest hydro-electric plant in the world drawing its energy from a dam 140 feet high, which impounds the drainage of 170,000 square miles.

The dam, soon to be formally opened, is Russia's biggest construction. But the soviet union plans to build another dam at Volgastro that will have a capacity three times Dnieprostroy's and will irrigate 10,000,000 acres.

Power has been the cornerstone of Russia's industrialization program. Since 1920 more than a score of large central stations and many smaller stations have been erected. Power plant output last year was 10,600,000 kilowatt-hours, twice that of 1923 and five times the pre-war output.

To existing capacity Dnieprostroy is expected to add an average annual production of 2,530,000,000 kilowatt-hours. Its nine turbines, when in full operation, will have a capacity of 756,000 horsepower.

This compares with 430,000 horsepower at America's Niagara Falls, and 612,000 at Muscle Shoals.

Since only three of Dnieprostroy's nine turbines can operate at all seasons the plant will be supplementing with reserve steam plants having 200,000 horsepower capacity.

At the dedication, Col. Hugh L. Cooper, American engineer and chief consultant, will take a principal part along with A. V. Winter, head of the soviet administration of the project. Colonel Cooper has been awarded the Order of the Red Star for his work, the first foreigner to be so honored.

Russian materials and Russian labor were used almost entirely in the construction, but American methods, supervised by American engineers, and with American machinery were back of them. The American plans for construction were chosen after a comparative test was made between them and a European design.

Russian labor set several records, among which was the feat of pouring 510,000 cubic meters of concrete in 1930. This, it is claimed, is more than ever had been poured before on a single project.

The dam, by eliminating a series of rapids, makes navigable the Dnieper river from the Black sea, 200 miles south, to some distance above Dnieprostroy.

False Arrest Charged by 9 In Milwaukee

$65,000 Asked in Suits Against Police by Members of Union

Milwaukee — Police Chief Jacob Laubheimer and six members of his department were named today in damage suits totaling $65,000, filed by nine members of the Motion Picture Operators' union, Local 164, who charged false arrest, imprisonment and injury to their reputations and peace of mind.

The suits are an outgrowth of a police raid Tuesday night on union headquarters in which Chester Mills, business agent, and eight members of the organization were taken into custody for questioning in connection with the bombing of the Parkway theatre Saturday. Other police officers named in the suits include Inspector John Bauschek, Sergeant Louis Dieden and Detectives Eugene O'Gorman, Oscar Tschury, Michael Curley and Lawrence Bailey. Chief Laubheimer and Inspector Bauschek were served with subpoenas calling upon them to appear before Court Commissioner Charles Orth Oct. 20 for adverse examination.

Mills and Raymond Koenig, who charged they were detained in jail overnight, asked the largest damages. Mills fixed his claim at $20,000 and Koenig at $10,000. Damages of $5,000 each were asked by Harry Morris, John Krozak, Theron Redding, Sam Serge, Max Petersen, George Arnowitz and George Hawn, who were released a few hours after the raid.

200 Boy Scouts to Solicit Clothing

Youngsters to Call on Appleton Housewives Saturday Morning

Approximately 200 valley council boy scouts Saturday morning will solicit homes for old clothing for the Appleton Relief and Welfare council this winter. The clothing will be collected a week from Saturday by the scouts, who will be given the use of six city trucks.

The city has been divided into districts and scout troops closest to their district will call on housewives, asking them for old clothing. The scouts will be equipped with cards on which housewives will sign their names, addresses, and telephone numbers.

Clothing collected in the drive will be stored in the Welfare council's room below Hotel Northern. There the clothing and other articles will be sorted and placed on racks, similar to the procedure followed last year when almost 5,000 articles of clothing collected by scouts were distributed to poor families. Mrs. Paul Hackbert is chairman of the clothing committee.

The scout council is seeking the cooperation of every housewife in Appleton in the drive.

Civic Council Will Meet Monday Night

The regular October meeting of the Civic Council will be held at 7:30 Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A., according to T. E. Orblson, president. There will be a report on activities of the committee arranging for a series of 10 talks on social service work to be given by Aubrey Williams, and reading of communications from organizations which are members of the council on their decision regarding a trained social service worker for the city.

Women May Serve on Election Boards

Wisconsin statutes regulating the hours of labor for women do not apply to women serving on election boards, a letter from the Wisconsin Industrial commission to Mayor John Goodland, Jr. explains. The state law affects only women working in factories, laundries, mechanical, mercantile, express and transportation establishments, confectionary stores, telegraph offices, telephone exchanges, restaurants and hotels.

Rheumatism Goes Swollen Joints Vanish

PAIN EASED FIRST DAY

If you suffer from crippling rheumatic aches and pains, Neuritis, Lumbago, lame knotted muscles, swollen inflamed joints, it's because your system is full of the irritating poisons that cause rheumatism.

What you need is RU-MA, the new internal medicine that acts on the blood, liver and kidneys, and helps expel these dangerous poisons from the system through the natural channels of elimination. Only an internal medicine can do this. No long waiting for your suffering to stop—RU-MA eases pain first day and gives rheumatic sufferers such safe and lasting relief from their stiffening, crippling lameness and torturing pain that it is recommended by druggists everywhere.

Schlitz Bros. urges every sufferer to get a $1.00 bottle of RU-MA today, and agrees to return the purchase price if it does not free them from all their aches and pains of rheumatism.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

GOLD IN THEM HILLS

"Gold In Them Hills" tells the story of the last, and one of greatest, of America's gold rushes.

C. B. Glasscock, the author, has written just the kind of book that ought to be written about a gold rush—one that is breezy, colorful and deeply humorous and at the same time authoritative and carefully documented.

He tells of the great gold rush that hit Nevada shortly after the beginning of the century—the rush that made boom towns of Tonopah and Goldfield and dotted the barren, picturesque Nevada mountains with a score of short-lived and tumultuous mining camps, and that added hundreds of millions of dollars of yellow to the world's wealth.

It all began when a lone prospector, camping in the mountains, lost his mule. Going to find it, he stumbled on a ledge where a rich vein of gold-bearing rock came to the surface. In a short time the rush was on.

The incredible commonplaces of the gold rush get zestful telling in Mr. Glasscock's book. We read about men who became millionaires on $500 investments; about mines so rich that the pick and shovel gang in the shafts carried out in their pockets enough ore to make them wealthy; about the eastern capitalists who sunk hundreds of thousands of dollars to build a town over an utterly non-existent copper mine—and so on, through a colorful and fascinating collection of stories that will make any reader sit up nights.

"Gold In Them Hills" is published by Bobbs-Merrill.

Achievement Day to Be Held on Nov. 19

Achievement day for Outagamie county 4-H clubs will be held this year on Nov. 19, according to Miss Harriet Thompson, county home demonstration agent. Miss Thompson and Gustav A. Sell, county agent, are making plans for the event. The place of holding the program is to be decided later. One of the features of the program this year will be an address by T. L. Bewick, state club leader. It is on this day the boys and girls of the various clubs, who successfully completed their projects during the last club season, receive achievement pins as a reward for their work. Special awards for excellence in club work also are made at that time.

10-Year Scout Program To be Discussed at Meet

The new, ten-year program of scouting recently announced by the National Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be discussed at a rally of valley scouters on the evening of Oct. 26. Where the meeting is to be held has not yet been decided by council officials.

The new program is designed to reach at least one of every four 12-year-old boys, and to so improve the quality of scouting as to hold their interest for at least a four-year period of active scout training, to the end that it may ultimately be insured that one of every four new male citizens shall be a four-year scout-trained man, according to M. G. Clark, valley scout executive.

The program, scout heads believe, will insure more participating citizens, less violation of law, and more unselfish service for others. It will mean a better community, a better state, a better nation, they say.

Final Stages Approach in Vote Battle

East and Middle West Main Objectives of Presidential Nominees

BY BYRON PRICE

Washington—The presidential wars of 1932 are entering their last phase with the drumfire continuing energetically all along the line, but with the heaviest artillery moving into position for one final, concentrated bombardment on two important salients in the east and middle west.

During the present week the action has been scattered and various, and only a foretaste of what is to come. Governor Roosevelt has spoken from Albany, outlining his views on relief. Former President Coolidge, in Madison Square garden, asked for the reelection of President Hoover. Former Senator James A. Reed, chosen by the Democrats to reply at Des Moines to Mr. Hoover, asked for the election of Mr. Roosevelt.

All of this time, in the political dugouts further back, the high commands of the two parties were taking stock of the situation at the long-awaited turn of mid-October, and planning in detail the last headlong dash toward their Nov. 8 objective.

Enough of these plans now are known to indicate with some definiteness where the pressure will be applied from now on. They point especially to the eastern states of New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts, and to the mid-western states of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

President Hoover will speak tomorrow night in Cleveland. His plans beyond that are not definite, but it is likely he will go even further west a week later, swinging through Indiana and Illinois to St. Louis. Still later he will be in the east—New York certainly and perhaps New Jersey and Massachusetts also.

Roosevelt off Tuesday

Governor Roosevelt leaves Albany Tuesday for his second extended campaign tour. He will speak as far west as St. Louis, and travel through the border states and south to Atlanta before he returns to wind up his campaign in New York.

Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith is expected to put much of the Democratic emphasis on the east during the last days of October. Tentative plans route him through New York, New Jersey and New England, starting early next week.

Speaker John N. Garner speaks tonight from New York in his first major address of the campaign. He plans to deal "in a general way" with criticisms of Democratic congressional leadership that have been voiced by President Hoover and former President Calvin Coolidge.

Odgen L. Mills, secretary of the treasury and one of the chief reliances of the Republican speaking staff, has returned from his trip to the coast. He spoke yesterday in Chicago, and will be kept busy henceforth in the east.

All of this indicates that so far as the chief figures of the campaign are concerned, the west must be left chiefly in the hands of local talent. The two vice-presidential nominees probably will both be heard west of the Mississippi, but the two sectors further east will have the first attention of the political managers.

In the eastern group around New York and in the central states more than one election has been won and lost. It is difficult to figure how any party which loses both of these sectors can expect to win a national victory.

Neither does either party seem disposed to depend on one of these two groups alone. The effort on both sides will be to capture both of them.

The Great Lot Mystery

Philadelphia—The police butted into trouble today—and then the trouble returned the compliment. In the darkness two patrolmen heard a noise in a vacant lot. They cautiously investigated, creeping up in their best slinking manner. Suddenly they were attacked from the rear. They turned about and learned the answer to "what goes about at night." It was a goat.

Display of Antiques is Next Week

PLANS for an antique display to be held at the meeting of the Women's Union next Tuesday were made at the meeting of Socialists Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. A. Downey, 1321 N. Morrison-st. Mrs. Mike Steinhauer will display her collection of antiques and give the history of the various pieces.

A "white elephant" suitcase will be brought to the meetings hereafter and members will donate articles to the suitcase. The articles will be sold at each meeting to raise money.

Mrs. William Delrow led the devotional topic on Love, and Mrs. W. S. Ryan discussed current events. The program for the day was on India. Mrs. Downey sang an Indian solo. Mrs. Paul Stevens played Indian music, and Mrs. Wesley Latham reviewed "Trousers of Taffeta" by Margaret Wilson, which deals with the Indian situation. An Indian dish was served for refreshments. Ten members were present. Roll call was answered with provocation.

The next meeting will be Nov. 10 at the home of Mrs. Mary Poyant, 216 E. North-st. Mrs. Ervin Kimball will have charge of the program on Pauls.

A Halloween hard time party to be given for members and friends was planned at the meeting of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin of St. Theresa church Thursday night at the parish hall. Captains of groups from June to November inclusive will be in charge of arrangements. A special meeting of the committee will take place early next week when the date for the party will be set and final arrangements made.

Thirty members were present at the meeting. Miss Irene Williams had charge of refreshments.

The Sodality will receive Communion at the 7:30 Mass next Sunday morning.

Excerpts from "The Lutheran Standard," and from the book, "Widening of the Frontier," read by Mrs. Walter Kerner at the meeting of the Reading circle of First English Lutheran church Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Plamann, E. College-ave. The meeting opened with a song, and a prayer by Mrs. Plamann and closed with a prayer by Mrs. Gust Radtke. Thirty members were present. The next meeting will be Nov. 2 with Mrs. Frank Koch, 425 W. Summer-st.

Citizenship was the topic given at the meeting of the Missionary society of First Reformed church Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. E. F. Franz, E. Hancock-st. Mrs. Franz led the devotional, and Mr. Franz gave a talk and led the discussion. Ten members were present.

Ladies Aid society met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gust Jahn, N. Wood-st. Ten members were present. A social hour followed the devotions.

The Rev. Theodore Marth, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, left Friday for Fond du Lac to attend the convention of the American Lutheran church which is being held at the church of the Rev. J. Becker. The convention will be in session until Oct. 20.

Several questions of importance will be brought before this meeting, including finances, educational and charitable institutions.

Readings were given by Mrs. John Trautman and a prayer by Mrs. Elmer Zimmer at the meeting of Berian Sunday school class of Emanuel Evangelical church Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ben Greb, corner of Morrison and Roosevelt-sts. at the home of Mrs. present. The group decided to fill baskets for the needy for Thanksgiving and to do other charitable work. A social hour followed the meeting.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Wetzel, Mrs. Peter West, and Mrs. Nora Krueger went to Fond du Lac Friday to attend a meeting of officers and chairmen of committee of Women's Federation of the Fond du Lac Regional Conference of the Evangelical church which is being held at Friedens Evangelical church. The conference lasts only one day.

Judson G. Rosebush will speak on Why I Am Going to Vote for Hoover at the meeting of Men's Council of First Baptist church next Tuesday night at the church. General forum discussion will follow the talk.

At the next meeting of the council, the first Tuesday in November, there will be another speaker who will talk on the subject, Why I Am Going to Vote for Roosevelt.

Mrs. Charles Buske, California, formerly of Appleton, was a guest at the meeting of Ladies' Aid society of Zion Lutheran church Thursday afternoon at the parish school auditorium. Plans were made for a Halloween party in two weeks, with Mrs. Louis Thies as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Augusta Sager and Mrs. Minnie Schroeder. Each member may bring a guest.

The crew of the San Cristobal, Methodist Social Union, met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Martin, 902 E. North-st. Plans were discussed for the harvest supper to be served next Tuesday night at the church. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Oscar Seiberlich, 924 N. Fox-st. Mrs. Buxton is captain of the crew.

Adopted by Lupe

Here is little Joan del Valle who has been adopted by her aunt, Lupe Velez, the movie star. But movie fans needn't expect to see Joan in the films, for Lupe has announced that her adopted daughter, only 4, is too young to be an actress.

Many Going To Meeting Of Society

A large number of Appleton people left Friday morning for Green Bay to attend the annual meeting of Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Appleton district, Wisconsin conference, of the Methodist church which will be in session Friday and Saturday at St. Paul Methodist church.

Those who are attending Friday's meetings are Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Briggs, Mrs. C. D. Miller, Mrs. H. L. Petersen, Mrs. M. F. Barteau, Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Denyes, Mrs. J. A. Holmes, Mrs. M. J. Tenney, Mrs. W. D. Schlafier, Mrs. Wilmer Sailer, Mrs. W. W. Cooke, Mrs. E. H. Petznick, Mrs. J. L. Finkle, Mrs. Harriet Nicholson, Mrs. W. S. Naylor, Mrs. Edith Wright, Mrs. M. O. Fenton, Mrs. O. A. Mead, Miss Elizabeth Wilson, Mrs. C. D. Thompson, Mrs. C. O. Davis, Miss Esther Miller, Mrs. F. C. Brayton, Mrs. Anna Hutchinson, and Mrs. George Nixon. Mrs. Denyes, Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. Naylor, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Fenton, and Miss Wilson will remain over for the two days.

Some of the group will return to Appleton at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon and others will remain until after the evening service.

Among those who will appear on the program at the meeting are Dr. Denyes, Mrs. Naylor, and Miss Wilson.

District officers are Mrs. O. D. Cannon, Appleton, president; Mrs. C. A. Briggs, Appleton, vice president; Mrs. H. D. Conkey, Kaukauna, recording secretary; Mrs. David L. Prize, Neenah, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. A. Friedrich, Neenah, treasurer; Miss Gladys Dewey, Green Bay, superintendent of young people's work; Mrs. Cora Martin, Green Bay, superintendent of junior work; Mrs. R. H. Markham, Manitowish, secretary of stewardship; Mrs. M. H. Cloud, Green Bay, secretary of extension work; Miss Elizabeth Wilson, Appleton, secretary of literature; Mrs. W. S. Naylor, Appleton, chairman of the student center committee.

Mission Festival Next Sunday at Lutheran Church

The annual mission festival at Zion Lutheran church will be observed Sunday with two services, one in English at 9 o'clock and one in German at 10:35. The mission festival is held primarily to interest the people in home and foreign mission work, also Negro and Mexican mission work. Offerings will be taken for that purpose.

The Rev. G. D. Simen, Pittsburgh, Pa., will preach the English sermon in the morning. The Rev. Marth, pastor of Zion Lutheran church, met him while they were both members of a committee in 1918 to receive Grace Lutheran sanatorium for tuberculosis, a gift to the joint synod of Ohio. Dr. C. H. L. Schuetz, also a member of that committee, has since died.

Special music will be presented by a male octet under the leadership of Mrs. Norman Belling. The octet will sing "Send Out Thy Light." A children's chorus under the direction of Miss Clara Theimer will sing "The Kingdom of Heaven is Likened."

At the German service at 10:35, the Rev. August Scheffler, Medicine Hat, Alberta, Canada, will preach the sermon. He is director of missions in Canada for the American Lutheran church. The male octet will sing "Sende Dein Licht."

MOTORIST FINED
Noel Ansoorge, 222 N. Meade-st, was fined $1 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty of parking his car on the street between 1 and 5 o'clock in the morning. He was arrested by Officer George Behrendt and paid his fine at the police station.

Mrs. Clausen President of Federation

IMPORTANT legislation concerning reforestation in Wisconsin was passed at the first biennial convention of Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs which closed Thursday afternoon at Oshkosh after a three day session. A resolution was passed commending the commission which ordered opened the gates of the Horicon dam which was designed to keep the marsh flooded to prevent marsh fires, and a resolution was sent to the national government at Washington favoring the release of the $750,000 reserve for national parks for purposes other than the building and maintenance of roads through the parks. If this fund is released for other purposes it will mean improvement to the lake states and will make possible the employment of unskilled labor at this time when work is needed. At the present time the reserve is lying idle as it can be used only for road purposes.

A resolution asking for the protection of the great Blue heron in Wisconsin was passed, so that this beautiful bird may not become extinct. It has been maintained that the Blue heron is destructive to bird and fish life, but upon investigation it has been found that this bird is no more destructive than other protected birds. The federation reaffirmed its resolution of the Kenosha convention for roadside beauty against billboards.

Banquet At Hotel
The convention, which opened Tuesday evening with district dinners, reached its climax in the banquet Wednesday night at Hotel Raulf. A musical program was presented by Miss Ruth Roper, vocalist, accompanied by Miss Margaret Trueblood, Chippewa Falls, former students at Lawrence Conservatory of Music. The numbers were "Se Tu M'ami" by De Esche, "I, O, Here the Gentle Lark" by Bishop, and "Se Saran Rose" by Ardita.

Following the banquet, the assembly adjourned to Oshkosh State Teachers' college where Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, gave the evening's address. His subject was International Relations.

In outlining the platform of both parties for the coming presidential election, Dr. Wriston declared that there is, in both instances, a silence on the question of international relations. The extreme importance of that issue was pointed out by the speaker and he outlined clearly and concisely the attitude of the foremost countries of Europe toward that question.

The attitude of the individual heads of Europe toward war was brought out by Dr. Wriston, and he spoke of the Geneva conference and the significance of the peace movements.

Mrs. Clausen President
Mrs. F. H. Clausen, Horicon, was elected president of the state federation for the coming term. Other officers are Miss Lucia R. Briggs, Milwaukee, first vice president; Mrs. J. W. Carow, Ladysmith, second vice president; Mrs. A. L. Murray, Eau Claire, recording secretary; Mrs. E. R. Williams, Oshkosh, local chairwoman of the convention, treasurer. District presidents include Mrs. F. G. Loomis, Kenosha, first district; Mrs. A. H. Miles, Fort Atkinson, second; Mrs. B. M. McCoy, Sparta; third; Mrs. H. K. Curtis, Milwaukee, fourth; and fifth; Mrs. G. M. Morrissey, Chilton, sixth; Miss Pearl Humphrey, Shawano, seventh; Miss Marion Wheeler, De Pere, eighth; Mrs. S. A. R. Van Meter, New Richmond; ninth; Mrs. Max Van Kecker, Merrill, tenth.

Mrs. E. V. Warner, Appleton, was chairman of the election board. The convention closed at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Among the Appleton women who attended the convention were Mrs. L. C. Sleeper, program chairman; Mrs. R. N. Clapp, past district president; Mrs. E. W. Cooney, president of the Appleton club; Mrs. Arthur Zuehlke, Mrs. T. W. Orblison, Mrs. T. E. Orblison, Mrs. John Balliet, Mrs. W. R. Challoner, Mrs. B. F. Goodrich, Mrs. Mabel Shannon, Mrs. L. J. Marshall, Mrs. Phyllis Ackebert, and Mrs. W. F. McGowan of Appleton Women's club; Mrs. M. M. Goeres, Mrs. G. H. Peerenboom, and Mrs. M. Gaynor, of the West End Reading club.

Parties
The entertainment committee of Odd Fellows will sponsor a dancing party at 8 o'clock Saturday night at Odd Fellow hall for Odd Fellows, Rebekahs, and friends. Music will be provided by a Neenah orchestra.

A card party will be held at 8 o'clock Saturday night in the lodge rooms of Odd Fellow hall. The party is for Odd Fellows, Rebekahs, and friends.

Dr. Earl Baker of Lawrence Conservatory entertained six guests at a duck dinner at his home, 824 E. Franklin-st., Thursday evening. Guests were Dr. H. M. Wriston, Mayor John Goodland, Jr., Carl J. Waterman, R. J. Watts, B. J. Rohan, Gustave Keller.

St. Joseph Ladies Aid society held a card party Thursday afternoon at the parish hall with 10 tables in play. Prizes at schafkopf were won by Mrs. Joseph Doerfler, Mrs. Joseph Schreiter, and J. Weber, and at plumsack by Mrs. A. Zickler.

Miss Maud Haas, 109 E. Ninth-st, Kaukauna, entertained seven guests at an informal party Thursday afternoon at her home. Mrs. Floyd Poir, Appleton, was the out of town guest.

Christian Mothers' society of St. Theresa church will sponsor a card party at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at the parish hall. Mrs. Edward Arndt

DeMolays to Give Seats To Officers

PARENTS and friends of De Molay members have been invited to attend a public installation of officers of the John F. Rose chapter at 8 o'clock Saturday night at Masonic temple. A team from Milwaukee chapter, of which Van Cooper is master counselor, will come to Appleton to put on the work.

An Educational Day program will be held in connection with the installation. A. G. Oosterhaus, principal of Roosevelt junior high school, will be the speaker, and William Krahn, a member of the Wauwatosa chapter, will preside at the organ and play an organ solo. After the service and program, an informal dance will be held for De Molay members and their friends in the social hall of the temple.

Gertrude Kopischke To be Saturday Bride

The marriage of Miss Gertrude Kopischke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kopischke, 1015 E. Pacific-st, to the Rev. Carl Grimm, 815 Desnoyers-st, Kaukauna, will take place at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Trinity English Lutheran church. The Rev. John Scheib, Kaukauna, and the Rev. D. E. Boserman, pastor of the Appleton church, will officiate at the ceremony.

and Mrs. John Wood will be in charge.

The Delta Hi-Y club of Appleton high school is planning a party Saturday evening at the Y. M. C. A. Don Johnston is president of the club. Games and dancing will furnish entertainment.

Members of Corps Going To Oshkosh

ABOUT 35 members of Women's Relief corps, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, of Appleton will go to Oshkosh Saturday to attend the district convention at the Sawyer Museum. The local women will leave from the front of Elk hall at 8:45 Saturday morning.

The district corps will present a marching banner to the Oshkosh high school band during this conference, and district officers for the coming year will be elected. Mrs. Mary Mandeville, Lodi, state president, will inspect the Oshkosh corps in the morning. The morning session opens at 10 o'clock, and dinner will be served at noon at the Guild hall.

About 200 representatives of the various corps in this district are expected to attend. Mrs. Lydia Bauer, Appleton, is senior vice president of the district.

Mrs. Katherine Ferguson was appointed chairman of the kitchen committee for the bazaar of Delta chapter, Employees Mutual Benefit association, to be held Oct. 27 at the meeting of the chapter Thursday afternoon at Odd Fellow hall. The bazaar will take place at the hall and will be in the form of a country store and card party.

Sees Hoover

Mrs. Raymond Robins, wife of the missing dry crusader, believes her husband is alive and well but held a prisoner by bootleggers, she told President Hoover. She is shown here after talking with the president. Mrs. Robins also talked with Amos Woodcock, chief of the prohibition bureau, who said his investigation had uncovered no clues. Colonel Robins vanished in New York on Sept. 3 while on his way to confer with President Hoover.

Two Premiers Seek Accord On Reich Arms

MacDonald and Herriot Believe Fate of World Parley Hangs on Action

London — (AP) — Great Britain and France have agreed to hold a four-power emergency disarmament conference at Geneva, it was announced today at the conclusion of a conference between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Herriot.

Italy already has accepted an invitation to participate, but thus far Germany has not agreed to holding the meeting at Geneva.

Germany's attitude indicates another dead-end, but her objections were described at No. 10 Downing-street as "temporary."

This special conference would deal with Germany's demand for arms equality and would attempt to get her back into the world disarmament conference from which she retired when the other powers declined to concede her equality claim.

When the British government first suggested a four-power meeting several weeks ago Germany accepted London as a place for the conference. The task now facing the other powers is to get Germany to come to the parley at Geneva.

London — (AP) — Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Premier Edouard Herriot of France reached the final conference on Germany's arms equality demands today, convinced that on the results they achieve may hang the fate of the forthcoming world disarmament conference. The conversations, started yesterday at 10 Downing-street, were resumed there at 10 o'clock this morning.

The two premiers wrestled with the problem until late last night, with other officials of both governments. The bulletin issued at the close of the talks was non-committal, but it was learned both agreed Germany's participation at Geneva is essential. Premier Herriot expressed the opinion that not much progress had been made yesterday, however.

It was learned the British government still believes Germany's claim to arms equality should be taken up at a special four-power conference, as suggested early this month. At this proposed parley, England, France, Germany and Italy were to sit, with the United States possibly represented by an observer.

Germany accepted the proposal in principle, but France objected to Germany's terms, which were that the conference recognize her right to equality. France replied, in effect, that this would be to decide the matter before the conference began.

Geneva Awaits Results

The interest with which Geneva awaits the results of the London conference was indicated yesterday when Arthur Henderson, president of the disarmament conference, which has been adjourned since last July, announced that Geneva was waiting on London and he hoped the Herriot-MacDonald parley would be sufficiently successful so that the arms conference might begin work again next month.

He announced that the conference bureau would re-assemble Nov. 3 and he hoped the general committee could meet Nov. 21.

One of the principal matters to come before the Geneva conference when it re-assembles is President Hoover's proposal for a flat one-third reduction of armaments. When the conference adjourned in July it was unable to agree upon the American proposals.

The conference bureau finally decided to ask Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, to draft an adjournment declaration along these lines:

1. Tribute to the Hoover proposal as a valuable contribution.
  2. Recognition that parts of the plan dealing with effectives and naval forces required considerable time for study.
  3. An announcement of sundry points on which the conference was virtually agreed.
- The conference finally adjourned on July 23 with a promise that an agreement for substantial reductions would be made after it met again.

Last August, soon after the presentation of the German demand for equality, Italy threatened to bolt the league disarmament efforts, charging that the United States, England and France had formed a triumvirate to rule the conference and that this triumvirate went to the arms parley with no intention to disarm.

Air Minister Italo Balbo charged the three powers with "a colossal effort to pull the wool over the eyes of those nations that acted candidly in good faith."

British official spokesmen here today were emphatic in insisting that the British action in proposing the four-power conference was in no way intended to encroach on the work of the league as a whole, but was only aimed at ironing out the difficulties with Germany in order to make the disarmament conference a success.

The British government was represented as confident that a four-power conference could remove the deadlock arising out of the German demands.

Norman Davis, American delegate to the arms conference, who is here in London, took no part in yesterday's talks, having been forced to cancel all appointments because of a bad cold, but he was understood to be ready still to help unofficially and informally in any way he could.

Erect Equipment for Work on Federal Lock

Preliminary work on the new government locks at Rapid Croche has been started, and as soon as navigation on the Fox river is closed for the reason, construction activities will get under way, according to Nelson Wightman, federal engineer.

The dam will be erected over a three-year period so that construction work will not interfere with navigation. When the river is opened for traffic next spring, part of the project will be completed and work suspended until the close of navigation in 1933.

At the present time government employees are setting up derricks, concrete mixers and other equipment preparatory to construction work. Some material also is being hauled to the scene of operations.

Gandhi's Threat Of Starvation Is Effective Weapon

It Got Results, Just as it Did in Other Cases In History

BY MILTON BRONNER

Back in the early days of the 14th century, Cecily de Rygeway, a Nottingham housewife with an obvious distaste for marriage, found herself facing a quick trial and a painful death for the murder of her husband. Lacking an adequate defense, she devised a new weapon—the hunger-strike.

Now that same weapon was used by the Mahatma Mohandas K. Gandhi to force the British Empire into revoking a political decision which he believed would make Indian unity impossible.

And once more England, where the hunger-strike originated, found itself seeking a defense against this peculiar weapon. The Mahatma's position as a leader of India's millions made it imperative that some counter-stroke be found.

Release from prison, a move which sometimes worked in the past, was not enough for Gandhi. The Mahatma announced that since he relinquished food for a principle not at all connected with his imprisonment, he would die of starvation even though released, unless a compromise was effected.

To make matters even more difficult, one of Gandhi's most important followers, the Pandit Vishnu Karandikar, had announced a similar decision.

Not only did Cecily de Rygeway create the hunger-strike, but she won a full pardon from King Edward III after she had gone without food for 40 days. The sheriff's jury never had a chance to decide her guilt or innocence, a detail that seemed less important than the embarrassment her starving caused the authorities.

There have been other hunger-strikes, however, which caused the British authorities even more difficulty, and were not settled so easily. Leaders of the women's suffrage movement there before the war, and the Irish patriots in the struggle against England in 1920 used Cecily's weapon in successful efforts to center public attention upon themselves and the ideal for which they were fighting.

Fasting was the most effective means Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and her daughters had of fighting the English authorities on the many occasions they were arrested in London while battling for women's rights. Their struggle was never settled in that way, however, for the World War brought an abrupt end to the fight after the forcible-feeding methods adopted by British prison authorities had aroused a storm of criticism.

McSwiney Roused Ireland

Perhaps the most famous hunger-strike in history was the grim battle of wills that took place behind the walls of Brixton Gaol, London, when Terence McSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, slowly starved himself to death to defy England's authority over Ireland.

In Cork jail two other ardent members of the Sinn Fein, Michael Fitzgerald and Joseph Murphy, died the same way and at almost the same time. Nine who had been facting with them, grimly determined to give up their lives rather than submit to British rule, were saved only when the Sinn Fein leaders asked them to take food and "live for Ireland."

The deaths of the three did not give Ireland its independence, as they had hoped it might, but it centered so much attention on England's policy that Great Britain radically altered it within a few years.

United States Had Examples

Almost every nation now has a record at least one hunger-strike. There have been several in the United States, among the chiropractors who were jailed in California a few years ago.

One of the most unusual hunger-strikes in America took place in Fremont, Neb., when a wealthy widow, Mrs. Lottie Schreiner, was sentenced to jail for refusing to send her children to school. She served only eight of the ten days to which she had been sentenced, however, for the sheriff found her too much of a problem.

The year previous, in 1921, Tony Gradstein, a convict sentenced for murder and robbery, starved himself to death in the state prison at Mountsville, W. Va., despite the forcible feeding to which the authorities resorted.

The most recent hunger-strike to attract attention in this country was that of Dr. Frederick F. Walters, scholar and librarian who declared he wouldn't eat until given employment.

The nation watched Washington with growing interest as Dr. Walters continued to starve himself. The authorities ignored his hunger-strike as completely as they could. Eventually he was given a job at $10 a week, reading the Bible, and his fast came to an end soon afterwards.

What is Really Going on in Russia???

Americans everywhere are asking this question. Now and then from under the blanket of censorship and propaganda and espionage there comes a truthful, honest statement of the Russian situation. The Post-Crescent is fortunate to be able to present an accurate study of Russia because one of Appleton's own daughters, Mrs. Ellen Moore Watt, spent fifteen months in that country and is writing of her experiences.

After reading these articles you will understand many things about the Soviet Republic that mystify you now. You will know how much freedom the Russians enjoy, how efficient the government is, to what extent espionage and the Russian spy system is involved in the daily lives of Russian people.

Would Regulate Utilities and Holding Bodies

Relations Between Two Must Be Controlled, Says Lilienthal

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—Regulation of the relations between public utility holding companies and their operating subsidiaries without regulation of the holding companies themselves was advocated by David E. Lilienthal at the American Bar Association Section on Public Utility Law in Washington.

Mr. Lilienthal is a member of the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin.

He said that the collapse of a gigantic holding company last April did more harm than all the orders ever issued by regulatory commissions. This was an obvious reference to the Insull debacle.

He stated that in his opinion regulation of the holding company itself would prove too great an innovation, while regulation of the relations between a holding company and an operating subsidiary were declared to be most open to abuse where no regulation existed.

The first is what was termed "banking transactions" between holding company and subsidiary. This includes loans by the latter to the former on open account and other monetary transactions other than the payment of dividends. The second is excess dividends. In the event that the holding company is in difficulties, excess dividends may be paid and the surplus or reserves or both of the operating company impaired and its financial stability imperiled. The third is unnecessary and unwise contracts for supplies and management made by the operating company with the holding company. One result of this is to enable the holding company to secure earnings other than dividends from the operating subsidiary.

But the foregoing relations are not the only ones which need regulation. The speaker stated that practically all relations between a holding and an operating subsidiary should be regulated.

As long ago as 1928 he saw the evils of unregulated relations in this field, and in that year he wrote an article for the Columbia Law Review setting forth the need for such regulation.

Law Recently Passed

In the past holding companies have been relatively free from regulation. A year and half ago Wisconsin passed a law regulating relations between public utility holding companies and their operating subsidiaries. Since that law only one or two other states have passed regulatory acts.

Mr. Lilienthal declared that an operating company whose stock is owned by a holding company should be operated in the same way it would be operated, if the stock were held by the public. Management services should not be furnished by the holding company unless it is clear that the management provided is better than could be provided by the operating company, Lilienthal holds. There is a social loss in long distance management because relations with consumers and public authorities are less satisfactory, he said.

In addition to his discussion of the problem of holding companies, the speaker pointed out that in the public utility field as a whole statutes and court decisions should not receive entire consideration, but attention should be given to the broader aspects of the problem.

Mr. Lilienthal is a member of the American Bar Association Section of Public Utility Law Standing Committee to Survey and Report as to Developments During the Year in the Field of Public Utility Law. Carl D. Jackson, formerly of Madison, is a member of the section of Public Utility Law Committee on the Scope and Standards of Accounting Regulations Prescribed for Public Utilities, with Especial Reference to "Recapture," Security Issues, Merchandising and the Effect of Accounting Regulations on Property Rights in General.

Thick Hair No Longer Beautiful

BY ELSIE PIERCE
No woman need be told that the hair is basking in the beauty spotlight right now. Not so long ago a woman was as lovely as her skin. Her hair, hidden under a smart (and sometimes not so smart) hat, didn't matter. But, the old order changeth. And the modern woman's beauty tasks become delightfully more involved. Now, in addition to keeping her complexion clear and young, she must keep her hair in top notch fashion.

This means conditioning the hair—keeping scalp clean and free from dandruff; keeping hair the right texture, soft and silky; correcting dryness, oiliness or coarseness; keeping the hair set properly, becomingly, in place at all times, and preserving the lovely lustre that only good hair can have. This means too that the hair must be thinned out regularly, by an expert.

Thinned Hair For Chic Hats
Thick hair is no longer a beauty asset. Far from it. At the very first Fall Openings in Paris and New York the smart turban, skull and tiny sailor hats were sponsored. The smartest these eyes have feasted on in a long time! It is impossible to wear these models over long, thick hair.

No matter what the coiffure, the hair follows closely the lines of the head and must be well-groomed, attractively arranged from all sides, at all times of the day.

Remember how that heavy bun at the back used to distort the shape of the smartest hat? Remember how ugly it looked—hat and hair? Happily, it is gone. And in its place even when the hair is long, little ringlets, curls, flat coils, thin rolls give the head a beautiful, cared-for, finished look. With the fashionable tilted, over-the-right-eye hats, all the coiffure is visible on the left side and back, and the very latest fashion is a softly sculptured style, not too set, yet never out of place.

Thinning Out Important
So important and popular has thinning out become that most beauty salons have this special service, whether or not the rest of the hair is cut. And experts are enlisted for this work. For it is very different from the hair thinning of many years ago. I remember an aunt whose hair was "the talk of the town" and her pride and boast, because it was long enough to sit on. In fact, it was down to her ankles. And so thick! Every two weeks sections would be cut out. Which left stubby ends at the crown. How she ever arranged it nicely at the top is beyond me. And how she could carry her head proudly under that heavy mass I don't know. Nowadays hair is seldom below shoulder length.

Powdered borax added to the water when washing fine white flannel helps to keep them soft.

To prevent marmalade graining, do not boil it too fast, and take it off the stove as soon as a little of it jellies on a cold plate. Be careful that you have pure sugar for this and all preserves.

SISTER LIKES THE JUMPER DRESS TOO

Any little miss would adore this jumper dress. It delights in the fact that it is an exact copy of the grown-up mode. Even to the fabric which is a thin woolen in a small check pattern in vivid red tones.

The tailored blouse chooses white cotton broadcloth. The circular yoking, skirt necessarily attracts much attention with the growing miss, who so loves to feel important in clothes of smart sophistication.

Style No. 187 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 8 requires 2 1/2 yards of 39-inch material with 1 1/2 yards of binding for dress and hat; with 1 1/2 yards of 35-inch material for blouse.

Paris Hails Velvet as King of Fabrics for Season's Mode

BY ROSETTE HARGROVE
Paris—Velvet is probably the one fabric which all women appreciate. Few there are who do not know what wonders it can accomplish in the matter of adding sparkle to the eyes, enhancing the color of the hair and doing wonders to even the indifferent complexion. And velvet is to be the king of fabrics this season.

Never before in the history of the mode has there been such an almost universal use of every possible type of velvet. Always the winter fabric par excellence, for many years it had been relegated to the more formal type of evening gown, very dressed-up afternoon ensemble. Woolens in all their engaging modern expressions had ousted it from winter sports and other informal clothes. But this season velvet has come in again and is sharing favors with the jerseys.

Every woman will be able to satisfy this phase of the mode because of the extensive range of cloths in which velvet figures. Anyway the perishable, crushable and therefore expensive velvets are a thing of the past. Manufacturers have achieved miracles in this respect and the dull-surfaced, non-shiny Bagheera velvet that had such an unprecedented success last winter—and this winter too, for that matter—was the precursor of a number of ribbed, corrugated, gauffered and creped velvets which make them as economical as they are glamorous.

As Light as Silk
Of course, times have changed since the days of the velvet suit or frock which fond mothers invariably included in the winter wardrobe. The new velvets are as light, soft, and supple as the finest silks; even the corduroys are that way.

The great success of the season in the velvet family is undoubtedly the "Velours Paysan" or peasant velvet. It has a narrow, irregular, crepey weave, is guaranteed uncrushable, and will not shine. It has a dull-surface and is really an off-spring of Bagheera. Corduroy, Fructus and Descher are the proud ancestors of Velours Paysan.

Every couturier of course has used velvet in his or her particular way. Chanel's skirt-and-coat and dress-and-jacket ensembles are very practical and smart. For a restricted budget this idea is incomparable; the coat and jacket can serve for both sports and afternoon wear. With a change of blouse, hat and other accessories, the dress and jacket ensemble often will serve until dinner time, many of the dresses being short-sleeved and moderately décolleté.

The velvet afternoon dress that can be worn under a full or fabric coat also will be a necessary addition to the winter wardrobe. It can be as simple as an elaborate gown, and this does not only refer to cut and trimming but also to color. A serviceable dress naturally must be made in some unobtrusive color such as very dark red, brown or green, outside of the ubiquitous black and navy blue. But if it is going to be the one glamorous dress of the season, then let it be in one of the seductive new purples or soft greens or deep ruby reds, and have accessories to match.

Accessories, Too
Velvet accessories are going to do a lot, too, in the way of brightening up the more matter-of-fact ensembles. Chanel's velvet gloves and shoes to match her evening dresses will be worn by many smart women. Hats, belts and bags of some vivid colored velvet will be worn later on with black and dark browns.

Worth's huge-velvet ruffles of the same color or in direct contrast to the dress will be seen both for evening and afternoon wear. There are few of the more formal afternoon frocks of satin or crepe de chine that do not show some touch of velvet in the form of encrustations, collar and cuffs or bow and belt.

The dress and jacket ensemble in ribbed velvet, shown at left, was created by Francis and shows an interesting top treatment carried out in heavy wool lace. The velvet is brown, the lace a pale yellow, the hat trim yellow and red. Center is a wine-red chiffon velvet evening gown by Chantal. The scarf that covers the shoulders and is attached at the side of the décolleté can be removed to make a more formal costume. Heim designed the practical but smart afternoon frock pictured at right. Of dark green velvet, in the popular striped effect it is suitable for all-day wear with a coat.

THE STORY OF SUE

By Margery Hale

GRACE did not glance back. She didn't see Sarah's head resting on her arms, as she sobbed. Sue knew that Sarah was sobbing. Sue could tell from the manner in which her shoulders were shaking. Evidently everything wasn't going along as smoothly as her sister-in-law had pretended that it was.

The ride home was quiet. The car was making the last long white turn when Grace spoke.

"Sarah was merely putting on a brave front tonight, too, you know."

"Then you knew?" Sue asked, startled.

"Of course, silly. But you didn't. Not until you glanced up and saw her in the window or something. Your face is pretty but it tells everything. Sarah and Jack have had some sort of a rumour—you know the type—'come home and all will be forgiven and forgotten,' or something. Not like my domestic upheaval. More like yours. Only a little worse, I imagine. Sarah was trying hard to be gay. Now your quarrel with Jack doesn't amount to a row of nine pins. Anyone could tell that by the way in which you are being so dramatic about it. If you thought he was shipping for Singapore you wouldn't be weeping. You'd do something."

Sue smiled. "Perhaps. But can't any two people ever get along without differences?"

"Darling, you know how the course of true love runs, don't you?" Grace asked. "And the other varieties follow the same pattern usually. But you and Sarah will be all right."

Pity the Poor Bachelor, He's Goat for Whole Family

BY DOROTHY DIX

I see by the papers, as Will Rogers would say, that the new Irish Free State proposes to put a tax on bachelors. This is merely following the example of numerous other governments whose first thought, apparently, when additional revenue is to be raised is to sock it to unmarried men.

Legislators, most of whom are husbands and fathers, seem to feel that single blessedness is a luxury for which a man should be willing to pay, but it makes one wonder why bachelors should be a prescribed class.

It is rather curious how differently we look upon old bachelors and old maids. We coddle the spinster. Our hearts overflow with sympathy and tenderness toward her. We endow her with all the major and minor virtues and feel that we should be extra kind toward her because she is a poor, lonely creature who has been kept out of the holy estate by some unkind fluke of Fate. It never enters anybody's head that she may have stayed single because she wanted to and preferred celibacy to matrimony.

But everybody's hand, so to speak, is against the old bachelor. He may be as innocent and guileless as Mary's little lamb, but we look upon him as a wolf in sheep's clothing, and we attribute to him deep, dark, wicked deeds of which he is seldom guilty. At his best we are sure he is selfish and cynical and miserly. Nobody ever even casts a thought of sympathy in his direction, for all are convinced that the reason he didn't marry was just because he was too mean and self-centered to burden himself with a family.

Of course, this attitude toward the bachelor may be explained by envy on the part of his married brothers. They feel that he has been foxier and wavier than they have to have escaped the traps into which they have fallen, and when they perceive him spending his money on himself instead of paying for having little Mary's adenoids out and little John's teeth straightened and the wife's new ensemble they get green-eyed and have a natural desire to put a crimp into his liberty.

Women feel toward the bachelor as they do because of their sex loyalty. They have a resentment against him because he has outsmarted them and fooled them, and tempts to be led to the altar. They feel that he has cheated some woman out of a husband and that is nothing short of crime that he should be spending his income on gratifying his own tastes instead of those of a wife.

Personally a woman may have nothing against a bachelor. On the contrary, she may like him very much indeed, but there is just something in the sight of a man of marriageable age running loose that rouses all her match-making instincts and that causes her to make superhuman efforts to clamp the matrimonial hobbles on him, no matter how much he kicks and struggles to keep free. But you never see a woman make an particular effort to marry off an old maid.

But in spite of the popular prejudice against the old bachelor he is, in reality, a most estimable creature and fills a very vital part in the social economy. To begin with, perhaps not the least important of the functions he performs is being the answer to the hostess's prayer for help, because he is always available for dinner and for a good background at parties.

Attractive married men seem to have a fatal facility for marrying women who are a total loss socially, but who have to be dragged along wherever husband goes, but the bachelor has no such excess baggage as an innumerable. He is just pure gain and uncluttered indeed is the woman who has not one or two of them for her week-ends and bridge tables.

Pseudo-Squeeze Helps To Make Little Slam

BY ELY CULBERTSON

When a player at the contract table is forced to make five discards, it requires the drawing of correct inferences and the extracting of every bit of information from the fall of the cards around the table in order to determine what cards to hold to defeat the contract, if that is a possibility. There is a form of squeeze which sometimes results successfully that is not a true squeeze, because the Declarer is not in possession of the card which the defending player fears he has. This play, which often will work successfully even against strong opposition, has been given the name of the pseudo-squeeze.

An illustration of its success in a recent tournament was sent me by Dr. L. H. Shelly of Norristown, Pa. Dr. Shelly held the South cards on the following hand:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The Bidding:
South West North East
2♥ Pass 3♦ Pass
6NT Pass Pass Pass

The only explanation of why Dr. Shelly chose the unsafe contract of six notrump rather than the safe contract of six hearts or the speculative contract of seven hearts, which could have been made, was the possession of the honors in notrump—a mental hazard which is particularly effective in tournament play.

The Opening lead was the spade King, which Dr. Shelly won with the Ace, and immediately cashed seven hearts. East, who held potential entries in the diamond Queen and the club minor tenace over Dummy's Queen, was forced to make five discards. Feeling that he was compelled to defend both clubs and diamonds, he chose as two of the discards his two remaining spades, selecting as the others the diamond 3 and the club 7-2. Even with these favorable developments, the contract seemingly hinged upon the location of the club King. Dr. Shelly next laid down the diamond Ace and then the club Ace, upon which East played the club Knave. East was then thrown in with the King of clubs and compelled to lead into Dummy's diamond tenace for the tricks that made the contract.

While East was faced with a very difficult situation regarding the choice of discards, he should have seen the end-play coming and bared the diamond Queen at all hazards and saved the spade as an exit card. Had he thus played, the pseudo-squeeze could not have proved effective.

As a matter of scientific interest, it might be pointed out that the heart Grand Slam can actually be made on this hand, as the losing club may be discarded on the diamond King and both losing spades ruffed with Dummy's hearts. In the tournament in which the hand was dealt, however, no players reached the heart Grand Slam.

TODAY'S POSITION
The pseudo-squeeze is not a true squeeze, but is a term used to designate a play where one of the opponents, either through inability to read the Declarer's holding or through inattention to the play of the cards, is unable to make the correct selection of a discard.

TOMORROW'S HAND
The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

Daily Silence Period Is Advised by Patri

BY ANGELO PATRI
Did you ever notice how big a part silence played in everyday living? If you live in a big city you will laugh at me. Silence is not so noticeable there. If you live in the country, or if you were born in the country and have been transplanted to a city, you will understand.

The dawn comes silently. There is a deep stillness in that early hour, deeper than that of midnight. Usually the stars seem chatty at that hour and the moon is positively loquacious. But the dawn is still. Then along about middle day there comes a hush. The chickens lie quietly under the lilac bushes, the cat naps in the sun. The cows lie under the trees. It is rest hour. Everything in nature understands how to rest, or to be still.

We need to be still. Every one of us needs to observe a period of quiet during the day. When one is working hard it seems difficult to get even five minutes of quiet. Sometimes it is impossible. That does not do away with the need for it. If one keeps the idea in mind the chance comes. It is important that we take it when it is offered.

Go by yourself and keep still. Don't even try to find something to think about. Let your mind be as blank as it will for five minutes or so. After that thought will come and it is best not to fight against that but to devote one's energy to controlling the thoughts and making them the kind that will stimulate courage and effort. If you can't keep discouraging thoughts out of your mind long enough to feel rested, have a little book of meditations handy. Pick your own. I like Boswell's "Johnson, Peppy's Diary," and good anthology. Just a paragraph, an anecdote, a prayer, a line of thought. And silence.

I thought about this because, as I go through schools, I hear people working loudly. I feel the pressure of work and of eager hurried minds. I long for a moment of silence, a quiet period, when the teachers and the children can be still and listen to themselves as they talk to themselves.

I know a successful teacher who arranges her program so that every Wednesday shall be a quiet day. She speaks no more than is absolutely necessary. She will make a gesture rather than speak. The lessons go on in quiet, each child working for himself. This is possible because the class is ungraded, but couldn't the graded classes have set periods for silent individual work?

Mothers need a period of quiet

Flapper Fanny Says

Your Birthday

"LIBRA"
If October 15th is your birthday, the best hours for you are in the morning from 9:30 to 10:45, from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 4:30 p. m. to 5:15 p. m.

If you are at war with yourself or others on this October 15th, the stars are so mixed as to make for a resumption of peaceful conditions. Sit down quietly and iron out your own spiritual and mental difficulties, and if you are having marital difficulties, or are embroiled in strained conditions at the office, this is the day to see these situations healed once and for all. A good day to pick up the threads of old friendships, and an ideal day for parents to counsel their young.

Happiness seems to be assured you if October 15th is your birthday. This state of being will probably be a spiritual one rather than a material happiness, as your needs will tend to be such as cannot be satisfied by the mere things that money can buy. You are a religious person and are continually seeking after the truth and underlying realities of your existence.

Among your friends you will probably number many in high positions both in business and socially. Without any seeking on your part you will derive much good fortune from these associations in the way of favors and kindnesses. In your turn you will be able to offer them the advantages of your rare and discerning judgment, your sympathetic understanding, and your usually cheerful and optimistic outlook on life.

You, as one born on October 15th, are more likely to be called a person of indecision, rather than one of action. This is due to the fact you are always seeking the finer points and qualities of any given thing or situation, and when two avenues of action are open to you, you are inclined to sit back and mull over the matter on the good points of both. You must learn to act more quickly, to deliberate less, to see the practical side of things as well as the artistic.

Without seeking riches, you will find yourself possessed of all the material comforts; you may in fact find yourself a wealthy individual. You will probably marry young, and your greatest happiness will come from your family.

Successful People Born on October 15th:

If you prefer to call him third, I don't believe there is any law against it, although it is not according to custom. But certainly you can christen a baby what name you please, and call him by whichever of his Christian names you choose.

Dear Mrs. Post: My wife is abroad and will be away some time. I have just returned home from a visit where I was entertained by three married couples, all intimate friends of ours. I would like to entertain these people at my home. Could I have the three men for several days and then invite their wives for the weekend? Could you suggest something else?

Answer: No reason in the world why you should not have a relay party if you choose. Or if your wife is coming home soon, you might have a stag party now and this or another double party, on the eve of her return so that they who are also her intimate friends, will be there to welcome her when she gets home. Of course, you know, and I don't, whether she will be most pleased to have the house full or empty.

U. S. Chamber Maps 10-Point Traffic Plan

Would Coordinate Municipal Transportation, End Unfair Competition

Washington—(P)—A 10-point program for coordinating municipal transportation facilities, urging among other steps the prevention of unfair competition, was issued today by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The chamber said it was approved by its membership in a referendum vote on proposals advanced by a committee headed by Chester J. Barnard of Newark, president of the New Jersey Bell Telephone company.

One proposal failed to receive the necessary two-thirds vote. It would have had the public participate in the expense of additional transportation facilities when the cost could not be financed on the basis of prospective receipts.

The 10 proposals approved were: "A program for efficient and coordinated city passenger transportation taking into account the public benefits to be obtained per dollar expended by transportation companies or the public is vital to stability of property values and orderly development of urban communities."

"Investments in existing facilities should be utilized to the fullest extent compatible with the inherent advantages of each form of service."

Need Cooperation

"The solvency of all forms of local transportation requires cooperation for business leaders, public officials, and transportation management for fostering responsible private operation under proper regulation."

"Public regulation should encourage efficiency of transportation agencies, provide proper coordination among them, and prevent unfair competition."

"Development of differential rates for off-peak and short-haul service should be encouraged."

"Taxicab rates, in communities where there is extensive demand for taxicab service, should be designated by regulatory authority upon the basis of costs and reasonable profits, and charges should be determined by the taximeter."

"Franchises should be of the indeterminate type and be flexible in their terms subject to regulatory authority."

"There is urgent need for relief from oppressive special taxes, paying requirements, and other unfair burdens."

"Traffic regulation should give agencies of mass transportation fair opportunity to function efficiently in accordance with their capacity for service."

Friendly Indians to Meet on Thursdays

The Friendly Indian club of the Y. M. C. A. will hold future meetings on Thursday of each week, it was announced today by C. C. Bailey, boys' work secretary of the association. The first meeting will be at 4:15 Thursday afternoon, Oct. 20, and the boys will go on a hike down river and cook their own meals.

High School Clashes With Manitowoc Saturday

Don Johnston
Start at Half

Recovers From Ankle Injury; Dutcher, Campbell Still Out

APPLETON high school football team Saturday, will return to George A. Whiting athletic field after a three weeks' absence and will start its first game before the home folks with Manitowoc high school the opponent. The game will begin at 2:15.

The Orange has promised that this week it will get started in the first half the ball game instead of looking bad for some twenty or thirty minutes and then trying to overcome the other team's advantage. And there is no reason why the squad shouldn't get started early for the Shipbuilders are considered one of the two weak teams in conference circles. Marinette being the other, and the worst.

Won Last Week

Manitowoc turned in a victory over Marinette last week by a score of 12 and 0. The lake shore boys scored in the first and last period and on two or three other occasions threatened but did not accomplish more.

Coach Joseph Shields of Appleton will have his squad intact for Saturday, excepting one half back, Chuck Campbell, who picked himself an injured shoulder last Saturday doing some sensational punting at Fond du Lac and Dutcher, a chunky guard, who hurt his foot several weeks ago.

Van Salm, fullback, bruised his hip the other night at practice but Shields is letting him take things easy and recover.

The return of Don Johnston to the high school backfield has perked up Orange hopes for a win and offset the loss of Campbell. Johnston hurt an ankle two weeks ago, tried to play last week with only fair success but now he is reported to be pink. His carrying of the ball and general good football sense are expected to help the highs a lot.

May Try 3 Quarters

Coach Shields again has indicated he'll try as many boys as possible Saturday. In that event Cy Burton, George Rooney and Archie Van Ryzin may get a chance to call signals. Burton did a good job last Friday and carried the ball well. Rooney also showed himself a comer but isn't the ball totter Burton is. Van Ryzin is a reserve who hasn't seen much action.

Ernie Ruppel probably will start—and finish—as fullback. His passing and kicking are needed badly as is his defensive play. Popp and Salm will work at the half positions, do some blocking and occasionally smash the Manitowoc line. Gmeiner and Fischer also may see duty as halves.

Four ends are ready for duty, four chaps who show about the same, and make the race for the starting assignments. Interesting. The boys are Cliff Burton, Buesing, Krause and "Vande Walle". They played excellent ball against Fond du Lac last week, seem to have learned their assignments and should get along well.

At the tackles there will be Justin Tillman and Bob Merrifield, two big fellows who are learning how to open holes in the other fellows' forward wall. Manier and Schultz will play the guards and Jack Bowers toss the ball from center and otherwise make himself useful as captain of the club.

Ships Are Confident

Manitowoc's win over Marinette last week has the Ships all stirred up. It was their first victory in conference play since 1930 and that of course makes it something to be stirred up over. The club held Marinette from advancing within the 35 yard line and managed to register 10 first downs to Marinette's two.

A youngster dubbed "Little Joey" Simon was the big threat on the Manity squad last week. He plays a halfback position and has a great facility for ripping off long gains on cut back plays. Another Manity threat will be Langenkamp, the other half whose plunging gave the Shipbuilders their second and last touchdown.

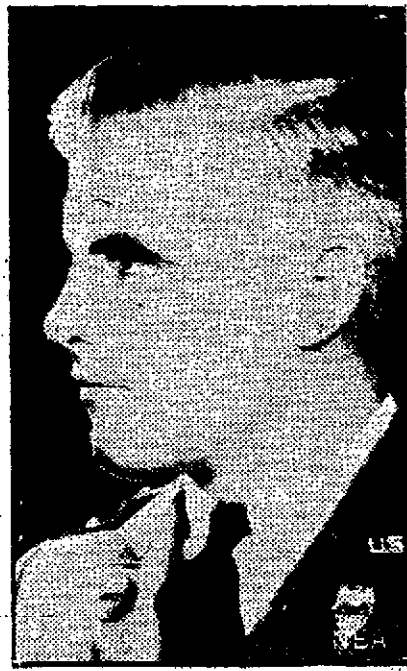

In other conference games tomorrow West Green Bay plays Fond du Lac and is slated to hand the Cards their second trimming. Sheboygan will entertain East Green Bay and is picked to accomplish mighty little against the Red Devil attack, which functioned so well against Oshkosh last week. Oshkosh plays Marinette and should win for a change.

Appleton Sophs Win From Kaukauna Squad

Coach Leland Delforge's Appleton high school future greats walloped Kaukauna. Bec team last night at the Third ward practice field by a score of 24 and 0. La Marr, diminutive Appleton quarter, was the outstanding performer as he directed Delforge's proteges. The youngster scored two touchdowns and passed to Bleier for third. Falk scored the fourth Orange marker. It was the second win this season over Kaukauna.

The Sophs will play two games with Neenah reserves on dates to be determined and will meet Kimberly high school.

Army Coach

LIEUT. G. H. DAVIDSON

A "shave-tail", a second lieutenant, will take over the coaching of West Point's football team next fall when Lt. G. H. Davidson assumes the position. Lt. Davidson succeeds Major Sasse who returns to troops next year. Davidson was a star griddler and has been an assistant at the Army for several years.

Wolves, Purdue
Get Greatest
Tests SaturdayOhio and Wisconsin Fight
To Remain in Big Ten Grid Race

CHICAGO—(P)—Western conference championship plans of Michigan, Ohio State, Purdue and Wisconsin will be made or broken tomorrow in two major games of the Big Ten schedule.

Purdue and Wisconsin, which meet at LaFayette, will start on even terms as far as their standing is concerned, each having scored one triumph, but for Ohio State, the situation is critical. With a tie with Indiana marked up on their record, the Buckeyes must whip Michigan at Columbus to remain in the race.

Northwestern meets Illinois and may run into trouble, but the odds favor the Wildcats by a big margin. In the other battles, Indiana entertains Iowa, Chicago takes a breather against Knox, and Minnesota plays Nebraska's rugged Cornhuskers.

Wolves Hold Edge

Michigan has the edge over Ohio in the doze, but the struggle promises to develop into one of the most brilliant of the season. The Wolverines operated impressively against Northwestern last week, while Ohio failed to reach expectations, but figures to be at its best against its traditional rival.

Wisconsin, suddenly ranked as a contender by its one-sided triumph over Iowa, is confident of upsetting Purdue, but the dope points the other way. Both have demonstrated power, and for the first time in several seasons, the Badgers appear to have the reserve power to go the route. Purdue is well equipped with reserves and, playing at home, has a distinct advantage. The contest appears a good spot for an upset.

Indiana, off its fine performance against Ohio State, ranks as the choice over Iowa, which has not yet developed into the best Coach Osie Soloman can produce. Indiana's offensive power bothered the Buckeyes, and Iowa failed to do much in the way of ball moving against Wisconsin. Northwestern has clicked in practice all week, and on form rules the favorite over Illinois, but the Illini, moving along quietly, have hinted at a surprise party.

Injuries may slow Minnesota up against Nebraska, but Chicago probably will take Knox in stride.

Sax Player, Mule Skinner
Would Manage Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, O.—(P)—Sidney Weil, president of the Cincinnati Reds, began to wonder today whether the sign outside the doors really reads: "Manager wanted. No experience necessary."

Since the word went out that Dan Howley had directed his last game for the Reds, Weil has been swamped with applications for the job. Even a saxophone player and a mule skinner have offered their "expert services."

One devoted student of the heavens wrote suggesting that his knowledge of the stars might be just the thing necessary to produce a winning team next year.

Weil, however, wasn't prepared for the application of a self-styled retired Mississippi planter, who recommended himself on grounds that "having handled mules all his life..." etc. However, Weil saw certain possibilities here.

THE RESULTS

Luke Ebel, Two Rivers beat Claude Sackett, New London, in three rounds.

Joey Biebls, Oshkosh, beat Casey Gregorich, Sheboygan, in three rounds.

Ray Kohls, Sheboygan, beat Ken Boomer, Elcho, in three rounds.

Johnny Polaski, New London, beat Norbert Gerarden, Green Bay, in three rounds.

Phil Dobbins, Oshkosh, beat Billy Matthews, Clintonville, in three rounds.

By Gordon R. McIntyre

OLD Kid Depression scored the only knockout on the American legion's amateur fight card last night when one of the smallest crowds, in the history of the sport here saw a pretty good program. But perhaps it also was the fact that the weather still is fair and fight fans haven't gotten warmed up to the sport. Time will tell.

Six bouts were staged for the benefit of the faithful and they had an enjoyable evening. They had an opportunity to boo several of the boys and that's always enjoyed, they had a chance to laugh at a couple and to revel in some honest to goodness smacking.

Luke Ebel won the windup from Claude Sackett, New London, because Claude insisted on coming to Luke and finally absorbing leather. But even that didn't bother him and he kept coming and coming until the last bell.

The first round saw things pretty much even. Both boys were protecting themselves, each was trying out the other's blows and defense. They were playing a merry march on the boards that make up the floor of the ring but aside from that there was nothing spectacular.

Sackett Gets Tired

In the second round Luke began to register on Sackett and soon tired the New London boy. Thereafter Luke had things his own way and once more Sackett stumbling around with glazed eyes and groggy. In the third round Sackett still was doing a lot of catching but Luke was getting tired too and the punches apparently didn't hurt the New London boy until late in the frame. He in turn was trying to connect with short jabs to Luke's head and they weren't accomplishing much either.

Little Joey Biebls, Oshkosh, replaced Zep Traurig in the semi windup against Casey Gregorich, Sheboygan, when Zep failed to show up for the weighing in. And once more Joey fought a swell fight from a pugilistic standpoint—and once more he got a lot of booes for his tactics. Joey just doesn't seem to do things the fans like.

If you've ever tried swatting a bee that was intent upon stinging you where it might show the most, you know how Casey felt about Joey. The Oshkosh youth was almost a head shorter than the Sheboygan boy but he skipped in and out, around, and all over Casey as the chair city youngster swung—and missed.

Casey's Face, Body Red

Joey seemed to wound up with perpetual energy and the difference in height and reach didn't bother a bit. He started by smacking Casey in the bread basket and then busting him one in the face when Casey bent over to protect his aching mid section. And thus the story was repeated until Casey's tummy was red as beef steak and his face red from gore and his mind perplexed.

Several times during the bout Casey landed but Joey didn't seem bothered and a couple times Joey landed flush on Casey's chin once spinning him completely around.

Ray Kohls a Winner

Ray Kohls, a youthful appearing, long armed, long legged chap and Ken Boomer, Elcho, a slugger, staged an interesting brawl. But it was a case of a long range rifle pecking away at a big mortar that couldn't make the range.

Kohls hit Boomer with everything but the chairs and had him in a bad way several times. Boomer on the other hand lay back during the last two rounds conserving his energy and hoping to land one solid wallop. He amused the crowd by the manner in which he stuck out his chin in determination about the time Kohls clipped him and then charge after his man with a vicious look all over his face.

Norbert Gerarden, Green Bay, replaced a Plymouth fighter in a bout with Johnny Polaski, New London. Gerarden lost but it was almost as pleasing from a boxing standpoint as it would have been to see other fighters win.

The Green Bay boy met an older fighter who kept his jaw deep behind his shoulder, and who had a longer reach. However, he gave a beautiful exhibition of stepping inside the other fellow's punches or out of reach and had his timing not been so bad he might have scored often than he did.

Polaski caught Gerarden in a corner early in the first round and mixed up Gerarden came out none the worse for wear. It was evident that Gerarden was off on his timing for he blew his nose. In the second round it was pretty much the same story, Polaski piling up points but Gerarden showing a great defensive battle.

The third saw Gerarden forcing the fighting as Polaski seemed to

Carroll, Beloit Open
Big 4 Conference Season

MADISON—(P)—Most football fans in Wisconsin will train their attention on LaFayette, Ind., this weekend, where Wisconsin Badgers clash with Purdue in a game that has a bearing on the Big Ten championship.

It will mark a game between two undefeated teams, one of which appears destined to go to the championship of the conference. Purdue, victor over Minnesota last feat of Iowa promises to make the battle a tough one.

Mr. Football Fan in Wisconsin will have a few good games to watch within the state this weekend. There are only three games which will bear on the standings of the Teachers' college conference and only two of the teams in the Big Four conference are matched.

Friday night Coach Earl Burdidge's gridders of Stout Institute meet the Superior Yellowjackets at Superior under the floodlights.

Stout lost the opening conference game to River Falls last week but the defeat was by only three points, leaving the Peds with an excellent chance against Superior. It will be the first conference game for the Yellowjackets who have swept through all except one of their opponents this year.

Platteville clashes with Oshkosh on the latter's gridiron Saturday while Eau Claire plays Stevens Point to provide the latter with its homecoming game.

In dedicating its new football field, the Stevens Point Peds can take undisputed possession of first place in the conference by defeating Eau Claire. The Pointers are tied with Milwaukee, LaCrosse and River Falls at present.

week, is given the edge over Wisconsin but the latter's 34 to 0 defeat of Iowa promises to make the battle a tough one.

Then came the third round and Joey lost all his friends despite the fact his tactics usually are considered good ones for a boxer.

With a big lead he kept boring in on Casey and probably absorbing couple hard wallops. They and the pace he'd been setting tired him and he started to hang on and force Casey to push him away on the breaks. All of which is considered good tactics but which didn't meet with approval of the crowd which suddenly turned to Casey and hoped he'd muster enough strength to put Joey away.

When the Decision Was Announced

for Joey the fans booed lustily, not because of the verdict but because they didn't like Joey's antics in the third round. But perhaps Joey feels like Jack Sharkey—he doesn't care about the booes so long as he gets his prize and expense money.

It was hinted before last night that Freddie Chynewith, Manitowoc, and LeRoy Kohls, Sheboygan, had an old score to settle. And when they clashed in the fourth bout it appeared the stories were correct. Freddie won but it was a great old fashioned boxing marathon from the first tap of Mr. Steward's hammer to the last.

Freddie was short on reach but he smacked Kohls' body until the Sheboygan boy came down to his size, busted him around the face and head when he bent over and all together pummeled him so often and hard that Kohls will feel it for a couple days to come.

The echo of the first bell had hardly died when the boys moved into one corner and mixed leather with reckless abandon. They let up for a few seconds to get some wind and then went at it hammer and tongs again just before the bell.

Chynewith didn't seem to be phased by the exchange but Kohls' face and body started to get red.

In the second round they started where they left off in the first, Freddie having the edge and Kohls doing a lot of missing. Freddie kept up the pummeling of his opponent's body and Kohls gave notice that it hurt by making more than ordinary effort to protect himself.

The third saw Gerarden forcing the fighting as Polaski seemed to fire. When the New London boy did take the offense he failed to do much scoring as the Green Bay youth covered, stepped inside the punches or danced out of range.

Phil Dobbins of Oshkosh was far too clever for Billy Matthews of Clintonville who used all his energy grunting as he tried to land. The Oshkosh boy was cool and calculating, an excellent boxer and unmoved by Matthews' rushes. He also was better trained and in the second round hurt Matthews and thereafter had him as his mercy.

He brought down the displeasure of the boys who occupied the front row of seats on the south side the hall when he punched Matthews until he got tired and then tried to dump the Clintonville boy in the laps of a couple Annie Oakley customers.

Passes Marks Final
Badger Workout

MADISON—(P)—Suddenly turned into a title threat by their victory over Iowa, the Wisconsin Badgers were off for LaFayette, Ind., today, ready for a Big Ten game.

Although Purdue's smooth-running football eleven is given the edge by most everyone, the conversion of Wisconsin into the most promising darkhorse in the conference has quickened interest in the game.

SPURS

The same men who helped smear Iowa 34 to 0 last week will be ready for Purdue tomorrow and armed with new plays and more perfect timing should give the Boilermakers a run for their championship ideas. Dr. Clarence Spears rates Purdue the favorite but he also gave Iowa the edge previous to last Saturday's game.

Work On Passes

Yesterday the Badgers continued to work on passes, both on offense and defensively. And with Purdue polishing up its pass offense, the game should see a great deal of aerial bombardment from both sides.

The Wisconsin reserve line even took a stiff workout over the side while the first stringers went through a signal drill to perfect their timing.

A short practice today preceded the departure of the Badgers for Chicago where they are scheduled to remain until tomorrow morning. All of the men were in good physical shape. Coach Spears having taken no chances on injuries from scrimmaging during the week.

Kranhold At Center

Thirty-one men were on the roster that left for Purdue. The linemen who are almost certain to start against the Boilermakers are: John Schneller, Neenah, and Dick Haworth, Star, Idaho, ends; "Buckies" Goldenberg, Milwaukee, and "Moon" Molinaro, Kenosha, tackles; Capt. Greg Kabat, Milwaukee, and Mario Paetoli, Kenosha, guards; and Harvey Kranhold, Appleton, center.

The same backfield that started against the Hawkeyes are slated to start against Purdue. It consists of "Mickey" McGuire, of Hanoluth, and Joe Linfor, Des Moines, halfbacks; Nello Paetoli, Kenosha, quarterback, and Hal Smith, Milwaukee, fullback.

This quartet has been working together for two weeks. A second set of backs who have been drilling together consists of Leo Porci, Waukegan, quarter; Tom Fontaine, Akron, O., and Bobby Schiller, Milwaukee, halfbacks, and Clair Strain, Lamar, Colo., fullback. All will probably see action against Purdue.

S. Dakota Gridders Ask Coach's Removal

Vermillion, S. D.—(P)—Dissatisfaction of students with direction of the University of South Dakota football team had flared into open revolt today with a demand for removal of Captain Stanley G. Backman as head coach.

A petition asking Backman's resignation was presented to president Herman G. James just after the team, accompanied by the coach, had left yesterday for a game with the University of Cincinnati Saturday.

The petition was reported to have been signed by all but four members of the squad and to have contained a threat to refuse to practice or play after Oct. 17.

A. A. Stagg Is Retired By Chicago

Veteran Coach Will End Long Term With Maroons in June

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO.—One of the most engrossing chapters in American football today was in its closing pages, for Alonzo Stagg will retire as director of athletics and head football coach at the University of Chicago at the end of the year next June.

The grand old man of the Midway, Chicago's only athletic director, head coach, and head football coach at the University of Chicago at the end of the year next June.

Stagg, clear-eyed and not looking more than 50 of his 70 years, said he was "frankly, not content to do it," that he felt he was good for 15 or 20 more years of active service. His successor as football coach will be named by Mel Parr, who has given no indication of his choice. In announcing the retirement of Stagg, the board of trustees of the University said a new post chairman of the committee on intercollegiate athletics, had been created for him. Stagg, however, has not accepted the place.

Stagg has become almost as much a part of the University of Chicago as its beautiful Gothic buildings. He came in with its founding 41 years ago, becoming its first athletic director and later became the first athletic man to attain the rank of faculty member.

His contributions to the advancement of football have been many and he developed a legion of the greatest stars of the game. The late Knute Rockne often said that Stagg's technique furnished the basis of the Notre Dame system.

Stagg's heart broken. "According to my present feeling," he said, "I expect to be good for 15 or 20 years more of active service. I went into athletic work because it offered the largest opportunity for service through contact with young men. No scheme of life, which removes that contact, would meet my ambition. Whether I remain at Chicago or go elsewhere, I wish to be active in the field of coaching."

The old man's notice of retirement comes just when a football revival seems certain at Chicago. This year's team won its opening game and tied Yale, 7 to 7, last week, and with improved material appears set for the best season the Maroons have had since 1924. The present freshman squad promises that Chicago will be right near the top next year.

Over his long span of service, Stagg has set up a great record. In 40 seasons his teams have won 243 games, lost 104 and tied 28, a good share of the details coming during the past eight years when a paucity of material existed. In Western conference competition, his eleven won 124 games, lost 78 and tied 16.

Stagg was one of Yale's early football heroes and in 1888 was named as "end rush" on Casper Whitney all-American team, and later was named as "end rush" on the Yale team.

He is the senior member of the national rules committee of which he has been a member since 1906—the whole span of modern intercollegiate football. Happy when his teams were successful, Stagg never bemoaned defeats, and even in his poor recent seasons, attacked his problems with wholehearted enthusiasm. Most men of his caliber who have seen far in the future, visioning the truth about things which could not be seen by others. Coupled with this was Columbus' will which the scorn and sneers of his world could not sway and which he had set out to do. Bravery which sees beyond vision he had, too, the speaker said, and this protected him through the long perilous journey across the water. Most men of today are cramped by convention, afraid to break away the barriers which separate them and the deeds which are worth doing, the Rev. Schmitz added.

Short talks were given by Grand Knight, Walter Jolin and Past Grand Knight, Dr. F. L. Fitzgerald. The remainder of the evening was devoted to cards.

Replaces Bus With Large Automobile

New London.—William Raeburg, owner of the Interco Motor company which operates a bus between this city and Appleton, has replaced the bus by a large sedan. The bus passes with Appleton, Greenville, Hortonville, New London, and Clintonville and makes three daily trips.

Melchoir Leads Veterans' Post

Foreign Wars Group Organized at Meeting in New London

Special to Post-Crescent
New London.—The New London post of Veterans of Foreign Wars will be known as the Learman-Schaller post, named in memory of Paul Learman and Theodore Schaller, two New London men who lost their lives during the World War. This was decided at the meeting of the organization on Wednesday night at which a charter was drawn up and officers elected. Walter F. Brown, Oshkosh, presided. Officers elected were: Walter P. Melchoir, commander; Arthur Lasch, senior vice commander; Frank Shoemaker, junior vice commander; and Charles J. Schaller, secretary. The charter was drawn up and officers elected. Walter F. Brown, Oshkosh, presided. Officers elected were: Walter P. Melchoir, commander; Arthur Lasch, senior vice commander; Frank Shoemaker, junior vice commander; and Charles J. Schaller, secretary.

The name of Learman-Schaller is given in honor of two young men who died in the service of their country and recalls that Paul Learman died of influenza while in service, while Schaller was killed in action in France. The body of the latter was returned to New London since the war and buried with military honors.

Meetings of the order will be held twice a month.

Columbus' Vision Praised by Pastor

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London.—The vision and will, the characteristics of a dreamer and a doer which made Christopher Columbus the man he was, formed the basis of a talk given by the Rev. Henry Schmitz, assistant pastor of Most Precious Blood church, before an assemblage of Knights of Columbus on Wednesday evening. The occasions was the anniversary of Columbus day. Men like Columbus are those who advance civilization, he stated. Always it has been men of his caliber who have seen far in the future, visioning the truth about things which could not be seen by others. Coupled with this was Columbus' will which the scorn and sneers of his world could not sway and which he had set out to do. Bravery which sees beyond vision he had, too, the speaker said, and this protected him through the long perilous journey across the water. Most men of today are cramped by convention, afraid to break away the barriers which separate them and the deeds which are worth doing, the Rev. Schmitz added.

Peters Will Not Seek State Post As Independent

Calumet County Farmer-Labor Club to Keep Candidate From Race

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction.—A meeting to promote the interests of a Calumet County Farmer-Labor club was held at Keller's hall here Wednesday evening, following a similar gathering at Sherwood last Sunday evening, at which the movement originated. Like the meeting at Sherwood, its immediate purpose was to forestall attempts of voters to write in an independent candidate for assemblyman in the November election the name of Henry M. Peters, Sherwood farmer, who lost the nomination in the September primary to Edward Bank of Chilton.

In withdrawing Mr. Peters at this time, the group is planning to conserve his strength for 1934, when it is the intention to nominate with him an entire slate of candidates who represent the interests of the farmers and laboring classes. The new club, by withdrawing Mr. Peters, remains neutral as to the present candidates for the assembly, endorsing neither Jerome S. Fox, Democratic incumbent, nor Edward Bank, Republican nominee. Mr. Peters, John H. Stumpf of Sherwood, and Russell Ryan of Brillion were the speakers at the meeting here, explaining the situation to approximately 50 voters who attended.

Quarterly Meeting Held By Marion Congregation

To Mothers whose children won't eat

NATURE knows best. Never coax a child to eat! Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite. When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, don't give small children a constipating cathartic that drains the system. California syrup of figs is all the "medicine" they require.

The Child's Appetite Will Always Respond

Specialists will tell you that a sluggish appetite almost always means the child has a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children seem to need is pure, unadulterated fig syrup. Children who get syrup of figs, now and then, soon have the appetite and energy of young animals! They keep well and grow strong and sluggish spells. Nature never made a finer laxative for children; and they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California syrup of figs. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. The next day, your child will be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the syrup of figs a few days and see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

A single If The promises made by the bottlers of California Syrup of Figs are true, and it will do the same for you. IF it's genuine CALIFORNIA. Don't accept substitutes.

Hold Final Rites for Mrs. Augusta Miller

Special to Post-Crescent
Manawa.—Funeral services for Mrs. Augusta Miller, for many years a resident of this place, were held at the Zion Lutheran church here. Monday afternoon, the Rev. A. E. Drager, officiating. Interment was in the Manawa cemetery. Mrs. Miller, 73, died at the home of Louis Geske, Friday morning, Oct. 7, after an illness of several months. She was born May 30, 1859, in Bellsfield, Germany. At the age of nine she came to this country with her parents and settled at Weyauwega. She was married to William Miller on May 18, 1879. They made their home at first in the town of Caledonia, later in Waupaca town, and then at Manawa. Mr. Miller died Aug. 7, 1920. Surviving Mrs. Miller are her foster son, Louis Geske of Manawa, and two sisters, Mrs. Bertha Loos of Oshkosh and Mrs. Fred Miller of Ogdensburg.

The marriage of Miss Julia E. Halloran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Halloran of Shiocton, to James Murray Carew, son of Mrs. Nellie Carew of Manawa, was solemnized Monday at 9 o'clock with a nuptial high mass at St. Patrick's church, Stephentown. The attendants were Miss Gertrude Halloran, sister of the bride, and John Carew, Jr., brother of the groom.

The bride is a graduate of Shiocton high school and the state teachers college at Stevens Point. She taught at Marion the past year. The bridegroom is a graduate of Manawa high school and attended the school of pharmacy at the University of Wisconsin. He is now a pharmacist at Minocqua, where he and his bride will make their future home.

A statement received by L. J. Stadler, county treasurer, from Philip LaFollette, governor, requests that all county treasurers adjourn the sale of delinquent real estate taxes from day to day until Feb. 1, 1933. This request, Mr. Stadler said, will be granted in Waupaca-co. This extension of the tax sale will not, however, excuse the delinquent taxpayer from paying interest and penalty. Up to the present time the extra charges amount to 2 per cent penalty, 9 per cent interest, and the advertising charges.

The interest charge will increase 1 per cent per month until the tax is paid so that on Feb. 1 the interest charge will amount to 13 per cent. In case the legislature passes a law to cancel all interest and penalty any such payment made will be refunded. Up to the present time there is still unpaid about $40,000 of real estate taxes in Waupaca-co. When the tax rolls were turned in last March there was about $190,000 delinquent.

Kaukauna Grid Squad Is Ready For Two Rivers

Coach Little Hopes for Opportunity to Put In Reserves

Kaukauna—Another road trip is in store for the Kaukauna high school griders, who meet Two Rivers Saturday afternoon at the lakeshore city. Two Rivers' high eleven has not fared as well as the Kaws in their opening games, but has never failed to give the Kaukauna teams a hard battle. Coach Paul Little expects to take his entire squad to Two Rivers. The game is scheduled for 2 o'clock tomorrow and John and Darling will officiate.

Two Rivers' high school teams have always presented the Kaukauna elevens with hard struggles, although they had been defeated by great scores before meeting the Kaws. Last year, after being bounced about by nearly every team in the Northeastern Wisconsin conference, they came to Kaukauna and led the Kaws 7 to 6 for most of the game. It was with great difficulty that the Littlemen finally registered a 13 to 7 victory.

Last week the Rivermen pulled a surprise act by holding the De Pere Redbirds, leaders of the Northeastern conference, to one touchdown. The marker was scored in the last period. Meanwhile Kaukauna was at Oconto defeating the Blue and Gold eleven of the Oconto high school. However, Coach Little was displeased with the performance of his team in the first two periods. The team was rather sluggish at times and idled away the first half.

There will be no large score in the Two Rivers game if the Kaws are responsible for it. Reserves are destined to play most of the game if the Kaws find the Lakeshore team easy. Coach Little is looking ahead to two hard games before facing the powerful Appleton rivals. West De Pere here and Neenah there will be the bill for the following two Saturdays for Kaukauna.

In the starting lineup Saturday will be the combination that started last Saturday. Trettin and Vils will be at end posts, Block and Rademacher, tackles, Fleming and Reichel, guards; Maue, center; Schuler, quarterback; Kuchelmeister and Siseho, halfbacks, and Van Dyke, fullback.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Knights of Columbus ladies met in their clubrooms on Wisconsin-ave Thursday afternoon. Card prizes were awarded to Mrs. E. R. Landreman and Mrs. Mary Maue, in five hundred, Mrs. A. Urich and Mrs. N. Heindel in bridge, Mrs. Fred Goetzman and Mrs. Joseph V. Derus in schafkopf.

A dancing party will be sponsored Saturday evening in the Moose hall by the Loyal Order of Moose lodge for members of the Moose and their friends. The lodge will have Monday evening in its clubrooms on Second-st.

The Fancy Work committee of Brokaw Memorial Methodist Episcopal church has completed plans for a Halloween party Friday evening, Oct. 26. Mrs. Wilmer Johnson and Mrs. Stanley Beguhn are chairmen of the arrangements committee. The party will be held in Epworth home.

The Neighborhood Schafkopf club met at the home of Mrs. Charles Beebe on Oviatt-st Thursday evening. Card prizes were won by Mrs. Jacob Regenfuss and Mrs. Harry Treptow. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Joseph Fatterson.

Scout Troop Plans Halloween Party

Kaukauna—Arrangements for a Halloween party were completed at a meeting of Boy Scout Troop 27 this week. The troop is under the direction of H. H. Grieschar. Instead of the meeting of the entire troop next Monday evening, three patrols will hold separate meetings. On Monday evening the Silver Fox patrol will start carving a totem pole and on Wednesday evening the Pine Tree patrol will start an Indian bead work. Richard Van Denzen has been awarded a merit badge in athletics. Kenneth Vils is the scout reporter.

Child Remains in Critical Condition

Kaukauna—Little change in the condition of Lawrence, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Faust, Black-st., was reported this morning. The child has not regained consciousness since sustaining a basal skull fracture Tuesday afternoon when struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Herman Hansen, Green Bay. The accident occurred about 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon on W. Wisconsin-ave.

Students Visitors At Fire Department

Kaukauna—Pupils of the primary department of the Outagamie Rural Normal school here visited the fire department Thursday, where they received some instruction in the fundamentals of fire fighting and an explanation of the various phases of the work. Miss Ruth McAfee was in charge of the group.

Complete Plans for Democratic Rally

Kaukauna—Final plans for a "hoe down" rally here next Friday evening were completed by the local Roosevelt-Garner Democratic club at a meeting Thursday evening in the Farmers and Merchants bank building. Harry McAndrews, candidate for district attorney, was the principal speaker.

Toonerville Folks

EPH WORTLE, THE EXPERT HECKLER, TUNES IN ON A POLITICAL SPEECH.

Socialists Plan Series of Debates

Expect to Meet Republican, Democratic Candidates on Platform

Kaukauna—Plans for a debate with both Republican and Democratic candidates were formulated at a meeting of the Kaukauna local of the Socialist party Thursday evening in Moose hall on Second-st. George Van Hoot and Roland Beyer were the speakers.

Van Hoot spoke on the failure of the old parties and scored the legislative record that the two parties made in the last session of Congress. He pointed out that both Republican and Democratic congressmen were active in the framing of the Smoot-Hawley-Grundy tariff bill, and that President Hoover signed it despite the fact that over a thousand economists signed a petition asking him to veto it.

Charging that the president was anxious to prevent the "moral fiber" of the unemployed from being weakened by doles, Mr. Van Hoot asked why the president then backed the establishment of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which he said has passed out billions in doles to bankers, railroads, and industries.

Roland Beyer, a student at Lawrence college, was the second speaker on the program. Beyer discussed the Democratic candidate for president and the Socialist program.

Church Members to Attend Society Meet

Kaukauna—Eight members of Brokaw Memorial Methodist Episcopal church will attend a meeting of the Appleton district Women's Foreign Missionary societies in Green Bay today and Saturday. The convention sessions are being held in St. Paul church in Green Bay. Delegates of the local society are Mrs. Pauline Kirkwood and Mrs. Rogers Gordon. Other members of the society who will attend the convention are Mrs. H. S. Cooke, Mrs. James Black, Misses Lottie and Lillian Bell, Mrs. C. Hammond, and Mrs. H. Conkey.

Women Return From Federation Meeting

Kaukauna—Ten members of the Kaukauna Woman's club have returned from Oshkosh where they attended sessions of the convention of the State Federation of Women's clubs. Delegates were Mrs. William F. Ashe, president of the local club, and Mrs. John Cleland. Others who attended were Mrs. H. S. Cooke, Mrs. J. J. Haas, Mrs. Meade Richardson, Mrs. George Haack, Mrs. Ben Prugh, Mrs. George Dogot, Mrs. James O'Connell, and Mrs. J. J. Martens.

Scouts to Observe "Parents' Night"

Kaukauna—"Parents' Night" will be observed next Monday evening at a meeting of Boy Scout Troop No. 20. Included in the program will be various scout activities. H. J. Lane is scoutmaster of the troop, assisted by Ivar Van Akkern. About 100 are expected to attend the meeting in Park school.

Legion Post Meets Tuesday Evening

Kaukauna—Kaukauna Post No. 41, American Legion, will meet Tuesday evening in the clubrooms on Oak-st. Discussion of monthly business will take place and plans will be formulated for an Armistice Day observance program.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

Kaukauna—The County Normal school board met Thursday morning in the offices of the Outagamie Rural Normal school here. Monthly business was transacted and bills were considered.

Southern Woman Likes Hobby; Its Winning Contests

Florence Kraus Enters All Kinds and Wins Many Prizes

BY JULIA BLANSHARD
Mobile, Ala.—Some women can't see a round-the-world cruise advertised without wanting to pack. Others need only one look at a "Hats Reduced" sign to start shopping. But Florence Lee Kraus can't see or hear of any contest being announced without putting on her thinking cap and getting into the race.

Miss Kraus is Alabama's prize lady, probably America's leading one. She has won first place in more contests than most folks ever enter. In addition she has won other prizes in more contests than she can remember.

"Think twice before you get into your first contest," is her advice. "Before you know it the contesting habit gets you. It is much worse than bridge or crossword puzzles!"

Prize Lots—Lots of Prizes
This unusual hobby started in the first place by Miss Kraus' genuine interest in homes. She is a realtor by profession. She was attracted, one day several years ago, by the announcement of prizes for floor plans for vacation cabins. That night, though she never had tried to draw anything, she began putting onto paper the kind of cabin she would like to own. She won the first prize, two lots in Denver. "I'm still paying tax on them," though I'll probably never see them," she laughingly said.

The following summer she got $15 for a clean-up-and-paint campaign slogan, a dozen toothbrushes for an ad suggestion and a crate of fruit for a recipe. She was off! Every contest from then right on down to the present has intrigued her.

Two years ago, competing with 348,000 contestants, Miss Kraus won second place and $1,000 in a home furnishing contest. Last summer she won a month's free tour of America's leading cities and finest homes plus $150 in cash, by re-styling her own home, showing what furniture it now has, what she would like to have and just where each piece of furniture would be placed in each room. Miss Kraus is nothing if not thorough. She made a pen and ink copy of everything to be used, even down to one window in each room to show the drapes, the shades and even the shade pulls.

Some humorous situations have arisen through her hobby. She doesn't smoke but has won several cartons of cigarettes and a box of cigars. She writes such a hand that even her best friend can't read it, but she won first prize for individual handwriting, plus a good slogan, for a fountain pen. She never has indulged in any exercise more violent than talking, which she does at the rate of a mile a minute, but won a beautiful athletic costume for re-styling an old established line. Just last month she won a crate of fruit, of the only variety that she never eats, for a 250-word letter on why this special fruit is invaluable!

"The very word 'kitchen' worries me, but I always going into contests for menus," she told me. This summer she won $100 for one menu. In addition to these prizes, she won a floor waxer, an electric range, a mechanical refrigerator, and various other household appliances, plus innumerable small cash prizes for everything from names for products to household hints.

Knows Her Subjects
Miss Kraus is fully as interesting as her hobby. Southern born, Southern bred, never in any word, she has an indefatigable energy that is astounding in anyone so slender and frail-looking. Once launched on a contest, she goes into research on the subject with a thoroughness that would put a

Start Remodeling Old Mill Building

Structure to be Ready for Occupancy Early in December

Kaukauna—Remodeling of the Mill building at the northeast corner of Third-st and Main-ave, which was badly damaged by fire last year, started today. The building will be ready for occupancy about Dec. 1, it is expected. It will be occupied by three business places on the ground floor, while the second story in the rear will house a flat.

Damage to the building, which is owned by the First Realty Co., was estimated at approximately $20,000. The building is to be occupied by the Kaukauna Times, a barber shop, and a news stand, it is reported.

A Bad Fix, Indeed
Chicago—Judge John H. Ehardt of Berwyn, wondered where all the defendants were when 25 men arrested in an alleged gambling house failed to appear. He wasn't enlightened until a stranger arose to speak. "The boys would have been here," he said, "only they thought the case had been fixed." Judge Ehardt then fixed it, forfeiting all their bonds.

scientist to shame. She digs into books at the library, queries experts on the subject, delves into history, gets literary references and ends by doing such a thorough job that she has had a fine time, whether she wins or loses.

She is as orderly about keeping files of everything as she is in digging up material. Hers is one of the best rounded libraries on the subjects of contests any private citizen has. So well-known is her hobby in her home town that whenever any club or commercial organization starts a contest they go to Miss Kraus for suggestions on rules, prizes and judges.

"I have no preferences in contests," she told me. "Any contest is to me what firing a pistol shot is to runners waiting for the signal to start. I'll make a stab at anything."

FIREWOOD STOLEN
Kaukauna—August Warneke, Dixon-st., reported to police Thursday the theft of some firewood piled in his yard. Police are investigating.

REPAIR SIDEWALK
Kaukauna—Workmen of the south road district Thursday were repairing the sidewalk in front of the public library on Main-ave. The walk is to be opened to traffic Saturday morning.

Oat Feed May be Substituted When Hay Supply Fails

Points Out Grain Is Efficient and Economical Alternative

With many Outagamie-co farms short on hay for winter feeding, a feed which is well worthy of consideration as an efficient and economical substitute for hay is oat feed according to Gus Sell, county agent.

Gus Bohstedt, of the Wisconsin college of agriculture, considers oat feed the most economical feed at present prices, which, comparatively speaking, costs less a ton than ordinary baled bedding and only half or a third of the price of hay. It is a by-product of the milling industry and consists of ground oat hulls, oat shorts, and oat middlings, having a guaranteed analysis of not less than five per cent protein and not more than 30 per cent fiber. As such, it has proved in feeding trials to be much like timothy hay when fed as a roughage to cows, horses, and sheep. Feeding trials with dairy cows have shown that oat feed may be fed as a substitute for timothy hay.

Oat feed, appearing much like ground oats, can also be used in a grain mixture—about two pounds of oat feed being required to replace one pound of corn or hominy feed. Being a ground feed, yet having the feeding qualities of timothy hay, it may be used in a mixture to take the place of both hay and grain. Such a mixture which is both economical and efficient

Sugar Beet Crop Is 70,000 Tons

Greater Acreage, Heavier Crop This Year Around Green Bay

By W. F. Winsor
Green Bay—Estimating the crop of sugar beets in the territory of the Menominee Sugar Company at 70,000 tons this season stating the number of men employed in the plant, on trucks, and in the beet fields and praising the growers for their outstanding cooperation with the company, R. E. Lies, manager, declared this week that sugar beets this season comprise the best farm crop.

A total of 633 carloads of beets, each containing from 38 to 40 tons, have been delivered to the plant, and 132 truck loads, containing about nine tons each. Of this total 182 carloads were delivered last Saturday. As the shortage facilities of the plant filled to capacity, the company decided to suspend the loading of beets until Oct. 17 or 18. There are now more carloads on the tracks than can be cut this week, Mr. Lies explained.

Twelve hundred more acres of sugar beets than last year were raised in the Green Bay territory this year, and the yield of this season's crop is 20 per cent greater than last season. Not quite one-half of the growers have delivered their crops.

Farmers may use beet pulp as a substitute for hay in feeding dairy cattle and the beet tops may be fed from the field or from silos. Six pounds of dried beet pulp has a feed value equal to 10 pounds of hay. By getting fertilizers in beet pulp, beet tops and molasses back to the soil the yield of farm crops may be increased.

Farmers were never as well pleased with the beet crops as this year and they are cooperating very heartily with the sugar company, according to Mr. Lies.

To say nothing of the men at work in the fields and on trucks, the sugar company is giving employment to 250 men in the plant in three shifts.

Contrary to former years, no foreign labor was imported to work in the beet field this season. All the work in the fields was done by growers and their families. The growers are pleased with this considerable change from foreign to home employment.

The plant will be in operation up to Christmas this season. It has been in operation 15 days and owing to an increased demand for a home product, no sugar is now on hand at the plant.

State Regrets Small Bag of Upland Birds

No Apparent Harm Done To Parent Stock, Ob- servations Disclose

Officials of the Wisconsin Conservation commission have expressed a regret that the four-day open season on upland game birds, which ended last week, did not make greater inroads on the state's stock especially of sharp-tailed grouse. While official figures have not been computed, it was estimated that last year's total bag of 250,000 birds was exceeded last week. No apparent damage was done, however, to the parent stock, as far as early observations have disclosed.

The commission had hoped that the coveys of grouse in the counties where hunting was permitted would be sufficiently scattered by hunters last week to have caused an effective check upon in-breeding. Propagation of the birds in Wisconsin is now approaching the peak of an upward cycle, it was explained today, and it was felt that if in-breeding could be inhibited the usually inevitable downward cycle would be halted.

While the bag limit of grouse was four daily or eight in possession, hunters returning from the northern counties have reported that they could have killed as many as 50 birds in a single afternoon, commission officials declared, and it was evident that the state's population of prairie chicken, sharp-tailed grouse and partridge, or ruffed grouse, was greater than at any time in recent years.

Comments on the open season have been highly commendatory. The commission reported, and it feels that the awakened interest resulting from the brief hunting period will bring about more extensive winter feeding this year.

The commission will liberate some 2,000 cock pheasants held in reserve at the state game farm, as replacements in the southeastern counties where an open season was permitted.

More Road Funds Diverted in U. S.

One Out of Every $5 Goes For Other Purposes, Says Report

Washington, D. C.—One out of every $5 contributed by motorists to road funds through license fees and gasoline taxes is diverted away from road construction. This is shown by a survey of estimated diversions for 1932 as compared with expected road earnings.

Diversions of road funds has grown rapidly within the last three years, records show. According to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads' figures, $15,000,000 was used for purposes unrelated to roads in 1930, while in 1931 the total was $20,000,000. Decreases in collections from regular tax sources led many additional states to place extra burdens on motorists this year, with an expected $120,000,000 slated for diversion.

In 1931 motorists paid out nearly $835,000,000 in state license fees and gasoline taxes and in so doing they assumed nearly all the cost of state roads and one-fourth that of local roads.

By reason of the new federal taxes on gasoline, oil and sales of motor vehicles, parts, accessories, tires and tubes, motorists are now required to pay a quarter billion dollars more a year to do the same volume of motoring they did in 1931.

Roughly half of the quarter billion collected by the federal government is diversion, for about $125,000,000 of it will come back to motor vehicle operator, in the form of federal aid for roads.

The total amount therefore paid by motorists to support general government activities unrelated to roads is now in the neighborhood of $245,000,000 a year.

Aside from the fact that diversion forces motorists to bear government costs which should be shared by all, highway and tax authorities claim that it is illogical because of the need for road facilities and jobs in automotive circles it is a foregone conclusion that within the next 10 years several million more cars will be on the nation's highways. The need now is for jobs but in the giving of jobs actual present and future highway needs will be taken care of.

As proven in recent studies of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads nine-tenths of the money spent for concrete pavement goes quite directly into the pockets of labor. Engineering journals get a bit farther and say that nearly all the money goes to labor for at present the margin of profit is low all along the line.

Mills Claims Roosevelt Has No Real Plan

Treasury Head Opens Campaign to Capture Chicago for Hoover

Chicago (P)—The Republican barrage designed to blast Chicago's votes into the Hoover camp, was officially under way today.

Ogden Mills, secretary of the treasury, fired the first shot in the coliseum with an address charging that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee, is "completely silent" regarding methods to cure the depression—an issue Mills described as "the most vivid, the most complete, the most living" of the campaign.

President Hoover is entitled by every rule of the game, Mills said, to finish the program of reconstruction already under way. Inexperience, Mills declared, branded Governor Roosevelt as incapable of coping with the presidency.

"He would have to muster almost in a few days all that Herbert Hoover has learned through as bitter and hard experience as any man could face for three long years," Mills said.

"The only real issue of the campaign is economic recovery. And the Democratic candidate in three months of campaigning has refused to face it, refused to tell the people what, if any, plans he has made to deal with it."

"He has discussed vaguely what he would like to do after the depression is over; he has talked vaguely of the causes of depression; but as to how it is to be overcome, he is completely silent."

"The Democratic candidate's whole campaign apparently is based on the theory he can ride into office on a wave of discontent without stating his position or program."

Mills charged that the Democrats dared not reduce the campaign "to simple issues as to which of the candidates is the better qualified to deal with economic problems."

"The gigantic reconstruction program he already has put into motion is Herbert Hoover's answer to the depression," he said. "Governor Roosevelt has no answer."

Philatelic Society Plans Anniversary

Tentative plans for a celebration to mark the fourth anniversary of Appleton Philatelic society are being arranged. It is proposed to hold a banquet and exhibit, probably on Nov. 26 and 27. The anniversary of the organization falls on Nov. 23. Detailed plans will be presented for adoption at the next meeting in two weeks.

Exclusive of tires, one make of automobile on the market uses 48 pounds of rubber in its construction.

Serve with all poultry

THE reason Cranberry Sauce goes so well with all meats and poultry is the delicious sweet-tart flavor of the berry itself. It's at its best made this way—

"10-Minute" Cranberry Sauce (Stewed Cranberries)

Boil 2 cups of water and 1/4 to 2 cups of sugar together 5 minutes, then add 4 cups Eatmor Cranberries. Boil without stirring (5 minutes is usually sufficient) until all the skins pop open. Remove from fire when the popping stops, and allow the sauce to remain in vessel undisturbed until cool.

We will gladly mail to you free our new Eatmor Cranberry recipe book.

U.S. Wanders Into Jungles, Texas States

Sees "Terrible Mess in Our Economic and Political Government"

BY CECIL B. DICKSON
Washington (U)—Representative Hutton W. Summers of Texas, today told the American Bar association that in the operation of "our economic and political government, as a people we are making a terrible mess of it, a colossal failure."

"There is no mystery about why we are in the condition in which we find ourselves," the chairman of the house judiciary committee said. "We have jazzed off into the jungles. We have lost our way."

"In working out our economic and governmental difficulties we must return to fundamental principles, to the audience to the laws of nature, the laws of God which govern governments."

Summers and Paul Reynaud, French statesman representing the Paris bar, were the principal speakers of the third day of the annual meeting. Tonight, the delegates will hear Marquis Reading, war time British ambassador to the United States.

The association also elects its officers today. The two candidates to succeed Guy A. Thompson of St. Louis, president, and Province M. Pogue of Cincinnati, and Clarence E. Martin, of Martinsburg, W. Va.

Want Constant Tax
The organization went on record yesterday to decrease dependency for federal revenues "on taxes on net incomes and to secure forms of taxes less susceptible to sharp fluctuation." The proposal was submitted by Robert E. Coulson of New York, who said it was not the intent of the federal taxation committee to place the association on record for a sales tax.

No action was taken on a committee report containing a bill to modify the anti-trust acts and provide for advance submission of contracts to the attorney general and the federal trade commission.

Attorney General Mitchell advov-cated before the delegates reforms in criminal procedure to expedite justice. He said a bill now before congress to empower the supreme court to make rules of criminal procedure "promises sweeping reforms in the interest of speeding the final disposition of criminal cases."

The 1,500 delegates and their companions were guests at the White House last night where President and Mrs. Hoover held their annual reception for the judiciary. "Voo Doo Fracture"

Speaking on the subject, "Are We Observing the Natural Laws Which Govern Governments," Representative Summers said that in efforts to work out of difficulties facing the country "we have recently even witnessed some voo doo practice, medicine men running around jangling their bells in an effort to drive away the bad spirits of fear which were supposed to have bewitched the people, when our trouble was clearly fundamental, not psychological."

Summers said that "all about us is success and progress" except in economics and government, but that "here we register the colossal failure of the age, and we are still registering it." He added:

"We are changing the distinctive characteristics of our system from a representative government, the thing which we inherited, to a bureaucratic government. . . . "We are reducing the states from the station of sovereignty to that of vassalage to a great federal bureaucracy."

"Every reservoir of credit in this country has been exhausted, we are told, except the federal treasury. As a matter of fact, that is exhausted."

We are now mortgaging the future tax paying power of the people. . . .

"We cannot maintain this federal government resting upon a structure of decaying states. We cannot maintain our great economic organizations of the cities resting upon an economic foundation such as the condition of the people provides."

"The situation requires the United efforts, and challenges the genius of the whole of the American citizenship."

Buffaloing the Court?

Dallas — District Judge Adams fined District Attorney McCraw $25 for contempt of court, after the prosecutor made sharp retort to the remarks of another attorney. McCraw returned to the courtroom, presently and turned over $500 nickels to Jim Barber, clerk, offering no explanation for giving the small change.

Deer Shoot Planned At Knapstein Farm

A running deer shoot will be held Sunday on the John Knapstein farm, it was announced today by Helm Hussner of Appleton. Fistic and rifle club. The farm is located a half mile north of the Greenville station on highway 78. Shoots will be held regularly for the next few weeks.

Deer hunters and sportsmen who want to try their luck can compete for the prizes awarded. They may bring their own rifles or use rifles which the club will have on the grounds.

The silhouette of a deer is mounted on a cable which is turned at any speed by a car. The setting is such that the hunter must fire when the deer flashes across an opening between trees which have been arranged to hide the animal. There also is a target on the deer the task being to register on the target.

Woman, 197, No Teetotaler
London—A hearty trencherwoman and no mean tea drinker is Mrs. Caroline Merriott, London's oldest woman. Celebrating what she called her 107th birthday recently, she put away four jugs of tea and large supplies of roast beef, potatoes, greens, plum tarts and cheese. For relaxation, she strolled in her garden and drank a glass of ale.

Chicago—Happy days are here again for Chicago school teachers. The $2,400,000 school payroll for the first half of April was met by the sale of tax warrants to local banks, and they were rejoicing in the knowledge that money is always welcome, even if it does arrive a bit late.

THIRD Anniversary:-

Just three years ago we started the retail delivery of our DAIRY PRODUCTS after much insistence from our friends. In October, 1929, we started deliveries with One Truck. As our business increased it became necessary to add more trucks, so that now, each morning a fleet of trucks leaves our plant.

First In SERVICE and QUALITY

That people have been pleased with our endeavor to serve them with better Quality Dairy Products is attested by the fine growth and increase in business we have had during our first three years in retail delivery. It is our hope that we can continue to serve satisfied customers and continue to grow in the years to come. You can always be sure that the Dairy Products from the Outagamie Milk and Produce Co. will always be of the very, very highest quality.

Safeguard Your Family's Health With Rich, Clean, Delicious OUTAGAMIE MILK

Consider the health of your family — especially the children. Their health and happiness depends upon the early stages of life. Feed these youngsters plenty of Our Milk . . . and in the years to come you will be more than repaid having happy, healthy, children.

You are assured of getting only delicious Dairy Products of the Highest Quality here because everything is produced under extreme sanitary conditions. Our Milk comes from clean farms whose cattle have been T. B. tested. The milk is all properly pasteurized before being used.

SYNOPSIS: Nan, her husband Jervis, and Ferdinand are saved almost miraculously from death beneath their car, which overturns because of a mysteriously loosened wheel. Two days before Nan and Jervis fall to death through a weak bridge, Robert Leonard is hovering near, yet Jervis sees nothing strange although Ferdinand describes a chemical to rot wood about which Leonard could have known.

DAMAGING PROOF
JERVIS turned to Francis: "So Leonard put your friend Eisenhalt's stuff to weaken wood on the bridge and then—did you happen to think out how he was going to arrange that it was Nan and I who would cross the bridge at the psychological moment?" "It didn't require much arranging. You brought Nan down here on a pouring wet evening. It was a certainty that you weren't going to wander round and show her the sights in the rain. It was certain that you would stop at that bridge and look down into the pool? Robert Leonard knew that just as well as I know it, and he's only got to slip over to the bridge any time in the night to arrange things so that the next person who walked over the bridge would give an exhibition of high diving?" "You only want that convenient witness of yours? Can't you produce him?" "He ought to have seen Leonard at the fatal spot." "I did see him," said Nan. "I told you I did." Jervis laughed. "Oh, yes—I forgot—Nan saw him! The case is complete! She looked out of her window in the middle of the night, and saw him by a flash of lightning! He must have been the best part of a couple of hundred yards away—but what is that to the eye of faith? We couldn't have an accident without Leonard, so somebody's bound to have seen him hanging round." "Come on, F. J. It's going to be a job to saddle him with the wheel coming off my car, but I suppose you're going to try." He tilted his black head and looked at them both. His frown was gone. His look had a surface brilliance of amusement, but under it Nan, at least, was aware of something fiercely challenging. "She thought," he hated me. I can't help it." "And then Ferdinand was speaking." "Well, he said, 'if Robert wanted to tamper with your car, you made it easy for him.' " "Attaboy!" murmured Jervis. "Well, didn't you? After you'd put us down at the front door you ran away back into the shade. I located the place after I'd closed up. Your oil had dripped down. There you were, half way down to the garage with that left front wheel in a lot of bushes." "And where was Robert till about the middle of lunch? Messing about with his car in the garage, wasn't he? And what was to prevent him stepping into the bushes on his way up to the house and operating on that wheel of yours with a wrench? He was going to be late for lunch anyhow, so he wouldn't be in a hurry. As a matter of fact he wasn't in a hurry." "Go on F. J., you're doing it awfully well." "I am going on. I'm going to tell you how I know he wasn't in a hurry. I stepped down to the garage and I had a look at his car. There were a couple of chauffeurs there, and we got chatty-conversation flowed. I wanted to find out just how much time Robert had really wasted over his old wreck. He didn't waste so very much. He left that garage at one-fifteen precisely. The second chauffeur hap-

Fewer Wisconsin Wives Employed

7.7 Per Cent Had Paying Jobs When Census Was Taken

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—A smaller percentage of Wisconsin wives are gainfully employed than in any other state in the east north central group. But the neighboring states of Iowa and Minnesota both had a smaller proportion of married women working than did Wisconsin when the 1930 census was taken, according to statistics made public by the Census Bureau Wednesday. Of the 821,285 married women in Wisconsin on April 1, 1930, 47,680, or 7.7 per cent, had paying jobs. In Illinois, 11.2 per cent worked; in Michigan, 10.6 per cent; in Indiana, 9.6 per cent; in Ohio, 10.2 per cent; in Iowa, 7.4 per cent; in Minnesota, 7.5 per cent.

In the country as a whole, 11.7 per cent of the married women worked. Considering all the women in Wisconsin 13 years old and over, a smaller percentage worked there than in the country as a whole, for 21.3 per cent of Wisconsin's women worked and 24.8 per cent of the country's women worked. More than half the unmarried women in the country had jobs when the census taker called, but less than half of the Wisconsin single women.

Of the 281,204 women in Wisconsin who were single or whose marital status was unknown, 138,434, or 49.2 per cent, worked, while 50.5 per cent of the women in this group in the United States worked. Of the 107,481 widowed and divorced women in Wisconsin, 28,705, or 26.7 per cent, were gainfully employed, while in the country as a whole 34.4 per cent worked. Single women, or women whose marital status was unknown, made up 64.4 per cent of the gainfully employed women in the state and 53.9 per cent of those in the country as a whole. Married women made up 22.2 per cent of the state's gainfully employed women, and 28.5 per cent of the country's. Widowed and divorced women made up 13.4 per cent of the state's working women and 17.2 per cent of the country's.

There were, on April 1, 1930, 1,009,970 women in Wisconsin 15 years old and over, and of these 214,819 had jobs. Married women workers have increased from 4.6 per cent of all the wives in 1890 to 11.7 per cent in 1930.

Can Europe Come Back?

This is the last of twenty-four articles on the possibilities of economic recovery in Europe written by H. R. Knickerbocker, noted newspaper writer and investigator, who visited all the countries of Europe in the preparation of the series.

vast reserves that Europe still possesses after three years of depression.

It has physical reserves of goods and food and muscle, mental and moral reserves of intelligence and courage that men have greatly underestimated. It has reserves of capacity to produce and consume that the indexes fail to show.

The indexes, the news of the crisis, invariably and unavoidably stressed the abnormal. But the astonishing aspect of Europe in the grip of depression is the normality of her outward face.

The crisis has been compared to a tornado. But one can walk the path of the tornado, the length and breadth of Europe, and not see a sign of its destructive violence. To the casual eye the tornado might have been a summer breeze. The houses are all standing. The avenues of traffic are still passable. Communications are intact. The victims are inconspicuous. The survivors show no trace of their experience. Order prevails and the commonplaceness of life is startling.

Food Shops Flourish Despite Crisis
People eat as much as they can hold. The Heurige shops of Vienna, the macaroni shops of Rome, the countless restaurants of Paris, the beer halls of Berlin and the chop houses of London are full today of patrons stuffing themselves with far more nourishment than science says they need.

People wear just as good clothes. The sidewalks of the Ringstrasse, the Corso Umberto, the Champs Elysee, Unter den Linden and Piccadilly are paced by a population that still selects its clothing for its style and not for mere protection.

People still work. They still produce. The factories and counting houses of Europe still operate. The idle man is still the exception.

People still buy. The shops of Europe still show a mystifying range of luxury articles. The closed shop-

door is still the exception. For people still have money.

Reserves Not Endless

What does the depression mean? It means that though the reserves of capitalist Europe are great, and though the population could live from them for years, it could not do so indefinitely. It means that though the cost of living has sunk so low that the average European lives better today than he did before, the producers who create the wherewithal for him to live could not persist forever to produce at a loss, and that prices had to rise, or the exception would become the rule.

It means above all, that the suffering in the depression is suffering among the exceptions. Europe has 400,000,000 population. Fifteen million adults, who should be working, are unemployed. Thirty to forty million jobless, with their families are not more than one-tenth of the whole population of the Continent. They are the exceptions.

Some of them, particularly the British 3,000,000, are generously cared for. The German 5,000,000 are today miserably cared for. Most of the others depend on their families. The suffering of the thirty to forty million, summed up, may be exceptional, but it is very real, and though they are a minority, they make a nation the size of Poland. The chief task of convalescent Europe will be to put these exceptions back into the ranks of the majority.

National Bankruptcies Cease
Few of the jobless are readers of economic indices. But few readers of economic indices are accustomed to attend some of the long-range indices that today hold promise that the jobless eventually will go back to work. It is characteristic of this crisis that one index had to be provided that fortunately is absent from ordinary business life. This is the index of national bankruptcies.

At the outset of this trip the nations of the world appeared to vie with one another in the speed with which they went into default. Between the fateful month of September, 1931, and May, 1932, Brazil, Uruguay, Bolivia, Hungary, Germany, Chile, Salvador, Jugoslavia, Greece and Latvia declared they could not pay their foreign obligations either in whole or in part and imposed moratoria on their public or commercial debt service.

During this period not a month passed without fresh accessions to the ranks of national bankrupts. But the number diminished, and Austria, in June, with her partial moratorium on foreign payments, was the last to say she could not pay. Nearly five months without a national bankruptcy has set a record and is one of the best signs that the credit crisis has passed its peak. It is not impossible that one or two other states may ask for postponement of payments this winter, but it seems unlikely that the mass movement will be revived.

Keep On Gold Standard

Altogether eighteen nations went off gold when Britain led the way, but since June not another one has fallen from the standard. The declaration by the Bank for International Settlements in favor of all countries returning to gold, the declaration of Britain that she intended eventually to return to gold, and the failure of any government to indicate an intention to adopt another basis of currency are the most encouraging signs that the only known standard for international exchange will be restored.

Control of foreign exchanges, worst impediment to trade, was imposed by about twenty nations, but since June the new impositions have been compensated by relaxation of previous restrictions.

Export bounties, fresh import duties, prohibitions and monopolies, and above all the onerous quota system, were imposed by twenty-five countries since September, 1931, and the movement has not yet stopped, but it has slowed down considerably, and within the last months the modifications of old restrictions has balanced the new ones.

The chief fresh threat to world trade, Britain's attempt at the Ottawa Conference to join tighter the economic bonds of Empire and thus to reduce the share of the rest of the world in Empire trade, has failed. The loss, if it was one, to Britain, is the gain of the world.

Dutch-Belgian Union Significant
On a smaller scale the Dutch-Belgian customs union has opened a path that could lead to the economic reconstruction of Europe where it followed by their larger neighbors. Contrary to Ottawa, it involves no discrimination against others. It is a positive, unqualified spur to trade. The pioneers have invited Europe to join them.

The net effect of all these major and minor elements in relief from trade restrictions has been to check the strangulation process just at the point when it seemed possible international commerce might go down to zero. It is the direction of movement news to report that in the second quarter of 1932 world trade kept up to the level of the first quarter.

According to the German Institute for Business Research it sank in value by 5 per cent, but this was almost exclusively the result of the continued price fall, and in volume the 2 per cent absolute reduction was seasonally normal. This is the first time since 1930 that world trade had failed to drop from quarter to quarter by an average of 30 per cent per quarter.

Even more encouraging than the mere fact of cessation in decline of world trade is the character that trade has taken on in the last months. No more vivid demonstration of the inexorable automatism of the capitalist process could be imagined than the way the debtor countries, despite all trade barriers imposed by the creditor countries, have turned their surpluses of imports into surpluses of exports and thus begun to balance their international payments.

Pressure Outwits High Tariff Walls

For the higher the tariff walls of the creditor countries went, the poorer became the debtor countries, and as they grew less able to buy they imported less, and though their own exports declined they bought less than they sold. For a while it appeared that national bankruptcy would be the only way out for many more debtor countries, but today the pressure of economic laws has forced their goods payments over many tariff walls and an equilibrium of international payments is being approached without the shock of further national moratoria.

Still more encouraging is the fact that the flattening out of the world-trade curve and the promise of an upward turn has checked the tendency toward national self-sufficiency in Europe. Autarchy has been defined as one of the three conceivable forms of collapse. Germany is the only country in Europe where political groups of importance have clamored for complete autarchy. Today the German Government has declared it did not foster ambitions to build a self-imposed blockade around the country.

Chancellor von Papen's declaration and the views expressed by Gregor Strasser, economic authority of the National Socialists, indicate that Germany will not promote the splitting up of Europe into national fragments, and if Germany refrains there is no country outside the Soviet Union that would voluntarily adopt autarchy as a goal.

Anarchy, Communism More Remote
But the other forms of conceivable collapse of the capitalist system, anarchy or communism, are even more remote today than they were three months ago. They are utterly out of the question for the Europe of this period unless war ensues.

Civil war has, for some outside observers, appeared to threaten most in Germany. But Germany today is further from civil war than she has been since the crisis put one-third of her workers on the dole. The authoritarian government of Von Papen with its control of all the armed forces, the Reichswehr and the police, is a unit of power that no political leader would challenge.

Chief hazard in Germany's political future is the extreme age of her President. At eighty-five years Von Hindenburg is the one authority that unites the Government with the people, but even without his authority the Government will remain in possession of the decisive arms.

The decisive arms are machine guns. Democracy was made possible by the invention of rifles. The overthrow of democracy was made possible by the invention of machine guns. Portable machine guns, efficient as the heavy type that peer from the hoods of the armored cars of the German police, might help restore democracy but until they are invented the "authoritarian" governments have the odds.

War Held Equally Unlikely

War between nations in Europe is as immediately remote as civil war. The most acute hazard of immediate war has been passed. Germany has threatened to rearm, yet France has not threatened to march into Germany. France is resigned to the inevitable. The evidence points to the probability that the French will do everything they can to delay but know they cannot prevent German rearmament. What will happen when Germany sets about the diplomatic "rectification" of the Polish corridor but this time with an army behind her diplomats is a question that will be settled after this crisis has been forgotten.

Much more important is the reflection that the revival began after the settlement of reparations at Lausanne. Had it been accompanied or could it now be followed by a settlement of the political debts, by whatever initiative and in whatever possible manner, there could be little more debate on the question whether the present upturn means just revival or recovery.

Lausanne at any rate removed the worst cause of political dissension in Europe and though many more remain there is one less.

In Position to Join in Upswing

The Danube states still await the reconstruction of their currencies, but a further rise in prices of farm products would melt their troubles. Italy has shown astounding resistance to depression, and has passed her financial crisis. France is still too rich to worry about the probable shift of her balance of accounts. Germany has for the first time the chance to shake off her post-war defeatism and take the lead in European industry. Britain finally intends to go back to gold and with her wealth and her optimism she is prepared to lead the European recovery.

The review of events, of territory and of future prospects shows that for Europe as a whole the worst hazards are unlikely, that the most annoying economic barriers have not been insuperable and that the most important indices of prices have turned positive. The prophets of disaster have been confounded by the rise in goods, stocks and bonds on every European and world exchange.

Prosperity 'Normality' Follows Depression

The gloomiest talk of economic catastrophe was passed over Europe's richest laden tables. Today, as the conservation London Statist puts it, "Circles which were inclined some time ago to believe that this was not an ordinary trade cycle are now busy discussing the 'normal' course of cyclical movements."

In the normal course of cyclical development prosperity follows depression. In all Europe there was discoverable no effective characteristic of this crisis not characteristic of previous crises. The only new element, the Soviet Union, is not now an effective factor.

New Building Is Sign of Confidence, Hughes Says

Washington—(AP) Speaking Thursday at the laying of the cornerstone of the new supreme court building, Charles Evans Hughes, chief justice of the United States, said: "The republic endures and this is the symbol of its faith."

"We are in a time of keen distress and widespread misgiving," the chief justice said. "It is a world of unrest. The personnel strife with lawlessness has assumed new aspects and has brought society to new and serious tests of its ability to protect itself. Few, if any, have the gift of prophecy."

"This edifice, however, attests confidence. It suggests permanence—not the permanence of stone and steel, but of an idea; not, in this respect, of particular formulas, but of a conception of the basic needs of our organized society."

"That confidence and suggestion of permanence spring no doubt from a belief that our people have political instincts and convictions which are not likely to be uprooted; that government of the people, for the people, by the people, notwithstanding all shortcomings, is not to perish; that such a government will continue to have, as it has had, its written prescriptions to secure distribution and limitation of governmental powers; that our territory is too vast and our political concerns too various to permit of any absolute centralization of authority. . . . That in some practicable way the talent of the nation for impartial determinations according to constitutional principles must find effective expression."

Recounting the wanderings of the court, Chief Justice Hughes said the new building was badly needed but that the chamber occupied now would be left with "keen regret."

"It will be long indeed," he said, "before this beautiful building can boast of the spiritual endowment which has blessed the old home."

"For the enterprise now progressing to completion in worthy meeting these needs are indebted to the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft more than to anyone else."

Hoover Gains By Shifts in Illinois Vote

But if He Carries State it Will be Little Short of Political Miracle

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Chicago—Heavy registration in Chicago of record breaking proportions—is ominous for somebody in this political year. It certainly indicates an overwhelming interest and participation which appears to exceed that of four years ago.

Thus far the Roosevelt sentiment has been dominant and devastating here. President Hoover has been so bitterly criticized that the people have not been in a mood to examine even superficially the qualifications of his opponent. The anti-Hoover spirit began with the hundreds of thousands of unemployed and the more hundreds of thousands on part time employment. Bad times came under Hoover—they may depart under another president if there is a chance. Thus do nine out of ten express themselves as party lines and traditions are brushed aside in an angry revolt against things as they are.

There has been lately a shift to Hoover of considerable proportions since the president got into action at Des Moines and Calvin Coolidge made his plea in New York. But even veteran Republicans shake their heads in doubt as to whether there is time enough to turn the tide in Illinois.

The Republican problem in Illinois is complicated by the fact that former Governor Len Small is the party nominee for Governor to the disgust of thousands of Republicans who have decided to vote for Judge Henry Horner, Democrat. The Chicago Daily News, published by Col. Frank Knox, intimate friend and adviser of President Hoover, is supporting the latter and the national Republican platform, but also is supporting Judge Horner, the Democrat, for governor.

Many of the small contingent are openly trading with Roosevelt-inclined voters down state urging them to vote a Roosevelt-Small combination and desert Hoover.

Tribune Shifting
The Chicago Tribune, which has been rather friendly to Roosevelt on his wetness and has been critical of Hoover for the last two years, is now shifting toward the president and declaring that Roosevelt is not "measuring up well."

"Governor Roosevelt," says the Tribune, "has been vigorous in general statements and weak in specifications. Roosevelt's position, for instance, on the bonus is unknown."

"As the period of doubt, which fortunately has its place in a campaign, comes along, the generalities of a candidate will not prove satisfactory. Mr. Hoover by reverting to established principles of his party appears to benefit thereby and Governor Roosevelt, by continuing with an undefined program of everything to everyone who wants it, raises the question of consequences contained in his election. Mr. Hoover is in trouble because he has yielded too much to near Socialism. He grows stronger as he returns to Republican doctrines."

Lauded For Speech
The Tribune also remarks that Mr. Hoover "has regained some votes in the region of Republican disaffection; he has picked up support and is stronger as a result of his speech at Des Moines."

The prospects are that if the election were held tomorrow Roosevelt would sweep Illinois by 350,000 majority and up. What the last two weeks here may bring is anybody's guess—for it is a campaign full of possibilities from day to day, especially as business men exhibit signs of nervousness in this already nervous locality where the collapse of Samuel Insull has left a trail of losses comparably greater than any single failure in the whole depression. The Republican state attorney is alertly pursuing the issue and endeavoring to prevent any political capital from being made against the party on that score. When Governor Roosevelt was here he denounced the Insull utility as typical of the thing he criticized about holding companies. While Mr. Hoover has not been drawn into the power in insulate and pyramided they on this issue the administration at Washington has not omitted any effort to push extradition proceedings lest any suggestion of laxity be made the basis for attack by Roosevelt.

People here are stirred up over the Insull catastrophe and the presence of some names of Democratic city and county officials on the list of preferred underwriters of Insull

Tuition in Milk

The old Mormon system of bartering goods for services has been revived in Ogden, Utah, where Weber College is accepting farm produce in exchange for tuition. The food then is used in the college cafeteria. Gay Wanggaard, above, a Utah milkmaid, pays a part of her education bill with a can of milk.

Electrical Spray Key to Radio and Compass Trouble

Electric Particles Spout From Sun's Surface To Earth

Washington—Streams of electric particles, shot out from the sun like water from a spinning lawn sprinkler, are pictured as the cause of electrical disturbances on earth in a report of the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

A new way to measure the activity on the sun that sends out these streams, described by Dr. Julius Bartels, may aid in overcoming these disturbances and pave the way to future advances in radio and wire communication.

Dr. Bartels has found the force of the streams varies through 27-day periods, the time of the sun's rotation, and changes in the force can be measured by changes in the earth's magnetism.

Earth 'Soaked' in Minute
When the earth runs into one of the streams of particles, it is "soaked" in less than a minute. That is why, so-called "magnetic storms," unlike ordinary storms, often begin simultaneously all over the world.

Magnetic storms are disturbance of the earth's magnetism and electricity caused by the streams of particles and have no connection with thunder storms or other storms due to "weather." They sometimes interfere with telephone and telegraph communication so much that it is impossible to send messages, and also disrupt radio transmission.

The streams take about a day and a half to reach the earth from the sun. They originate at certain definite points on the sun's surface, but not necessarily in sunspots, as formerly believed, says Dr. Bartels.

The streams may be electrons, securities has not helped the Democratic cause in sundry quarters. Illinois may be called a doubtful state in the sense that the straw votes indicate a somewhat closer gap between Roosevelt and Hoover than is true in other states, but the dominant complexion of the state just now is Democratic on both the state and national tickets, and it will take a political miracle to change the coloring in the next four weeks.

ions (mutilated atoms) or molecules. They do not actually reach the earth but are stopped by the atmosphere before they approach within 50 miles of the surface. Effect of the particles on the magnetic field that surrounds the earth is the actual cause of the magnetic storms.

No one ever has seen or measured these streams from the sun, but scientists have detected their existence indirectly.

One method of detection is observation of the aurora borealis or northern lights, which is a glow resulting from collision of the streams with gases in the upper atmosphere. Another is noting of changes in the earth's magnetism resulting from currents generated by the collision.
